Quite an Earthquake
Don't Sacrifice Your Stocks
Russia Means It
A Million-Year Machine
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ANOTHER financial earthquake, and rather severe. Wall Street can sympathize with the Hawaiian Islands, where they recently had 40 earthquakes within two hours.

The violent drop in stock values has nothing whatever to do with the value of properties represented. One or two stocks, for instance, that have dropped in value upwards of $100 a share will, in a few years, sell at a price $500 above the highest price ever reached thus far.

THE trouble is not with American values, but with 20,000,000 gamblers, frightened all at once, throwing their stocks overboard. A cattle stampede is not as dangerous as a gambling stampede.

Some sacrifice their stocks because they must, unable to meet margin calls.

Those that have bought intelligently, and not on a "follow your leader" plan, should, if possible, make the necessary sacrifices and hold on. They will be glad that they did so.

AT THIS moment, while the bewildered sheep join in stampede and sacrifice their wool, wise men are picking up what they drop.

Advice isn't of much value in an earthquake.

And unfortunately, it is too late to say, "Don't gamble." The advice for today is, "Don't get panic stricken, and throw good property away, if you can keep it."

THE amusing person at this season is the man who, for some strange reason, has not lost any money in Wall Street. He hastens to tell you about it, and his manner is that of someone who has done something remarkably brilliant.

RUSSIA'S recent executions of men accused of conspiracy against the government now number sixty-three. They include two priests and their assistants and two Jewish diamond merchants, Kleiner and Peitz, convicted of smuggling diamonds out of Soviet Russia.

In Russia it is necessary to live in accordance with the ideas of the Russian government.

FOUR Russians that flew from Moscow to Seattle, where they were well entertained, flew yesterday from Chicago to Dearborn, ate luncheon and talked with Henry and Edsel Ford.

Russia is grateful to Henry Ford, who has sent engineers to show Russia how to build factories and get production, and was among the first to ship goods to Russia, knowing they would be paid for. They were paid for.

GENERAL ELECTRIC, Gerard Swope, president; Owen D. Young, chairman, early gave the Russians a line of credit even bigger than the Henry Ford line. All of which is intelligent business.

NEW YORK'S hospitals own $1,000,000 worth of radium, 16 grams which wouldn't occupy much space on the tip of your finger.

That is a good investment. One million dollars' worth of the finest machinery that men ever made would wear out ten thousand times with that radium still working, sending out the electrons from its millions of atoms at frightful velocity, penetrating and destroying germs of disease, deadly to men without proper precaution.

A MILLION years will pass. New York will disappear. Oceans and continents will change their places. And the tiny particles of radium will still be at work.

IN PARIS, where American fools spend their money, and wise Americans study French efficiency, those that seek to please the fools have invented something new. Finger nails are to be dyed emerald green, in keeping with emerald jewelry, now fashionable, and other nails will be dyed sapphire blue.

The colors will be in keeping with the painted faces of some modern women.

SOLEMN celebration in Rome of the anniversary of Mussolini's march on the Eternal City.

Mussolini tells his enthusiastic followers: "Italy is implacable, young and strong," as he wishes it to be.

THAT the character of the nation has been changed there is no doubt.

It must be remembered also that the right to express dissatisfaction has been abolished.

Mussolini's extraordinary genius has ... on the safety valve for seven years.

Something happens usually when you sit on the safety valve.

Mussolini may be an exception, but safety valve exceptions are rare. Some day he must pass. What then?

10 DEAD, 64 RESCUED AS SHIP SINKS

Many Survivors in Serious Condition From Exposure, Injuries; Captain Drowns

KENOSHA, Wis., Oct. 29.—Between 10 and 15 men went down with the lake steamer Wisconsin in a severe storm off the Kenosha shore early today.

Sixty-four members of the crew and passengers were saved, many of them maddened and some near death from the horror and the exposure of hours in the wind whipped sea. The three passengers aboard were rescued.

CAPTAIN DIES

Capt. Dougal Morrison, bound to his duty and true to the tradition of the sea, remained aboard his ship to the last and went down with a score of shipmates. His body was picked up later by Coast Guard crews.

Chief Engineer Judas Buschmann, of Manitowoc, Wis., clung to a life raft as the steamer upended, rolled over and sank. Rescuers tried to haul him from the water, but, crazed by his plight, he fought them off and died.

The Wisconsin went to the bottom, four miles off Kenosha, only a few miles from where the car ferry Milwaukee foundered a week ago with a loss of 52 lives.

The last of the survivors, 15 men, were taken from a life raft by coast guards and rushed to hospitals.

PITTSBURGHER SAVED

Among the rescued were Sanders Grant, 24, of New York; John Crane, of Pittsburgh, and C. H. Sjostrand, 25, of Buffalo.

The rescue of the last survivors and the finding of the dead wrote finis to one of the most dramatic

LAD CARRIES BROTHER TO SAFETY

Youngsters' Matches Ignite Bedding in Seventh Ave. Hotel; Many Guests Routed

A 3-year-old boy, playing with matches underneath a bed in the Seventh Avenue Hotel at noon today, was believed responsible for a fire which chased excited guests into the streets and attracted thousands of downtown office workers.

There were four young brothers in the room. A few steps away in the lobby were another brother and two sisters, with a maid. The parents were absent.

Albert Kalish, 13, lying on the bed, saw smoke curling up from beneath, grabbed his 3-year-old brother Edward, and rushed out of the room to the elevator, followed by Manny, 7, and Stanley, 10.

WARN OTHER GUESTS

Down the elevator they were hurried as smoke filled the hallways of the fifth floor.

In the lobby they shouted the alarm. Fire engines arrived. Excited guests grabbed their belongings and rushed to the streets by elevator or steps.

EMPLOYES AT POSTS

Thousands gathered in the streets, most of them office workers on their lunch hour. Downtown traffic was knotted.

The flames meanwhile spread to the ceiling and the walls of the adjoining room, but were checked

GAINS WIPE OUT EARLY LOSSES

Steel Leads Upward Swing In Afternoon; Bankers Help in Checking Decline

Shortly before the close the market was steadying and prices of many stocks were holding at 10 to 15 points above the earlier lows.

Bankers felt the situation was coming under control. Powerful buying made its appearance around 1:30, and it was felt the crest of the selling wave had passed.

Call money was raised to 6 per cent. Sales had reached the unprecedented total of 13,838,000 shares by 2:10 o'clock. The ticker was running an hour an a half behind the market.

Governors of the Stock Exchange are to hold a special meeting at 6 p. m.

Secretary Mellon and Gov. Roy A. Young, of the Federal Reserve Board, held a conference early this afternoon, but no formal statement was issued. No statement was issued from the White House.

The banking pool was still taking stocks, but the force of the selling had lessened.

The big New York banks, including J. P. Morgan & Co., announced that they would require margins of only 25 per cent on street loans.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Stock prices, after breaking violently during the forenoon on the New York Stock Exchange, started rallying at 1:30 this afternoon when heavy buying began to counteract tremendous waves of selling. United States Steel, a pivotal issue, which had dropped 16 points to 170, rebounded to 186.

Other market leaders moved back up in sympathy. American Can, which had declined 36 points to 100, was bid at 119, and General Electric, which had slumped 38 points to 212, recovered to 244.

At this juncture the board of governors issued a statement in which they asserted there was no intention of closing the stock exchange. This was a denial of numerous rumors that had swept the financial district.

RECORD TRADING

Trading had been at a record-breaking pace all day, sales up to 2:10 reaching the amazing total of 13,838,000 shares. This was more than for the full session last Thursday—the biggest day up until then in the history of the New York Stock Exchange—when total sales aggregated 12,894,650.

The board of governors announced that they will hold a meeting tonight for the purpose of ironing out difficulties brought about by the enormous trading which has taxed the physical facilities of the exchange.

Only one firm was reported in difficulties, despite the sensational conditions attending the market. The New York curb exchange made public the suspension of John J. Bell & Co., for failure to meet engagements.

MORGAN BANKS AID MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Wall street's most stalwart banking institutions are lending strong support to members of the New York Stock Exchange in order to keep in hand the financial crisis arising from the enormous liquidation of stocks, it was learned after another conference of leading banking executives at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., today.

The conference broke up soon after 1 o'clock this afternoon, planning to convene again after the close of the market. Thomas W. Lamont, senior Morgan partner, received reporters but said there would be no formal statement until perhaps later in the day. In addition to Mr. Lamont, those attending the conference included Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank; Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase National Bank; Seward Prosser, president of the Bankers Trust Company, and George F. Baker, Jr., of the First National Bank.

It was learned that so-called banking pools organized last week had been heavy purchasers of stock both yesterday and today, and were continuing to take huge blocks of stock at successively lower levels, in order to prevent complete demoralization of trading on the New York Stock Exchange. Without this banking support, it was said that selling orders would so vastly outnumber buying orders that trading would be practically at a standstill.

During the morning it was announced that a large group of Wall street banks had lowered their margin requirements for demand loans to brokers from 40 to only 25 per cent. This automatically released millions of dollars in credit to support the market and prevent exchange members from being crowded into difficult positions.

STRATON, FIERY PREACHER, DIES

CLIFTON SPRINGS, N. Y., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, noted militant fundamentalist Baptist preacher, died at a sanitarium here today. He was 54.

Although seriously ill with a nervous breakdown for the last month, death came unexpectedly at 5:50 a. m., after a heart attack. His wife was at his bedside when he died.

He suffered a slight paralytic stroke last April and immediately after went to a sanitarium at Atlanta, Ga., for a rest. He returned to his home a month ago, but soon suffered from a nervous breakdown and entered the sanitarium here.

Dr. Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church of New York City, long occupied the news limelight as a colorful, vigorous and unrelenting crusader in many causes. His views on doctrinal and public questions were often at variance with his own parishoners and church leaders, but

Women Hurt As Cars Hit

Two women suffered shock and 10 passengers were shaken when two inbound Forbes street trolley cars collided this afternoon near Bigelow boulevard and Forbes street.

The women were Mrs. J. Bowler, of 4371 Schenley Farms, Terrace, and Miss Margaret McCandless, 1315 Beitz street. They were removed for medical attention before being taken to their homes.

An inbound Bloomfield car was stopped in front of Hotel Schenley and discharging passengers when a Forbes-Shady car smashed into the rear of the first trolley. Both cars were damaged by the impact. Traffic was delayed for 10 minutes.

H. Ridercomb was operating the Bloomfield car, while J. E. Muster was in charge of the second trolley.

Senator Watson Ordered to Rest

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The Dirigible Graf Zeppelin will make one more trip on November 6, after which it will be taken out of service and thoroughly overhauled. The November flight will be to Frankfort-on-Main.

T. H. George, Mayor's Office Clerk, Dies

Thomas H. George, 40, a clerk in the office of Mayor Charles H. Kline, died at his home, 5187 Stanton avenue, early today. He had been in the employ of the city 22 years. He was active in the affairs of the First Primitive Methodist Church, Holmes street, and was a member of the Masonic and the Sons of St. George lodges. Besides his widow he leaves four sons, the youngest 6 weeks old.

Rockne's Illness May Bar Him From Coaching

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame football coach, probably will be lost to his team for the rest of the 1929 season because of a dangerous infection in his right leg.

Fearful lest the blood clot in his leg spread sufficiently to affect his heart, his physician has ordered Rockne to complete rest. He has resigned himself to his condition and has promised his physician he will not disregard orders as he did last week when he attended the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech game at Pittsburgh, further aggravating his condition.

1,700 ORDERED OFF VOTE LIST

Approximately 1,700 names were ordered stricken from the voters' check list and ballot list in the First, Second, Seventh and Twenty-sixth wards by the registration board today, following an extended hearing.

These registrations were attacked the day following the primary election, and unless the court orders their re-instatement the individuals will not be able to vote at the general election next Tuesday.

The court last week ruled their assessment was legal, but that Delinquent Tax Collector Walter J. Christy had no right to collect taxes from them.

It was said at the registration office that unless county officials interested in the collection of taxes reach an agreement, the voters whose names were stricken from the list might not even vote at the coming spring primaries.

The petition of C. Alvin Jones, of the Bar Association, asked that 10,000 names recorded in the registration books after September 1 be stricken off. The Bar Association also asked that no more hearings on the matter be held until after the general elections. The latter request was granted.

U. S. Government Branded 'Misfortune' by Grundy

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Joseph R. Grundy, the Pennsylvania high-tariff Baron, delivered a sharp lecture to the Senate Lobby investigating committee today.

Facing a barrage of questions as to his activities in the capital and his tariff views, Grundy frankly stated that he came to Washington to get higher industrial rates, and on one occasion he astonished the committee by asserting that if he had his way some of the western and southern senators "would talk darn small."

The so-called "granddaddy of all tariff lobbyists" had a spirited exchange with his senatorial questioners. He even disagreed with them concerning the fundamental structure of the government, declaring if he had his way the large and wealthy states like Pennsylvania and New York would have a greater voice in Congress than the thinly-populated smaller states like Idaho and the Dakotas.

"We pay the taxes to run the government," he said.

Pressed further, Grundy declared that among the states whose senators should "talk darn small" were Arkansas, Idaho, Georgia, Mississippi and the two Dakotas.

Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, and Caraway (Dem.), of Arkansas, are members of the committee and were among Grundy's questioners.

"Then you don't approve the way the founding fathers organized this government?" he was asked.

"They did the best they could under the circumstances," he replied. "I think the present system, however, is a very great misfortune."

"You mean you feel it's a misfortune to have equal representation in the Senate?"

CITES TAX PAYMENTS

Grundy pointed out how the wealthier states, such as Pennsylvania and New York, pay the burden of federal taxes and yet the federal government is controlled by smaller states that pay only a fraction of the cost of government.

"Where six or seven of these western states, paying 2.66 per cent of the taxes control the welgan & Co. in the early afternoon. The conferees included Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank; Albert N. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase National Bank, and Seward Prosser, president of the Bankers Trust Company.

It was learned that the bankers' pool recently organized was buying stocks today, but was endeavoring merely to keep the market orderly, and making no effort for the time being to stop the decline.

WILD SELLING

The market opened with the wildest outburst of trading on record on the New York Stock Exchange, opening transactions of active stocks ranged from 10,000 to 80,000 shares, while on the New York Curb Exchange one block of 115,000 shares of Cities Service changed hands. Opening declines ranged from a few cents to $35 a share, but these were extended as the session wore on.

High-priced specialties, the so-called "blue chip" issues which have been the favorite mediums of the big "bull" operators, were the hardest hit in the opening declines. Auburn auto dropped $70 a share to $120, which contrasts with the year's high of $514. Allied Chemical, Midland Steel Products preferred, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Purity Baking, A. M. Byers, American and Foreign Power, Air Reduction, Atchison and International Telephone broke $25 to $45 a share. Scores of others, including U. S. Steel common, Radio, American Can and Fox Film, sold down $10 a share, or more in the forenoon.

After the disastrous break in the morning, prominent Wall street financers and other business men were reported to have jumped into the buying side of the market.

L. H. Seagrave, president of the United Founders Corporation and the American Founders Corporation, stated that a group with more than $48,000,000 in cash have been buying selected American stocks for the last two days. He said that, in addition, other affiliated companies have available nearly $40,000,000 in cash to be used in supporting the market.

STEEL FLUCTUATIONS

The nervous character of the market is illustrated by the fluctuations of U. S. Steel common, which opened fractionally lower at 185¾, rallied to 192, dropped to 181½, rebounded to 185, and then dropped back to 170. Other leading stocks acted in a similar manner.

In the streets, in the vicinity of the Stock Exchange, groups of small investors walked about aimlessly. Many of them wore sad, drawn faces.

The trading on the floor of the exchange was an unforgettable picture. As the trading became more furious there was a sharp pick-up in excitement. Brokers milled around the trading posts, waving small slips of paper and gesticulating as they bought and sold at the fastest clip in the history of the exchange.

HUGE SALES

Huge blocks of stock had been dumped on the big market at the opening. The first transactions of the day were along this line: 10,000 shares of Canadian Pacific at 200, off 3; 15,000 shares of Pan American B at 55, off 3; 8,500 shares of General Electric at 245, off 5; 20,000 shares Montgomery Ward at 52, off 7½; 25,000 shares of Union Carbide at 70¾, off 13¾; 45,000 Consolidated Gas at 95¼, off 2; 20,000 shares of Sinclair at 26⅛, off 1¼; 50,000 shares Standard Oil of New Jersey at 57, off 7¾ 25,000 shares Westinghouse Electric at 130¼, off 14½; 45,000 shares Anaconda Copper at 82, off 11½; 20,000 shares of Erie at 50, off 5; 50,000 shares of United Corporation at 26, off 7½; 15,000 shares of American Telephone and Telegraph at 225, off 7, and 10,000 shares of American Can at 120, off 6 points.

When the afternoon rally set in, the action of some stocks was impressive. Westinghouse Electric rallied from $100 to $124, Radio from $26 to $35, Johns-Manville from $109 to $121, International Telephone from $63 to $73, New York Central from $175 to $185, American Telephone from $207 to $216, and Atchison from $221 to $229.50.

Mellon, Hoover Hold Conference At White House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(INS.)—While stocks dropped dizzily on the New York Stock Exchange today the cabinet met as usual, but there was little or no indication of any governmental action of any kind.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon was one of the last members to leave the meeting, and it is understood he discussed the market situation with the President. He had nothing to say upon leaving the White House.

President Hoover was similarly uncommunicative. At the regular Tuesday press conference, he informed correspondents that he had "no news." Numerous questions had been addressed to the President, but he answered none of them.

The Federal Reserve Board was in session throughout the morning, and Secretary Mellon sat in the discussion before and after the cabinet meeting. Later Gov. Roy A. Young had a conference with Mellon and Under Secretary of the Treasury Mills.

It was rumored that the Federal Reserve Board might have a public statement later in the day, but members of the board declined to confirm this.

AVIATRIX' PURSE FOUND IN RIVER

NEW YORK, Oct 29.—(AP).—A diver recovered from the bottom of the North River a purse which Thea Rasche, German aviatrix, lost overboard last Wednesday when she sailed for Europe aboard the liner Resolute.

Miss Rasche had asked that a diver be sent in search of the bag, which she said contained her passport, several hundred dollars in money and several things which she valued because of sentimental attachment.

Among these was a gold cigaret case on which most of the famous aviators and aviatrices of the world, as well as other celebrities, had scratched their names.

OAKLAND CIRCLE VOTED DOWN

Council has affirmed an ordinance authorizing the improvement of the Boulevard of the Allies from Halket street to Coltart street at an estimated cost of $20,000.

Council also asked the department of public works to present legislation for the widening to 80 feet of Wilmot street from the intersection of Halket and Hodge streets to the intersection of Parkview avenue and Wilmot Street Bridge. Land for the widening will be taken from the southerly side of the thoroughfare.

Action on the boulevard extensions was taken at a hearing granted yesterday to members of the Oakland Board of Trade, owners of large sites abutting the thoroughfare and officials of the city planning commission.

Council's decision has eliminated a proposed traffic circle for separating vehicles at the present eastern terminus of the boulevard.

The circle was advocated by Chief Engineer U. N. Arthur and Chairman L. W. Monteverde, of the city planning commission.

Mosley Not Slated For Sir Esme's Job

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Reports emanating from Washington that Sir Oswald Mosley, brilliant young nobleman of the Labor party, is being considered as a successor to Sir Esme Howard, as British ambassador to the United States were declared unfounded by the Daily Chronicle.

Sir Esme will be retired in February and no hint as to who will be named his successor has yet been forthcoming from Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

Sandino to Visit Mexican Capital

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—After residing for several months in Yucatan, Augustino Sandino, Nicaraguan rebel leader, has planned a visit to this city with the hope of being received by President Portes Gil, according to an announcement by his friends here.

Sandino left Nicaragua some time ago, and having been granted permission to reside in Mexico, took up quarters in Merida after a brief visit to Vera Cruz. He avoided coming to the capital at that time.

Study of Metric System For U. S. Use Urged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—An investigation by the Secretary of Commerce to determine the possible advantages or disadvantages of the metric system of weights and measures for general use in the United States is proposed in a resolution by Representative Britten (R.), of Illinois.

He said the metric system is accepted generally for international trade and its use is required by law by a large majority of the nations of the world. In his resolution he cited that the legislatures of California, Illinois, Tennessee, North Dokata and Utah have asked Congress to enact legislation providing for the adoption of the metric system.

Another resolution introduced by Representative Britten would authorize the Department of Commerce to establish commodity quantity units for general use in merchandizing after 1935. The units proposed in his resolution would standardize the yard to the meter, the quart to the liter and the pound to 500 grams decimally divided.

300-Point Drop In Stock of Baker Bank

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(INS.)—A 300-point decline in the stock of the First National Bank of New York in the "counter market" today was another evidence of the damage inflicted on rich men's speculative accounts by the terrific smash in stock prices over the past month. First National is popularly known as "Baker's bank," having at its head George F. Baker, the veteran banker. This stock has recorded a total shrinkage of 2,500 points from the high of the year, declining from $8,800 to $6,300 a share.

National City Bank, headed by Charles E. Mitchell, dropped 47 points to $400 a share, completing a decline of nearly 175 points in two weeks.

U. S. SEEKS TAX FROM REED ON STATE FEE

Aid of Supreme Court Asked As Senator Wins Appeal For Exemption of $2,500

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The government would have the Supreme Court rule that Senator David A. Reed was taxable on $2,500 which he had received from Pennsylvania as counsel for the state in the settlement of inheritance taxes due the state from the Henry Frick and the Edith Ann Oliver estates.

In December, 1920, Senator Reed was appointed special counsel for the state by the attorney general of Pennsylvania, and presented his bill for $2,500 in 1921, for professional services in the cases. The government took the position that the money should be added to the other income which the Senator had received as a lawyer, and assessed an additional tax of $1,215. Senator Reed contested before the board of tax appeals and lost, but was successful in his appeal to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals which last July held that the income which he had received from the state was exempt from federal taxation.

The government takes the position that Senator Reed was not an independent contractor or an employe of the state in such a capacity as to exempt him on the fee he had received from the state.

NAVY'S STOLEN MONEY FOUND

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Navy Department officials announced today that they had found $47,000 buried in a chicken yard in Southeast Washington by Lieut. Charles Musil, who disappeared from Charleston, S. C., several weeks ago with a $54,600 payroll.

Lieut. Musil walked aboard the receiving ship Seattle in New York last week and surrendered. He turned over $1,500 in cash at that time. Officials have little hope of finding the remainder of the money.

Musil told naval officials he had buried the money in the chicken yard located behind a vacant house once occupied by him and his family. Armed with picks and shovels, the officers succeeded in digging up the cash.

ED GARBISCH BERNICE CHRYSLER

Miss Bernice, 21, daughter of the automobile magnate, Walter P. Chrysler, at a masquerade with Edgar W. Garbisch, former Washington and Jefferson College football center and captain. After W. & J., he went to West Point, where he was captain and an All-America selection. They've announced their engagement.

MISS CHRYSLER AT WASHINGTON

"We are very much pleased. Both Bernice and Ed have our parental blessing!"

That was the reaction today of Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Garbisch, 330 Allison avenue, Washington, Pa., today following announcement that their son, Edgar, former all-American football luminary at West Point, is to marry Miss Bernice Chrysler, daughter of the automobile manufacturer. The engagement was announced last night at a dinner in the Chrysler home, Great Neck, L. I. It will culminate in an early 1930 wedding.

"Both Ed and Miss Chrysler visited us in Washington last Thursday after their return from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where Ed had spent his vacation," Mrs. Garbisch related.

'Ed has been a pride and joy to us both," Mrs. Garbisch enthused, "and we feel happy with him in his and Bernice's happiness. We don't know the exact date for the wedding but expect it to occur sometime early in the new year."

Garbisch is now a New York cotton broker. He swept through Washington High school on a wave of football popularity. He entered Washington and Jefferson and in 1920 and 1921 was captain of the football and tennis teams. Then he entered the United States Military Academy at West Point.

From 1922 to 1924 he was picked for All-America honors by the late Walter Camp. In 1924 he won fame by beating the Navy team almost single-handed by a 12 to 0 score.

Miss Chrysler finished her education in the arts languages in Paris. She was introduced to society in the season of 1926-27. Miss Chrysler's father before his rise in the automobile world, was an obscure machinist in the railroad shops at Ellis, Kansas.

WOMAN, 4 MEN HELD IN THEFT

Detectives testified the arrest of the five followed numerous complaints of motorists that spare tires had been stolen from their cars.

Ackerman and Charles Wessell, 228 South Millvale avenue, were held in $5,000 bail each, charged with larceny and conspiracy. Wessell's wife was held on a conspiracy charge. SLAPIKAS FREED ON BOND

Coal Policeman, Facing Trial In Killing, Released When Sister Puts Up $2,500

Frank Slapikas, one of three coal and iron police held for manslaughter in the death of John Borkowski, Tyre miner, is en route to Wilkes-Barre today with relatives. He was released from the county jail last night on $2,500 bond.

Shortly before the jail closed Mrs. Adam Perluke, Slapikas' sister, appeared with $2,500 cash and asked for Slapikas' release. He was released. A waiting automobile whirled him away.

Slapikas' departure leaves only one of the trio still behind the bars. He is Harold P. Watts. Several weeks ago W. J. Lyster, lieutenant of the coal and iron police, procured his freedom under bond.

Charged with the murder of Borkowski, after a sensational trial, they were acquitted late in September, but were held on an additional charge of manslaughter. Attorneys for the trio, obtaining postponements, are seeking a change of venue.

The petition is before the State Supreme Court.

Attorneys charged that the criticism directed at the jury which freed the men has prejudiced the community against them.

Borkowski was slain February 10 in the coal and iron police barracks at Tyre. It was charged at the trial that he was beaten to death by Lyster and Watts. Slapikas did not appear directly in the testimony, only having been present during the affair.

BERGER CASE HEARING OFF

The hearing of Charles Berger, Federal street fruit dealer, charged with perjury in connection with the Joseph Engelsberg liquor racket case, was postponed until November 8. The delay was authorized by a United States commissioner at the request of John D. Meyer, acting United States Attorney.

Meyer had Berger arrested after the man had given testimony in Federal Court Monday of last week that repudiated former testimony. Previously he had been the government's star witness in the trial of Engelsberg, Hill politician. Engelsberg had been convicted of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws.

The hearing of last week concerned a petition for Engelsberg to get a new trial. During this, Berger claimed that he had previously testified under threats and duress from government attorneys.

Berger is free under $10,000 bond.

STEALS 6 CARS, PAROLED

Fred B. Patterson, 45, today was convicted of the theft of six autos by a jury in Criminal Court.

Patterson was immediately paroled for five years by Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff on condition that he reimburse the owners of the cars.

Patterson, for 20 years a foreman for the Duquesne Light Company, pleaded not guilty, contended that, in the auto business which he conducted "on the side," he bought the six cars, rebuilt them and sold them. He denied knowing the machines were stolen property.

Efforts of Police To Revive Man Fail

Efforts of two police wagon crews to revive Patrick Sweeney, 38, of 5301 Hillcrest street, with inhalators after he collapsed in his home, proved futile early today.

Police from the East End and Forty-third street stations worked feverishly for over an hour after they had been called by other occupants of the house. Death was attributed to heart disease.

Guggenheim Flying Fund To End Work Dec. 31

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The Daniel Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics, which has expended more than $5,000,000 in three years, will go out of existence December 31, the New York Times says today. Officials of the fund said that it would cease its activities because aviation now was beyond the need of further sponsorship.

Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the fund since its establishment in 1926, will leave shortly to take up his new duties as ambassador to Cuba. He is a former war aviator and the son of the copper magnate for whom the fund was named.

The fund was started with a gift of $500,000 for the establishment of a school of aeronautics at New York University. Later the fund was increased and aid was given to many aviation projects. The fund backed Col. Lindbergh's tour of the country shortly after his flight to Paris and performed a similar function for Commander Byrd. It supported schools for engineers, pilots and mechanics. At present it is conducting a $150,000 prize contest for safe aircraft. Final judgment in this contest will be made in November.

The money left in the fund on December 31, together with additional gifts, will be distributed among the various educational institutions which the organization has backed. It was said that $100,000 will be set apart for the establishment of an air school at some Middle Western point, probably Akron, O., where the Goodyear Zeppelin Company has its headquarters.

WIDE SEARCH STARTS BY LAND, AIR

Pilot Who Located Wrecked T. A. T. Air Liner, First Airman to Take Off in Hunt

International News Service.

BULLETIN.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 29. (AP.) A blinding snowstorm today halted aerial search for the Western Air Expres passenger plane missing since yesterday morning in the mountainous New Mexico-Arizona border country with five persons abroad.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 29—An intensive hunt, by airplane, automobile, horseback riders and Navajo Indians on foot, was launched today for the missing Western Air Express passenger plane, with five persons aboard, last reported sighted in the vicinity of the barren desert country near Navajo, Ariz.

George Rice, Western Air pilot, who found the wrecked T. A. T. plane on the side of Mount Taylor, in western New Mexico last month, was the first to join the air search from here. He hopped off shortly after 7 o'clock, accompanied by Gilbert Clark, a fellow pilot.

WEATHER CLEARING

Weather conditions here were cloudy, but fair visibility was reported from western New Mexico and eastern Arizona. Rain fell during the night in western New Mexico, but reports this morning said the weather was clearing.

RESIDENTS JOIN SEARCH

Hundreds of residents in the vicinity of Gallup, in automobiles and on horseback, augmented by scores of Navajo Indians afoot, started out early today into the canyons and heavily wooded timberlands of the mountainous country in that section to take up the search for the missing plane.

Officials here estimated that the plane had sufficient fuel to keep it in the air until about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

HEARD IN CLOUDS

Due in Albuquerque at noon, the ship was last sighted over Navajo at 10:30 a. m. At Pinto, Ariz., a few miles east of Navajo, a Santa Fe Railroad inspector said he heard a plane in the clouds at 11 a. m., but could not see it.

The plane was bound from Alhambra, a suburb of Los Angeles, to Kansas City.

Those aboard were:

Dr. A. W. Ward, of San Francisco, nationally known dental authority, en route to Fort Worth, Tex., to fill a speaking engagement.

W. E. Merz, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., en route to his home.

R. L. Britton, of Los Angeles, formerly of Denver, steward.

JANITOR ASKS COURT AID

Insisting that he was discharged from the Children's Hospital because he had served on the jury, Joseph Gorski, 328 Moore avenue, former janitor of the hospital, took the matter up yesterday with Robert J. Moore, clerk of Common Pleas Court. The latter discussed the case with Judge James R. Macfarlane, but the jurist made no comment.

It is known that Judge Macfarlane feels that the hospital incident was somewhat jumbled and believes that the notoriety which followed may result in some good in the future. Where employers send proper requests to the court for the release of an employe summoned to serve on the jury, such requests are given consideration, but no request was made by the hospital people, it is averred, in the Gorski case.

Gorski told Mr. Moore that Mary Barry also had been discharged from the hospital, because she was unable to occupy her position on account of being called as a juror. Mr. Moore says that Mrs. Barry told him she considered it a patriotic duty to serve and that if she was discharged she could hunt another job.

Milk Strike Goes Before Conference

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Settlement of differences between the milk producers of Greater Kansas City and distributors was sought today at a meeting of representatives of the two factions, called by the Chamber of Commerce. It is the initial attempt of a public body to intervene in the strike, now in its fourth week.

4 CONSIDERED FOR BURTON VACANCY

Veteran Senator Dies in Capital; Hoover to Attend Funeral in Congress Hall

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The names of four men were mentioned in political circles here today as possible successors to Senator Theodore E. Burton, who died in Washington last night.

They were Col. Edward W. Edwards, Cincinnati manufacturer, close personal friend of Gov. Cooper; Col. William Cooper Proctor, another Cincinnati manufacturer; Col. Carmi E. Thompson, of Cleveland, and Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, of Toledo. The governor, however, has made no announcement.

The passing of Senator Burton marked the third time that death has taken those who filled the Senate seat to which the late Frank B. Willis was elected to serve from March, 1927, to March 3, 1933.

Senator Willis died last year and former Governor Donahey appointed the late Cyrus Locher, Democrat, of Cleveland, to serve until December 15, last. Burton was elected to succeed him.

FUNERAL IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The body of Senator Theodore E. Burton will lie in state at the public hall here Thursday morning in accordance with wishes he expressed when he realized death was upon him.

Three years ago, when his seventy-fifth birthday was being celebrated with a dinner here, the Senator, half in jest and half in earnest, said he had two ambitions—to die in office and have a public funeral. Five weeks ago he realized this was to come true and summoned City Manager William R. Hopkins to take charge of funeral arrangements. Hopkins made three hurried airplane trips to the capital to discuss the plans, but did not disclose their purpose until the Senator's death last night.

At noon Thursday, the funeral procession will form at the public hall, and with a military escort go to the Euclid Avenue Congregational Church, where the services will be conducted by the Rev. Ferdinand O. Blanchard, pastor of the church. Burial will be in Lakeview Cemetery.

CAPITAL MOURNS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The national capital today mourned the death of one of its most loved and respected legislators, Senator Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio.

After a long life, devoted largely to public service and the advancement of world peace, Senator Burton died late last night, at the age of 77.

The senate today adjourned until 12:15 tomorrow after a three-minute session out of respect for the dead legislator.

HOOVER AT FUNERAL

Two resolutions were adopted during the brief session. One called for funeral services in the Senate Chamber tomorrow beginning at 2:30 o'clock. President Hoover announced he would attend this service. The other authorized the Vice President to apoint a committee of 19 senators to supervise the services and to accompany the body to Cleveland.

A short while before his death, President Hoover, himself, had called to inquire as to his condition. Messages of condolence and sympathy and hope for his recovery had been received from Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, and Secretary Mellon, of the Treasury Department, as well as from numerous members of the House and Senate.

BORN IN OHIO

Mr. Burton was born at Jefferson, O., December 20, 1851, the son of the Rev. William and Elizabeth Burton, and was christened Theodore Eliah. He attended Grinnell College in Iowa for a while, was graduated from Oberlin College in 1872, and received a master's degree three years later. Subsequently he was given honorary degrees by Oberlin, Dartmouth, Ohio University, St. John's (Md.) and New York University.

After teaching three years at Oberlin, he took up the practice of law in Cleveland. He never married.

At the age of 68, when most men are looking forward to retirement, he returned to Congress to round out a active life by seven years of service in the House and Senate devoted almost entirely to the furtherance of international amity.

By his return to both houses of Congress the veteran statesman established a precedent. No other American had ever served first in the House, then in the Senate, returned to the House and again served in the Senate.

Chicken Lays Egg While Riding In Plane

MAYS LANDING, N. J.—A story of a hen that laid an egg while flying a mile in the air sounds like nature-faking, but here is one that did it, although it can't be said that it flew on its own wings. Instead of that, the hen was sitting in a basket carried in an airplane and didn't know that she was any higher than her usual nest at home.

The hen belongs to young Jack Brogan, of Mays Landing. As a nephew of E. J. Peters, the boy was given the opportunity to make a flight in the Ford tri-motored plane that has been flying over Atlantic City recently.

Young Brogan wanted to take his hen along, and it went in a basket. Just before the plane came down again the hen began to cluck, and a fresh-laid white egg was found in the improvised nest.

ACTION DELAYED ON JUDGESHIP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The Senate Judiciary Committee deferred action on the nomination of Albert L. Watson to be a judge of the Middle District of Pennsylvania after hearing testimony from Attorney General Mitchell.

Chairman Norris explained that a sub-committee which investigated the nomination still was not ready to give its approval or disapproval and that its decision would be awaited before the full committee acted.

The attorney general, Norris said, told the committee he had investigated the nomination and had come to the conclusion that Watson was the best man available, although he did not believe he was "exactly the timber for the bench."

Under the circumstances, Norris continued, Mitchell said he felt Watson was the "best man" that could be obtained and that he had recommended the appointment to President Hoover, after Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, had indorsed him.

Deep Snow Blankets Four Western States

DENVER, Col., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Winter paid a real visit to the Rocky Mountain region last night, leaving a general snow from Montana to New Mexico. Parts of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico reported snow up to five inches.

Airmail transportation on the transcontinental line was paralyzed when mountains between Salt Lake City and Cheyenne were blotted out by fog and snow. Air mail was sent by train through the storm-bound region. Highways were reported open and passable, though some in Wyoming were slightly drifted.

LIBERTISTS SEE BLOW IN RULING

United States Supreme Court dismissal of appeals of three Beaver County men convicted under the state antisedition law, does not uphold the validity of the act, according to local Civil Liberties Union leaders.

Attorney Henry Ellenbogen, general counsel of the Pittsburgh branch, today termed the decision an unfortunate blow for the individual defendants, Peter Muselin, Tom Zima and Milan Rosetar. He said:

"In many similar cases, the court has pointed out that its action did not uphold the validity of the law, but was based entirely upon the particular cases. I believe that is the situation in this case. This decision simply retards a definite decision, but there is no question but that further opportunities will arise to focus the court's action on the validity itself."

The men were arrested in a raid on a Communist headquarters in Aliquippa in 1926. Two other prisoners were taken at the same time. One man was acquitted while the second was absolved by the State Supreme Court.

BOYS CONFESS 4 HOLDUPS

Three young men were held for court by Justice of the Peace Eugene Mehrlich, of Millvale, yesterday, after they admitted holding up four barbecue stands in Babcock boulevard Friday night.

The trio, William Birch, of Glenshaw; Joe Kleitz, and Harold Forsythe, both of Millvale, were arrested Saturday night by a state highway patrolman after a chase. Two revolvers and a flashlight were found hidden in the car, police testified. Kleitz and Forsythe were identified as the two who held up the Covert barbecue stand in Babcock boulevard.

Man Sent to Pen In Pantages Bribe

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—William R. McGee, bail bond broker, today faced a prison sentence of from one to 14 years as a result of attempting to bribe a policeman to "forget certain facts" in connection with the trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages on a charge of manslaughter.

MsGee was tried, convicted and sentenced yesterday by Judge Charles Fricke, who presided at the trial which resulted in the conviction of Alexander Pantages, husband of Mrs. Pantages, on a statutory charge. Both Pantages and his wife were convicted.

STREET PLAN READY FOR TERMINAL

Circle, Sunken Driveways Proposed in Pennsy-City Deal; Station in Penn Ave.

Council today received recommendations from a special committee appointed by President James F. Malone to develop surface and subway plans for streets in the vicinity of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's proposed terminal, including a passenger station.

Recommendations were:

1—Approval of the location of the passenger station on Penn avenue, between Twelfth and Fourteenth streets, and an express station between Sixteenth and Eighteenth streets.

2—Widening of Penn avenue to 120 feet feet between Eleventh and Eighteenth streets.

3—Creation of a traffic circle at the junction of Penn avenue, Eleventh street, Grant street and Liberty avenue, to separate through and local traffic. Through traffic to and from Penn avenue to be carried on depressed roadways. Local traffic between all streets entering the intersection to be carried on an artery the roadway of which would be higher than the present surface.

4—Construction of a street car subway to remove all street cars from the roadways of the intersection, to fit in with the cross-triangle subway previously recommended by the City Transit Commission.

BOND ISSUE UP AGAIN

The report was forwarded to the City Planning Commission. Malone asked the planners to return an answer at a special meeting of Council at 10 a. m. Thursday.

Malone also asked Winters Haydock, engineer of the City Transit Commission to report Thursday on the findings of studies carried on for years of a related street car subway for which the people voted $6,000,000 in the 1919 bond issue.

In connection with the widening of Penn avenue, it was proposed to close all streets from Twelfth to Ninetcenth, between Penn and Liberty avenues, and to create a diagonal artery connecting Penn avenue at Eighteenth street with Liberty avenue at Twenty-first street.

TO WIDEN STREET

Under the street vacation plan, the railroad company would deed to the city enough land on the south side of Penn avenue to widen that thoroughfare to 120 feet.

In consideration, the company would receive through street vacations the remaining land required for complete ownership of the entire area from Bigelow boulevard wall to the south side of Penn avenue, as widened.

The estimated cost of the physical work, including walls, bridges and pedestrian subways for the traffic circle and the construction of water and sewer lines was placed at $1,209,050.

The value of street areas proposed to be vacated in favor of the railroad company was appraised at $3,071,275. The value of land the city would acquire from the railroad company for the Penn avenue widening, and for the traffic circle was appraised at $3,962,540, which would leave a balance of $891,265 in the city's favor.

NO SUBWAY ESTIMATE

The report does not give an estimated cost of the proposed street car subway, or when it would be built.

The estimated cost of the physical work does not include the expense of re-locating surface and sub-surface poles, cables, conduits, wires and pipe lines of electric, telephone and gas companies.

Construction of streets and traffic circle may be begun next March, providing all agreements are completed and rights-of-way secured in due time, the report stated.

The recommendations were signed by a majority of the members of the special committee, including Chairman L. W. Monteverde, of the City Planning Commission; Chief Engineer Charles M. Reppert, of the Department of Public Works; Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Brenner, M. W. Cooke, of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, and Winters Haydock, of the City Transit Commission.

W. D. Wiggins, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, a member of the special committee, submitted a minority report expressing preference for a surface instead of an elevated circle traffic separation at the junction of Penn avenue, Eleventh street, Grant street and Liberty avenue. He also opposed the proposed street car subway under the traffic circle.

Heirs Drop Incapability Claim, Fight Signature

The three nephews of Martin J. Agan, millionaire Springdale, who are seeking to berak his will, abandoned in Orphans Court today their contention that their uncle was not mentally capable.

The contest proceeded with their charge that the signature on the will, which limits each of the nephews to $50 monthly, is not genuine.

The nephews' concession follows testimony of Agan's profitable investments. L. A. Burnett, of Springdale, told of Agan making substantial profits on the stock market and in Springdale real estate.

The nephews, Alfred E. Seiffried, of Lima, O., and Martin J. Seiffried and Leo J. Seiffried, of Chicago, contend their uncle was "tight" and wore shabby clothes.

Three Springdale business men testified today that they did not believe the signature was Agan's. They were C. A. Packer, George F. Johnston and W. B. White, a director of the Springdale National Bank, who served on the board with Agan.

After the plaintiff had rested, Attorney George E. Altar, close friend of the late station agent, and C. C. Henderson, of the Allegheny Steel Company, both testified that the signature was authentic.

10 DEAD, 64 RESCUED AS GALE SINKS LAKE FREIGTER

STORM-LASHED WATER BALKS RESCUERS

chapters in the history of the lake, a drama which started early today when there flashed through the night the SOS. of the steamer's wireless, imploring every vessel for aid.

Coast Guard crews immediately responded but the wind, howling at 80-miles-an-hour and gigantic waves made conditions impossible for an immediate rescue. Slowly the vessel foundered as crew and passengers took to the boats.

Twenty-one survivors were brought to Kenosha in two boatloads by the coast guard at dawn today.

Twelve men who clung to a life raft as the Wisconsin sank were rescued by a fishing tug and brought ashore.

Fighting the giant waves and a 80-mile northeastern gale, the tug Clifford Chambers came upon 15 members of the crew clinging desperately to a life raft. Other crew members were found floating in the churning waters and were rescued only with great difficulty.

The Clifford Chambers succeeded in making Kenosha harbor and as it docked, many inert forms were taken to shore apparently lifeless. The men were rushed to hospitals, where it was hoped pulmotors might save them.

Several of the men had crushed arms and legs and almost all were bleeding profusely from wounds.

TWO LIFEBOATS SINK

"There are at least two boatloads gone. That I know. I saw them tipped over and thrown into the water," was the statement made by Fred Treuver, lookout man on the Wisconsin, who was among the first survivors of the wreck to be brought into Kenosha.

Treuver was one of about 20 men who came off the ship in the first boat to be launched. It crashed against the side of the ship and sank.

"I can swim fairly well, but the cold was bitter and the battering of the waves weakened me fast. I grabbed hold of a bit of wreckage and hung on.

"While I was holding there two other boats came over the side and tipped over. Some of the boys struggled in the water, but others just threw up their hands and went down. I think the coast guards got some of them."

SINKS IN SIGHT OF LAND

Eighty persons fought for places in the Wisconsin's lifeboats as the alarm was spread that the ship could not make the harbor, which was within plain sight of the foundering ship.

SOS calls were sent out at 1:30 a. m. when water leaked into the hold of the craft and began to flood the engine and boiler rooms.

The waves battered the freighter about until the water finally entered the boiler rooms and extinguished the fires, rendering the ship helpless due to the absence of steam power.

RADIO TELLS STORY

The Radio Corporation of America's operator here was in constant communication with Capt. Douglas Morrison until the ship finally settled and the lifeboats were lowered.

Pleading hopefully for assistance, Capt. Morrison continued at the wireless key until most of the lifeboats had been lowered, then the radio operator here could get nothing more from the ill-fated vessel.

There was some speculation that the Wisconsin may have struck the hull of the car ferry Milwaukee, which sank in the storm of a week ago with its crew of 48. The car ferry went down at about the same place the Wisconsin was abandoned today.

The Wisconsin has been owned by the Goodrich company for the past six years. In 1916 she was rebuilt and is now registered as a steel vessel, 250 feet long, and of 1,921 gross tonnage. The boat has long been considered one of the most seaworthy on the Great Lakes and, Goodrich officials said, was the only boat of her kind to outweather last Tuesday's gale.

One Killed, Two Hurt As Train Hits Auto

CONNEAUT, O., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—An eastbound Nickel Plate passenger train, striking an automobile at a crossing near Amboy, west of here, killed one Erie woman and injured two other passengers in the automobile, which was wrecked. The car had been stopped to permit a westbound freight to pass and was driven in front of the passenger train.

Mrs. Gertrude Cottle, 48, died in a hospital six hours after the accident. Mrs. Eliza Seeley, 48, and her daughter, Patricia, 11 months, were taken to the hospital.

STRATON, FIERY PREACHER, DIES

he carried on according to the dictates of his conscience. He had a large following here and elsewhere.

DENOUNCED ROCKEFELLER

The Rev. Robert Stewart MacArthur, founder of Calvary Church, whom Dr. Straton succeeded as pastor, resigned from the congregation in 1920, declaring that Dr. Straton was "too sensational."

Dr. Straton viewed modernism with extreme alarm and in 1923 formed a Baptist Fundamental Association of the Metropolitan area of 250 pastors to "combat heresy in the church." Among those he denounced at this time were the late Rev. Percy Stickney Grant and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for their modernistic views.

Before the Baptist Bible Union of North America in 1924, Dr. Straton attacked a statement in which Mr. Rockefeller had praised the religion of today in contrast to religion of 100 years ago.

"The Rockefeller money is the greatest curse that rests today upon the Baptist denomination," Dr. Straton said at that time. In later sermons he deplored monetary gifts that Mr. Rockefeller had made to various Baptist organizations.

OPPOSED TO KLAN

In December, 1922, he told his congregation that the Ku Klux Klan "in the South and West was largely under the denomination and leadership of a lot of 'lame duck' preachers."

Dr. Straton attacked exhibitions at the American Museum of Natural History here purporting to trace the evolution of man from ape-like ancestors as "treason to God Almighty and a libel against the human race."

He denounced Clarence Darrow for his part in the defense of the Scopes trial at Dayton, Tenn.; accused Prof. Mather, of Harvard University, of "alienating the student body from christian ideas," and denounced schools from which the Scopes defense drew its expert witnesses as "hotbeds of infidelity and unbelief."

Dancing and the theater, he said, "may be ascribed directly to evolution's glorification of the flesh over the spirit." He termed the late Luther Burbank's statement that he was an infidel as "proof that this is the final goal to which present modernism leads."

HIT "SOCIAL CLIMBERS"

He attributed his difficulties with his own congregation to "social climbers who dislike my method of welcoming all who desire to join."

When Queen Marie, of Rumania, visited the United States, Dr. Straton criticized her from the pulpit for her "very keen commercial sense by accepting heavy honorariums for writing advertisements of lip-sticks, face powders and perfumed soaps." He attacked newspapers for giving her front page stories and allegedly neglecting "really important spiritual news."

Dr. Straton last came before the public in the presidential election last year when he launched a vigorous campaign against the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic nominee.

He charged that Mr. Smith was "the deadliest foe in America of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom." He challenged the then New York Governor to a debate, but they could never agree upon a hall.

Dr. Straton called Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt the "Joan of Arc" of the state and national election campaign and declared that the "victory was won by the preachers and the God-honoring women of America."

GRUNDY BRANDS GOVERNMENT 'MISFORTUNE'

Pennsylvanian Says Smaller States 'Have Too Much to Say;' Lectures Lobby Quiz

fare of states like Pennsylvania, paying 64 per cent of the taxes, there is something wrong about it," he declared.

"You would decide representation in the Senate on wealth instead of by states?"

"I would not say wealth, but national interest," said Grundy.

SENATORS WRONG TYPE

"I think these western senators should talk darn small. I don't think they ought to have as much to say as senators from the wealthier states."

"So the fault you find with the western states is that they don't senr the right kind of men here?"

"They don't send senators here who support the policies that brought Pennsylvania to its present position."

Grundy wouldn't go into personalities. He evaded a question whether he would be satisfied if the western states would send "Vares and Eyansons" to the Senate.

QUIZZED BY BORAH

At the outset, the questioning of the 72-year-old president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association was conducted by Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, who had much to do with writing the Republican platform at the Kansas City convention.

"I take it your interest in coming to Washington was for the tariff bill?" Borah asked.

"In the interest of enacting the Republican platform," replied Grundy.

"Have you taken any interest in the enforcement plan of that platform?"

"I have been interested in the platform."

"VARE NO EX-SENATOR"

Borah asked for a list of particular items in which he was interested. He replied increases in pig iron and carpet rates were given in the schedules he was interested in.

"You said you drew a platform at Kansas City," he continued.

"I said I presented a tariff resolution to the Pennsylvania delegation which was adopted and referred to the platform committee," replied Grundy.

The witness then read his resolution. It advocated a "general revision" of tariff.

"Whom did you send the resolution to the platfrom committee by?" Borah pursued.

"By our representative on the committee," he answered.

"Ex-Senator Vare?" inquired Borah.

"I wouldn't go that far yet, I would say Senator-Elect Vare."

"I have talked with Senators."

"With whom?"

DIRECT ANSWERS URGED

"With your colleague and with the Senator from Oregon."

Grundy persisted that "I am interested in carrying out the entire Republican platform."

"You are in favor of placing the farmer upon an economic equality with industry?"

"I am in favor of enacting the Republican platform."

"Are you in favor of equalizing the tariff duties?"

"I am in favor of giving the farmer all the protection he needs to keep the foreigner out."

Chairman Caraway and Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, interrupted to insist that Grundy give "direct" answers.

"Don't talk about cement to this committee when you are asked about farm products," shouted Walsh.

"Yes, for Lord's sake quit dodging and be candid with the committee," Caraway put in.

VIEWS ON FARM AID

Borah remarked that "the controversy in the Senate was how to equalize agriculture and industry and asked Grundy if he thought they could be equalized without lowering some industrial schedules.

The witness said he did and suggested keeping out the foreign merchandise and creating a "still larger market for the home producers."

"How would that help the wheat farmer, for instance?"

"Well, the wheat farmer is in the same position as some industries. He has a surplus."

"The steel industry has a surplus, but I don't see it in the same position as the farmer," observed Borah.

Grundy said he did not favor the export debenture.

He testified the farmer would have to adjust his production more nearly to demands; said he regarded agriculture as one "of the main points" in the last campaign; declined to interpret President Hoover's views on agriculture and said he had favored the extra session.

BORAH DISCLAIMS FUND

In 1924 Grundy said money raised in Pennsylvania went to the National committee and part had gone to Idaho.

"Not to help me," interposed Borah.

"You were a candidate," said Grundy.

"Since you raised the question, $2,500 was sent to me and I sent it back to the committee."

"Of that I don't know."

"I do."

WORK AT LEGISLATURE

Senator Walsh asked if the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association had spent any money in behalf of tariff legislation. Grundy said the association had not.

The Montana Senator inquired about Grundy's activities at the Pennsylvania Legislature. He said he usually attended the sessions and identified other representatives of the Manufacturers' Association who attended the sessions with him.

Grundy said that in some of the counties in Pennsylvania he helped Democrats on the state ticket.

"What Democrats did you help?"

"Fortunately we are just out of Democrats."

"If you found you couldn't beat a Democrat you helped eject him," inquired Senator Caraway.

TALKING FILM LOGS GRAF

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—"Around the World via Graf Zeppelin," a talking film log of the Hearst-Zeppelin flight in 11 days, will be shown for the first time Saturday at the Cameo Theater, Forty-second street and Broadway, by the Hearst newspapers in association with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

This venture is one of the most thrilling and amazing in history. On the trip, 20 passengers, one a woman, circumnavigated the globe in an achievement comparable to the trips of Columbus and Magellan.

The observer of this picture not only sees every part of the great dirigible better than he could have seen it had he actually been on board, but he also shares with the daring passengers inspiring views. He sees the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans, the Siberian wastes, the mountains of the American southwest and the rugged Urals of Europe, the stirring scenes in Lakehurst, New York, Tokio, Los Angeles and Chicago, and at the same time loses no detail of daily life on the great airship.

The picture opens with a talk by Dr. Eckener describing the trip. Then is shown the hangar at Lakehurst, shots of the giant craft in its cradle, and the crowds and the bands are heard.

There are glimpses of the control room, the bridge, of Knute Eckener at the wheel, of Lady Drummond Hay, the only woman passenger, and Sir Hubert Wilkins, the explorer; of William B. Leeds, heir of the tin plate millions, and of "Happy," Boston bulldog, who is the ship's mascot.

Lieut. Com. Charles E. Rosendahl, U. S. N., explains the trip. Remarkable views of Germany from the air are followed by panoramic views of the forests and rivers of Russia and Siberia.

BANKER'S TERM CUT 5 YEARS

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—His sentence reduced by five years, Charles Delos Waggoner, former president of the bank of Telluride, Col., today faced a 10-year prison term for his $500,000 fraud on New York banks.

The reduction, however, is not expected to affect the actual time Waggoner will spend in jail, as Federal Judge Coleman said he would ask the Parole Board not to free him until at least five years had been served.

Under federal law a prisoner may apply for a parole when he has served one-third of his sentence. The heavier sentence originally was imposed by Judge Coleman to insure his incarceration for the time the court thought just and proper. It was explained that a sentence of 15 years was the most severe ever imposed in this district for mail fraud and might appear to be too harsh.

Judge Coleman's action was forecast 10 days ago when he denied a motion to permit Waggoner to withdraw his plea of guilty and go on trial. Waggoner said he committed the fraud to save the depositors of his own bank from loss, but United States District Attorney Tuttle contended he did it to cover his own defalcations.

Waggoner, who is being held at the federal detention prison here, will be taken to the Atlanta penitentiary early next month.

Yankee Minister In China Asks Naval Aid

SHANGHAI, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Charles MacVeagh, American minister to China, today requested the movement of a division of United States destroyers from Manila to Shanghai as the result of disturbed conditions in the Yangtse Valley, scene of the latest Chinese civil war.

Severe fighting was in progress between Nationalist forces and the rebellious Kuominchun, or "People's Army," along the Lunghai Railway, west of Chengchow, Honan province, an important railway junction.

The fighting also was severe west of Yencheng, 75 miles south of Hengchow.

Dispatches from foreign sources at Hankow said the encounters were expected to develop into major engagements.

3 YOUTHS ASK $70,000

Three damage suits for injuries to as many boys, in which a total of $70,000 is sought, were filed in Common Pleas Court yesterday.

John Rausch, on behalf of his son Norman A. Rausch, claims $35,000 damages from the McFetridge Bros. Coal Co., Creighton, for a fractured right leg sustained while the boy was working about the tipple. It is averred that he was employed unknown to his parents. A pit car knocked the boy down and ran over the injured leg December 27 last. Edwin B. Goldsmith is counsel.

Anton Salonis, Jr., says he was struck by an automobile owned by George Kurutz and hurt internally and externally. The accident occurred September 19 last. He demands $25,000 damages through his counsel, H. M. Lubic.

Ralph Earl Hoffman, while crossing Pius and South Eighteenth streets September 25 last, was struck by a car owned by D. M. Smith and his shoulder and left eye hurt. He asks $10,000 through his counsel, John Wirtzman.

TWO CLUBS HIT IN DRY RAIDS

Two clubs in the East End were among five places raided by prohibition agents and constables yesterday.

Confiscation of a quart of whisky and gin in a club at 5995 Center avenue, resulted in the arrest of John Howley, 59, the agents reported. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Another club at 5604 Penn avenue, yielded the raiders several bottles of whisky, they said, in reporting the arrest of William M. Koerner, 42.

A 150-gallon still, 30 gallons of moonshine and 40 barrels of mash found in the home of Joseph Gilbert, 35, of 2806 Sanderson lane, Carrick, were destroyed by the agents and constables when they visited the dwelling, according to their report. Gilbert was arrested.

Raiding the stores of Nick Hrybuck, 38, at 2222 Forbes street, and Charles Batz, 33, of 2109 Sarah street, the agents seized moonshine and arrested both, they said.

Sheraden Street Grade Proposed

An ordinance establishing the grade on Talmadge way from Fire way to Sanborn street has been presented to Council.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—A dispatch to El Universal from Acapulco, Guerrero, said the three men of the crew of a United States Navy seaplane had to tramp so far over the mountains to obtain fuel that when they reached the nearest town they were exhausted and their feet so swollen they could not keep their shoes on.

The plane had been forced down by fuel exhaustion in a small bay in the state of Guerrero. The men, W. B. Atwater, E. K. Jaquith and Harold Carey, finally reached the town of Tonala, where they obtained gasoline and took it in a launch to their plane. Their voyage was resumed after five days' delay.

RARE PAINTINGS AID CHARITY

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Two large rooms in the Kleinberger Galleries, 12 East Fifty-fourth street, have been opened to art lovers eager to view the most magnificent exhibition of Flemish primitives ever held.

The exhibition, comprising masterpieces lent by private collectors and museums, is being held for the benefit of the Free Milk Fund for Babies, of which Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is president. Mrs. Hearst herself persuaded many of the owners to lend the pictures for public view until November 16, in honor of the charity closest to her heart.

One hundred of the world's art treasures, each of high money value, are hung upon the taupe velvet walls of the two rooms at the Kleinberger Galleries. They drew several hundred patrons, who stood rapt before these brilliant examples of Fourteenth and Fifteenth Century art.

Proceeds from the exhibition will be used to establish new milk booths throughout the city.

Among the religious subjects that predominate among the vivid hued masterpieces in America's first Flemish loan exhibition are numerous interpretations of the Madonna and Child.

One, of singular delicacy and beauty, is attributed to Roger Van Der Weyden, one of the greatest and most prolific of the Flemish artists. It is a Fourteenth Century wood panel, 23 by 16 inches, exquisite in coloring and in the perfection of its detail.

About it is a serene quality that seems to have been carried with it since its inspiration centuries ago.

Collectors who have lent works in honor of the Milk Fund include John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Andrew W. Mellon, Col. Michael Friedsam, Jules S. Bache, Martin A. Ryerson, Jesse Straus and Mortimer L. Schiff.

SOCIETY OPENS OPERA SEASON

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP).—In the grim and proud old edifice, the Metropolitan Opera House, whose soot-stained embattlements frown darkly down upon the encroachments of a new society, with its jazz and motor cars and night clubs, the social season was officially opened in New York last night.

Officially, too, it was the opening of the grand opera season of 1929.

But opera, on the opening night of the season in New York, is ever a matter of secondary importance. It is society's gala night. Society in satins and velvets, jewels and furs that make even the most gorgeous costumes of bygone days worn by the prima donna look almost commonplace, sweeps up the grand staircase, there to see and be seen.

HORSESHOE GLOWS AGAIN

So once again, while Lucrezia Bori sang the lovely wistful arias of "Manon Lescaut," the golden horseshoe sofely glowed, unable to subdue even in a darkened house its regal magnificence, and as the curtain lowered and the lights came on, all eyes turned upward and swept around that dazzling curve.

Society came late. Society, ever since there was a Metropolitan Opera House, always has arrived late on the opening night. So all through the first act—while outside at the old Thirty-ninth Street entrance, where the carriages used to roll up, flashlights boomed along lines of shining motor cars—there was a subdued rustle of silken fabrics through the house. Nobody cared. It was all a part of the thrill of opening night at the Metropolitan, still the most gorgeous event in the New World outside of formal receptions in Washington, at the White House, and at the embassies.

One thing that made the opening even more exciting that usual was the return of long skirts and waistlines. Fashionable New York has not taken particularly kindly to long skirts for street wear. In the crowds one sees along Fifth avenue there is no great change. Skirts may be an inch or two longer, but that's all.

LIKE OLDEN DAYS

But for evening wear women have welcomed back the long, sweeping lines that add inches to stature and volumes to elegance and grace. And so once again the old-fashioned crimson carpets at the Metropolitan felt the gracious caress of satins and velvets.

During the intermissions, except for the prevalence of sleekly shingle-bobbed heads, one could have imagined that this was an opening night in the days before the war.

Mme. Bori, always a favorite with society audiences, and Beniamino Gigli sang the leading roles in the Italian "Manon" of Puccini, and Tullio Serafin was the conductor. It was Mme. Bori's first appearance in an opening night performance since 1912, when she sang in this same opera at her American debut.

Two members of the company made their debuts last night—Miss Eleanor La Mance, of Jacksonville, Fla., a mezzo-soprano, who has been singing in Italy, and Alfredo Gandolfi, an Italian baritone.

Syria's Pet Camel Going in Parade

Famous Stars to Offer Radio Features Tonight

By DARREL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

TRULY, it is an evening of celebrities, Charles Hacket, Cornelia Otis Skinner, Paul Whiteman, Tom Waring and Mitzi will entertain.

These stars along with other excellent features—sacred songs, song story, Purol Band, Dutch Minstrels, Jack and Tony, the Fada Orchestra will bring happiness and delight into the hearts of many.

Cornelia Otis Skinner, distinguished stage star who has fulfilled the predictions of dramatic critics that she would follow the footsteps of her famous father, Otis Skinner, will give four of her best-liked readings during the Eveready hour, WCAE, at 9 p. m.

Charles Hackett, tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera, will contribute just one solo—"Celeste Aida"—to the KDKA concert at 8:30 o'clock, sponsored by Libby.

When Waring's Orchestra went on the rocks about a year ago there was one member who refused to stay shipwrecked. Fighting back like a Tartan, Tom Waring has come to be loved more than ever by the radio public. No doubt they will approve of "Here We Are" and "In the Hush of Night," when Tom sings them for the Freed Orchestradians during the KDKA concert at 10:30.

The mischievous Mitzi—bless her heart—will top the RKO hour through WCAE at 10:30 o'clock.

Prof. Paul Whiteman will rhapsodize for Old Gold with "Valencia," "Moonlight and Roses," and "Beautiful Ohio" on the WJAS waves at 9.

We Now Present

A well-founded rumor that Sacred Songs will be discontinued in the very near future reached our ears yesterday. The one program in the whole week that brings pleasure alike to the rich man and the poor man, and people of all sects, has a high place in the radio firmament and we just can't believe what we hear.

Sacred Songs and Seth Parker have become institutions more than features. People expect them as regularly as they expect their meals. We know big men who would do most anything to keep Sacred Songs on the air, but as we understand it, it is not a matter of finance but one of moral support from the listening public. Letters to KDKA or the Sponsor might help.

TOREADOR: Don D'Alberti, Spanish tenor who sings at WJAS frequently, has every appearance of a toreador. He cocks a sombrero hat on the edge of his head and it would just take a black velvet vest, trousers (with a few frills) to bring the spirit of old Spain into one's vein. Hoopla for a tambourine!

ALYCE. Pretty Alyce Wheeler, efficient secretary for P. A. Boyd at KDKA, has had her hair bobbed—her beautiful brunette locks. But she's prettier than ever, is Alyce. She's a girl with a sunshine disposition and the betrothed of Mr. Art Thielmann.

Madame Sturkow Ryder, famous pianist, the guest of Hamburg Brothers and WJAS while in Pittsburgh, will give a free recital tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Schenley Hotel.

Joe Biviano, staff accordionist of the NBC, who is on the air an average of six hours a day, spends his spare time playing for fellow musicfans in the recreation room.

Answer to J. C. Taylor: We would suggest that you write the Federal Radio Commission about KWKH using profane language. Charges of this sort, when proved, go very hard with stations.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

WCAE has been heard in Hartford, Conn., it is reported by Harold Rosenberg, 15, who is out for national DX honors. Harold states that he has brought in 170 stations in the United States, Canada and Cuba since October 19, 1927. C'mon, Pittsburgh.

Help! Help!

The Philadelphia mother helping Junior with his algebra problems is another of Miss Skinner's character sketches.

Motoring in the gay nineties in a noisy, wheezing Pope Toledo one-lunger in an experience so vivid in Miss Skinner's characterization that one can almost hear the small boys who used to shout "Get a Horse" and "Skidoo—23" at the battered old barges that once passed for automobiles.

AN OBLIGING BEAUTY DOCTOR

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair.

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

Comedy, Musical and Tuneless, Dominates Attractions of Stage and Screen

"Caprice" Is Airy Comedy With Lunt and Fontanne In Their Happiest Manner

By GEORGE SEIBEL

TAKE two parts of Freud, two parts of Wilde, and one part of bicarbonate of soda—and you have "Caprice," the Sil-Vara comedy with which the Theater Guild last night opened its Pittsburgh season.

George Seibel

But add Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, two of the most finished actors on the American stage, and this draught becomes champagne, sparkling with the gayety of Vienna, that other Paris on the eastern fringe of Europe.

Which means that the performance at the Nixon Theater last night was a delight for the sophisticated, an assurance that the drama still lives, a realization that the great actors are not all coffined or canned.

Lynn Fontanne, since she made her bow as the incomparable Dulcy, has kept her place near the top, or at the top, by her vivacity, her intelligence, her understanding of human nature and her power to translate it into terms of the theater.

And Alfred Lunt, whose versatility and attention to detail remind one of the only Richard Mansfield, shares this high rank with his partner, so that they have become twin stars whose luster blends into one great light.

As to the Play

Not that "Caprice" is a great play. It is a play of the sort our American dramatists very rarely write. Its values are too subtle, even subtler than the value of the dialogue with its pointed wit. Freud and Wilde is the closest formula—and then you must add the mixture for the heartburn which symbolizes that all these emotions are unreal and all this epigram only pyrotechnical.

Such a situation as this comedy reveals may be possible, but it's not exactly an every-day complication. Such a duel between two women is quite natural, yet it is seldom fought so adroitly. Such masculine egotism is extremely common, but not invariably so amusing. Such adolescent calf love is nothing unheard of, but rarely rises to such naive eloquence.

In other words, this comedy is like the music of Strauss, piquant and entrancing, but it carries us to an artificial world, where all the women are sirens and all the grown men cynics.

Here is a philandering lawyer who has a son sixteen years old. The lawyer is about to marry his latest flame, with whom he has been in love two whole years. The mother of his son appears and asks him to take the boy into his home. The latest flame realizes that this is the first step to the resuscitation of the old love affair, which will end in a marriage that would end all for her. So she proceeds to vamp the son of her lover and make his stay in the house impossible.

That's the whole story—but the story is the least of it!

Perfect Ensemble

The various characters have been raised by perfect ensemble playing to the three dimensions of actual humanity. All their little foibles have been expanded to delicate satirical sketches. Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne are not the only people in the cast. Lily Cahill as Amalia and Douglass Montgomery as Robert, the son, give rich portrayals of ingenuous idealism. Leonard Loan as the doctor has exactly the right touch of amused contempt for his patient. Geneva Harrison, Caroline Newcomb and Lawrence Farrell have little to do, but fit perfectly into the perfect ensemble.

If you have eyes and ears, a brain and a heart, an appreciation of wit that wasn't brought over on the Mayflower, a relish for acting that has light and shade—if you can laugh at human folly and sympathize with human frailty—this comedy of "Caprice" will afford you an evening of unalloyed delight.

'NAUGHTY NIFTIES' BILL IN ACADEMY

Helen Morgan and her "Naughty Nifties" are the burlesque attraction in the Academy. Miss Morgan and George "Buttons" Fare, comedian, are featured in this show of travesties, comedy skits, song and dance specialists and ensembles in which the chorus is seen. Prominent in the bill are Edith Simon, singer, and Mickey and Dotty, song and dance team.

"HOLLYWOOD REVUE" BIG SCREEN FEAST IN THE ALDINE

By MILDRED FILLMORE

"The Hollywood Revue," 11,669 feet of it, is crowding the Aldine screen to overflowing. It is one of the most ambitious movies to come to town since the outbreak of the talkie. It fills the eyes with a lot of scenic splendor. It fills the ears with catchy tunes and lyrics. It presents almost every movie star from the studios of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, its makers. And, in addition, there is a fair showing of stage talent.

It lives up to its title in that it is a straight away revue. There is no plot or story—just a conglomeration of specialties and displays that follow each other in rapid succession.

The only link between them is Jack Benny as master of ceremonies. And Jack does a grand job. Some of our local M. C's could learn from him.

So much is there to "The Hollywood Revue" that only the brighter highlights may be touched on here. "I'm the Queen," sings the comic Marie Dressler—and the audience howls. Polly Moran sings "Sonny Boy." Not as well, maybe, as Al Jolson—but certainly louder and funnier.

The Balcony Again

Gus Edwards comes along with his song, "Lon Chaney Will Get You If You Don't Watch Out" and members of the chorus display at least 12 of the alleged 1,000 Chaney faces. John Gilbert and Norma Shearer exhibit Romeo and Juliet on the balcony, following it up with a modern version, which they call "The Neckers."

Out of a big oyster shell, in an undersea scene, steps Buster Keaton. He's supposed to be a mermaid or something. He goes into a snake dance. It's a scream. And the snake is a string of sausages. Marion Davies appears in a Tommy Atkins number. She sings and dances against a novel background of ensemble arrangement. Charles King does himself proud with "Your Mother and Mine" and then taunts the handsome Conrad Nagel because he can't sing. But Conrad springs a surprise and warbles "You Were Meant for Me" into the face of Anita Page. Among others featured are the two-reel comedy boys, Hardy and Laurel. They bring their slapstick into play in a burlesque on magic.

And the Rain Falls

"Singing in the Rain" perhaps is the highlight of the revue. Pleasing in tune and lyric, it gets a neat presentation by Cliff Edwards and his ukulele and by the Three Brox Sisters. More effective than the song, is the scenic display that accompanies it. The rain comes down and a glass floor mirrors the raindrops and the assisting ensemble.

Quite a lot of slapstick antics have crept into the production. And there may be a joke or two from Master of Ceremonies Benny that must have startled the censors. Yet, these fail to detract from the brilliance of this movie revue, which is a fast moving screen feast.

LENORE ULRIC STAR OF SHERIDAN FILM

Lenore Ulric, who makes her talkie debut in "Frozen Justice," which is on the Sheridan Square screen, portrays a half-caste Alaskan belle, possessed of tempestuous nature. The picture is a melodrama which has its principal action in cafes and dance halls of the Yukon of the gold rush period. Louis Wolheim plays a hard boiled bruiser with a soft heart. El Brendel and Tom Patricola are in the cast. On the stage are Gracie Barrie, blues singer; Schwartz and Clifford, in song and comedy and other features with Victor Graff, master of ceremonies. The picture for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday will be "The River," with Charles Farrell and Mary Duncan.

Danceland to Have Masquerade Tonight

With a diamond ring prize for the best costume, Danceland, Fifth avenue, will give a masquerade ball this evening. Jack Spiegel and his Miama Blue Boys are playing in Danceland this week. Lou Diamond, melody crooner, is a special attraction.

'Carry On,' New Tune Play In the Alvin, Is Fun Riot Starring Jack Donahue

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

JUDGED by any suitable and just standard, "Carry On," new musical comedy which had its premiere in the Alvin last night, is a real show. Measured by time, three solid hours crammed with varied entertainment; by gorgeousness, dancing, comedy, settings, talent in acting—by all of the factors of satisfactory musical production—it is immense. And all topped off with a story that hasn't been hooked from the literature of infancy—a story of the soldier boys "over there."

It is presented in 16 scenes—episodes—that are cycloramic in affording a vision of entire scope of the war, from recruiting to the "victory ball," with a hundred and one details that tend to realism of a great conflict and yet stress lightness, joy, gayety, comedy.

MISS BOW SOFT-BOILED IN PENN SCREEN ATTRACTION

Folks who remember "The Wild Party" and other escapades of the irresistible imp, will see a different Clara Bow in "The Saturday Night Kid," which is the talking film in the Penn this week. No hard-boiled heroine here, even though she does knock out little sister in the last round. The little sister needed just such sisterly attention, as she had been busy stealing everything Clara owned, from undies to her boy friend. And anybody who would steal from Clara Bow has it coming to them.

Cinderella Up-to-Date

"The Saturday Night Kid" is Cinderella up-to-date. She works in a department store and she's in love with the handsome floor-man, Bill. Her sister also works in the same establishment, when she isn't betting the money of the welfare fund on the horses. Finally, when the money has to be paid, and isn't on hand, Clara wins the missing amount by rolling the bones and taking the wad of the chief bookie in the boarding house.

Such virtuosity as Clara displays in the manipulation of the aviating ivories is strong presumptive evidence of a mis-spent youth. But we won't hold anything against Clara—she is very cute and appealing in this picture, and her diction is good. Besides the picture has an interesting and amusing plot.

Nat Nazarro, Jr., made his debut as master of ceremonies, unannounced, having been hurried from New York as Teddy Joyce has departed because of illness. Nat, who will be remembered as a kid favorite of Keith vaudeville headline standing, found the audience ready to thrill to his art and his stepping made a big hit, "stopping the show." Young Nazarro is a chip of the old block, veteran of the stage who should make good in his new position.

Jim Rentch Scores

The hat of the audience also went off to Jim Rentch, who is none of your dancing kids spawned yesterday, but has all the gutta-percha stuff of the youngsters. He was graciously introduced by Bob La Salle, a real comedian with some really funny songs and stories, which he knows how to put over.

Elias Breeskin's orchestra played Gounod's "Faust" music with fine verve, and Dick Liebert rang all sorts of bells on his organ. The stage production, "A Jazz Clock Store," closed with one of the most beautiful tableaux the Penn has ever put on. That Jazz Clock struck 12!

OLD STUFF, BUT FUNNY THAT'S MORAN AND MACK PICTURE

By J. C. NEILSON

The "Two Black Crows," Moran and Mack, appear in the Grand in an all-talkie, "Why Bring That Up." While there is nothing new about the plot, lines or jokes, the whole thing is funny—there is no getting around that. Octavius Ray Cohen arranged the continuity, employing in the plot familiar Moran and Mack gags. The "Crows" suffer because they have been heard so frequently on record and over radio, and anyone who expects new wise-cracks in the play will be disappointed, for the original "early bird catches the worm" line is incorporated almost in its entirety.

High Tension Siren

The story deals with the stage careers of two black-face artists who team up, and rise from obscurity to stardom, eventually becoming owners of their own musical comedy. Moran succumbs to the wiles of Evelyn Brent, as a high-tension siren, who has base designs upon the money which the two artists have accumulated.

Mack, the unselfish, loyal and true-hearted partner, who puts his friendship for Moran above all else, finally breaks up the attachment, but almost at the expense of his life. He lies in a state of coma for days, and it is only when Moran, who finally sees things as they really are, speaks to him in the words of their "early bird" act, that Mack gets his cue and regains consciousness, to bring about a happy ending. It is an effective close, not overdone, and with a distinct kick to it.

Flier Dies in Wreck Of Burning Plane

MT. VERNON, O., Oct. 29.—(INS.)—E. M. Kane, an air-mail pilot on the Cleveland-Louisville route, was burned to death today in the wreckage of his airplane, which caught fire after he had struck a tree in an attempted forced landing, nine miles southwest of here.

Miss Damita Scores

Jack Donahue is the star, and Jack never had a better vehicle. Jack's principal support is Lily Damita, from the movies, and Jack seldom, if ever, has had better principal support. Miss—or Mlle, since she is French—Damita is a revelation. She is our newest ingenue, and one who possesses all of the charm and talent that is necessary to make her a favorite of audiences anywhere. She can dance well, has a pleasing voice and, best of all, has personal fascination that is reflected in ability to be hoydenish without appearing forward, and wistful without losing naturalness.

The Damita is really French—and she has an accent, really delightful. So what might be a lingual handicap is made an asset in "Carry On," since she plays a French lass. Also true to tradition, she is in love with a Yankee soldier boy, our brave Jack. Jack isn't so brave at first. He's a rich chap devoted to having a good time, but willing to give the war two weeks of his service about the middle of July, when polo and other engagements of like nature have been attended to. Yet he does get into it, with his former butler his top sergeant, gets arrested as a spy, escapes and finally emerges as a hero.

Comedy Uproarious

The comedy is not of the wise-cracking sort, although there is sufficient of that, too, as might be expected with such a comic as Donahue. But there are several situations that are screams. At least last night's well packed house screamed and roared, especially at Donahue's ruse to enable him to exchange clothes with a major and escape from a guard house. Also his emergence from a roam into no man's land accompanied by three Germans as prisoners, captives who esteem him so highly that they refuse to be shooed back when he tries to send them.

Donahue's dancing, of course, is featured and the audience as usual clamors for all of the steps the artist can give. There are other dancers, too, who look good even with such a master as Donahue for comparison. Shirley Vernon, a good looker, who plays the role of his American fiance, is one. Mary Horan, his "indiscretion," is another. The Albertina Rasch ballet is an assembly of them.

Several Comedians

Capable comedians in the company include David Hutchinson, as a British major, silly ass type; William Frawley, as a soft spoken butler and hard-boiled top sergeant; Joseph Spree, as a British tommy. Miss Vernon and Milton Watson play the romantic leads, acting and singing their parts well.

Although these artists receive but brief mention they perform in a manner that is deserving of much more fulsome commendation. It is sufficient to say that the show is one that calls for excellence in every part and that no characterization or any feature falls short in any respect.

Songs that please include "May I Say I Love You," "Why," "It's You I Love," the latter by Miss Damita, and a rousing soldier song, "Over Here," into which a big punch is injected by a large male chorus.

Bobby Connolly and Arthur Swanstrom are to be congratulated upon their production, especially Mr. Connolly, who staged it and was present to see how it went over.

Premier

NEW FACES HELP PITT PLAYERS WITH DIPLOMACY

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Ah, Diplomacy, what indiscretions may be committed in thy name! This thought comes after a view of "The Command to Love," which opened last night as this week's George Sharp presentation in the Pitt.

The play, which was seen here as a road show, is a luscious tidbit of theater fare. Its story concerns a handsome attache of the French embassy at Madrid who finds love has a lot to do with diplomacy. He is commanded to make love to the wife of the Spanish minister of war. It is France—in the person of Robert Fiske, as the French ambassador—who commands him.

The George Sharp Players, augumented by two new faces, acquit themselves quite well as diplomats. And their task is difficult, for the play is one that calls for keen tones and hues in its execution. The newcomers, Harlan Tucker and Eveta Nudsen, have the leading roles. They are called upon to spar with smart dialogue and to go into romantic clinches. Both of which they do with gusto. Especially the "clinches." But then, this is as it should be, for they both hail from the Pacific Coast—that romantic coast where the John Gilberts and the Greta Garbos of a thousand movies have made theatrical "clinches" what they are today.

Black Pajamas

There is a sparkle to the play's dialogue and to the white spats displayed by several of the players. And there is something intriguing about the manner in which the plot develops and about the black pajamas that are on exhibition in

CHORINE HEADS BOYS' SCHOOL IN FILM AT STANLEY

Nancy Carroll, as a chorus girl who inherits a boys' school is liberal with an entertaining time on the Stanley screen this week. Her picture is titled "Sweetie" and it is a sort of collegiate musical comedy. Taking charge of the aforesaid school, Nancy, as heroine, nearly wrecks the spirit of the institution when she declares the star football player ineligible to play in the biggest game of the season. She relents, however, before the inevitable fadeout and does right by the students' "Alma Mammy."

Melodies Catchy

The picture has some catchy melodies. There is the theme song, "Sweeter Than the Sweet," for example. "Peekin' Knees" and "Reach for a Sweetie" are two other good numbers. As for the "Alma Mammy" song, it is a laugh-getter.

The film, an all-talkie, has a lot of the old situations that are associated with college as viewed by the movies. But it treats them in an original and comedy vein. The cast includes Jack Oakie, Helen Kane, William Austin and Stanley Smith.

Comedian Popular

Oscar Lorraine, fiddling comedian, headlines the stage show. He wins lots of laughs and applause. A couple of young fellows do some fancy stepping and there are three singing girls prominent in the show. The stage band and the Stanley Rockets contribute to the performance. A Bernie Armstrong organlogue meets popular approval.

HALLELUJAH BOYS ARE FEATURE IN HARRIS

Stage vaudeville in the Harris has Lou Parker continuing as master of ceremonies. "Flight" is being presented for a third week on the screen. Entertainers in the stage show include William Fontaine and his Hallelujah Boys. Fontaine, who was featured in "Hallelujah," all-Negro screen drama, sings "Old Man River." The "boys" dance, Mae Wynne and Buddy offer a routine of eccentric and comedy dances, Charlie Wilkins and Miss Wilkins, billed as Americas Comedy, add to the entertainment.

Heiress

KONJOLA ENDS STOMACH ILLS OF WORST KIND

Misery of Years' Standing Yields in Few Weeks After This Man Began Taking Konjola.

What a wonderful medicine Konjola is when it conquers, time after time, when hope of ever finding the right remedy for those stubborn ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels has been abandoned. But Konjola does that very thing, time after time, as the proven records show.

MR. JOSEPH McVERRY

After all, it is the actual conquests, the actual results, that count, and Konjola can be depended upon for results. It is not a "cure-all," it is a new and different medicine, which goes to the very source of the ailing organs, and starts the battle there. It is not designed to give mere temporary relief, it goes beyond that, stimulating the ailing parts and sweeping the system clear of the accumulated poisons and impurities. The experience of Mr. Joseph McVerry, 1260 Pocono Street, is not exceptional, it is one of many hundreds of such cases, as either of the Konjola Men now in Pittsburgh can tell you. See the nearest one, at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, or the one at Dow's Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Diamond and Smithfield Streets, Pittsburgh, either will show you the amazing results accomplished by this new medicine. Let them explain its merits, all proven by men and women in Pittsburgh and vicinity. Mr. McVerry asked the Konjola Man to tell all sufferers what his experience had been. He said:

"For five years I suffered from stomach trouble and constipation. I could find nothing that would give me relief. After every meal I would suffer terribly with cramps and gas pains. Cathartics only temporarily relieved my constipated condition. I lost my appetite, and even when hungry was afraid to put food into my stomach because of the pain I knew would follow. I was rapidly losing weight and growing weaker. I had read a great deal about Konjola in the papers, and decided to try it, although I had little faith anything would help me.

"I can never express my gratitude for this great medicine. I began to improve before I had taken three bottles, my appetite was coming back, my food no longer brought on the cramping sensation in my stomach. I continued to take Konjola, and today I eat all I want of any food I like, with no bad effects whatever. My constipation has entirely disappeared, and I have gained more than eight pounds. My work, which had become a mere drudgery, is now a pleasure. All this in a few weeks, and I give all the credit to Konjola."

MARIANNE By GLADYS JOHNSON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

In the little French village of Saint Vallier the call to arms summons all to the great war. The village schoolmaster, Andre, leaves his school and sees Marianne running toward him. They have grown to love each other and now under the stress of war the man avows his love. He folds her in his arms and kisses her, saying "I will come back—you're locked in my heart Marianne." After her aunt dies Marianne shelters four little waifs. One day she hears American soldiers marching into the courtyard. Later she misses her pet pig and finds it in the barn where the Americans are quartered. She retrieves her pet from Stag, one of the doughboys, just as Lieut. Frayne appears and demands to know if the men have been annoying her. Marianne, instead of accusing Stag, the American who had stolen the pig, tells the officer he helped her recover it. Frayne praises Stag. Later the doughboys are invited to a feast by Marianne. Stag kisses Marianne and dashes out, leaving her in tears. He comes back and begs her pardon. Just then Frayne appears and Stag goes out enraged. Stag steals a pig Marianne has roasted and gives it to Yom and Soapy. Stag learns that it had been prepared or Gen. Miller. Frayne arrests Stag. Marianne's eyes fill with tears at the thought of him imprisoned. She resolves to get him out of his predicament. Dressed as a French officer, Marianne succeeds in getting to Gen. Miller's headquarters. She discloses her identity and after a talk with the general he orders Stag's release. Stag thanks Marianne and then asks her to marry him. She suffers anguish as she tells him about Andre. The soldiers are paid and are soon to go home. They shower many presents on Marianne. While the party is going on, Andre returns. He is blind.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV.

HEARTBREAK in Marianne's gaze as it flashed to Stag's shocked face—turned again to Andre, who stood, tense and white, a faint smile stamped on his lips.

A moment she hesitated, while her future trembled in the balance, then, with a little cry she gathered Andre into her arms, drawing his face down, covering it with kisses of tender pity. For Marianne, all the others had vanished. She stood alone with her tragedy.

Soapy's brow was puckered like a monkey's as he turned to the watching soldiers.

"Fellers—let's beat it! G'wan, get out!"

"M'sieurs, I beg . . . do not let me interrupt your pleasure. It is good to come home to song and laughter."

"We got to go!" Stag spoke for the first time, and his tone was harsh. "You . . . you got a right to see Marianne alone."

At that he saw a quiver go through her, but she did not lift her head from Andre's breast.

A soldier who had missed the meaning underlying the scene laughed. "Gee—that feller's the real feller of the girl Stag thought he was a feller of! That's rich!" Stag wheeled with a curse, but Soapy flung on his shoulder while he scowled at the blunderer.

"Aw—go chase yourself down to the butcher shop and buy yourself some brains, you dumb bozo!" He walked a short way apart with Stag.

"Gee . . ." said Soapy. His hand gripped the other man's shoulder hard. "Gee . . . Stag . . . Aw, gee . . ."

He saw Stag's breast rise on a long slow breath. Saw the young fellow's eyes go out to where the willows stood motionless against the grey-blue sky of France.

"That's that!" said Stag in a tight voice. "That's that . . ."

He walked away alone in the sunshine. Walked down to the pond, where the sun filtered through the willows and printed a moving shadow on the brown bank.

Memory came to torture him. Here he had held Marianne in his arms yesterday. Then he had been so confident, so gaily triumphant.

A wild bitterness shook through him. He clenched his fists. Oh, fool . . . He had been so sure. His own confident words rushed back to torment him. "Do you think I'd let any other fellow have you? This other fellow—he just lost out."

Hot and helpless rage seized him. He had said he would fight for her—but how could he fight a blind man? For a moment he lost himself in a madness of hate—blind hate of life itself. His love and Marianne's—Andre's sight—all sacrificed on the bloody altar of war. And why? Why?

The mood passed. Gave way to a terrible depression. There was no gleam of hope in his soul. Knowing Marianne, knowing her tender pity for all hurt and helpless things, he could not hope.

He sat down on the gnarled root of a willow and buried his face in his hands.

"Oh, God!" His voice was very tired. "Oh, God!"

* * *

Still . . . there in the kitchen, when the last shuffle of footsteps had gone down the steps. Voices—growing fainter as they moved away across the yard. Even the children had been carried away by the soldiers, so that nothing broke the golden drowsiness of afternoon but the buzzing of a fly in a sunny window pane.

Stillness—lying on Marianne's heart like a dreadful weight. She stood, with Andre's arms about her, afraid to lift her head and meet the uncanny brightness of those sightless eyes.

She stood . . . and thought of Stag . . .

Oh, the white hurt of his face . . . He knew what this would mean—Andre coming home—like this. Her heart was sick with the thought of the future.

At her stillness, the gay pretense, the faint smile was wiped from Andre's face. His voice was bleak when he spoke.

"I shouldn't have given you this shock, Marianne. To walk in on you like this. But I couldn't let you learn from a letter, Marianne! How could I let someone else write that I was—a blind failure!"

"No! No!" Her voice was sharp with protest. "You must not say that! You are not a failure! You are a hero!"

She pulled his face down, kissed his closed lids.

"Not a hero, Marianne. A coward. I was a coward to come here like this today—to dream that you could care for—half a man like this!"

"Ah—don't!" She was crying now, holding him close to the heart she felt sure was breaking. "You are the same as always—but finer! You are fine, Andre!"

"You mean . . ." his voice shook, "you mean you care just the same, Marianne? You would not regret . . . Ah, I am selfish to talk like this when I know your kind heart. I must not hold you to your promise, Marianne!"

The longing—the hope in his voice, went through the girl like a knife. She felt her spirit sink, but in that moment her mind was made up. Andre had given his eyes to France. She would give her heart.

She pulled his face down again. Held it tight against her wet cheek. She spoke, in a little broken whisper while her heart went faint.

"It is I who shall hold you then, beloved. It is I who—who need your love, Andre. . ."

Oh, the empty years . . . the dreary years . . . They seemed to close down about her with her words. An ocean between her and her love. A lifetime, stretching endlessly before her, filled with slow and deadly heartbreak. . .

He thought she wept for him. That her anguish was caused by his blindness and a smile of sweet and incredible joy dawned on Andre's face. In that moment a world of darkness was not too high a price to pay for her love. He drew her close, kissed her, almost reverently while he whispered—

"Little darling . . . brave darling . . . You are my new eyes. The old ones went out on pain and horror. Through you I will see only things that are fine—happy things. Ah—little Marianne. . ."

When the evening shadows were falling, the old cure, Pere Joseph, came out of the farmhouse.

When Marianne came forward to greet him, the old man turned a gaze as bright as a canary's upon her face. Whispers had reached the ears of the good father, whispers of the tall young American who was always to be seen around the pretty girl.

Now Pere Joseph studied the girl's white face, the sad droop of the soft mouth and his sharp eyes saw that which Andre could not see.

"My child . . . my child . . ." he murmured in pity.

But her head went bravely back. "I'm glad you have come out here, my father, to help us rejoice. This is a glorious day. Our Andre is back to stay—and now he shall never leave me again!"

Though her lips quivered, the words had a valiant ring.

The cure saw Andre's face turn toward her voice. Saw the look of unutterable peace and joy which stole across it. He sighed. Much sadness had Pere Joseph seen during the war, but nothing more poignant than this.

"I tried to come here first—to prepare you. . . ." His voice was low. "I wanted to bring Andre here myself, but that little rascal Jacques, he—what the Americans call—beat me to eet."

Andre rose and came uncertainly toward them. His smile was like a blessing. "A miracle has happened, father. I come home to find my sight—in Marianne! Only beautiful things will come to my vision now."

The old man could not watch the wretchedness of her face as she went to lay a gentle hand on Andre's shoulder.

"Yes, Andre has found his eyes with me—" she smiled.

And in her heart Marianne knew that it was she, and not Andre who was groping in the dark.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Indulges in Little Subtle Satire at Madge's Expense

CURIOUSLY enough at the sight of Dicky coming through the door of the seaside inn where Philip Veritzen and I had just had tea, it was not of my husband's anger I first thought, but of the fulfillment of my little premonition that something unpleasant for me lurked in the inn near which Prince Georges had been shot. Indeed, I could imagine few more disagreeable things than the domestic storm I visualized when Dicky should have an opportunity to empty the "vials of wrath" from which I was sure the corks were already slipping.

But it was a face masked with a brilliant, if perfunctory, smile which looked at us when the door had closed behind him and we met him face to face.

"'Lo! Madge!" he said. "How are you, Veritzen? You've just returned, I take it."

His voice was crisp, even cheery, but there was a subtle intonation in the last words which conveyed an additional comment to me. If he had said to my companion: "You've lost no time," his meaning could not have been clearer.

Mr. Veritzen's face was imperturbable.

"Yes, just got back this morning," he said, "to find that a mysterious disappearance act had staged by my family and friends. Mrs. Graham has just been kind enough to explain it all to me over some tea. Have you ever tried the tea here? It is most excellent."

"Oh! yes, this is one of my favorite hang-outs," Dicky returned with apparent casualness, but a furtive glance—I dared not look at him openly—showed me the deeply etched lines at the side of his lips and nostrils, sure indications that he was putting powerful restraint upon his temper. "And you are fortunate in having Mrs. Graham explain things. She is the greatest little explainer in the business—bar none—a most plausible and convincing—explainer."

His halt before the last word was slight but pregnant. If he had used the "direct and ugly word" itself he could not have been more emphatic. I threw up my head with the same anger and need for defense I would have felt at a stiletto thrust.

"Thanks so much, Dicky, for the indorsement," I said sweetly, hoping that neither man would detect the trembling of my knees, which felt as if they would give way at any second. "I am afraid I've rather botched this job of explanations which Lillian handed over to me. By the way, have you seen her?"

"No," the monosyllable was explosive. "Where is she supposed to be? Sitting on the sand by the seashore?"

"Not exactly," I told him, laughing with an effort which positively racked me. "But on her way there. Which reminds me, Mr. Veritzen, she'll be wondering if we are lost."

"Don't let me keep you," Dicky said instantly, moving past us. "Shall I tell Harry you and Lil will be home to luncheon? He was wondering audibly about his frau when I left."

"Oh, yes, we'll be home shortly." I began, but Mr. Veritzen interrupted me suavely.

"May I not amend that?" he said. "Surely you and Mrs. Underwood can be spared from lunching at home for one day, and there are many sidelights upon this most interesting situation which I should like to get. Will you and Lillian lunch with me?"

I did not dare look at Dicky, but my reply was prompt.

"I'd love to, but it really isn't possible today. We are going to the city tomorrow, you know, and I have a million things to do. I cannot answer for Mrs. Underwood, however. You'll have to ask her."

"I give you fair warning, Veritzen," Dicky began, in a sort of throaty growl, and I had an instant's fleeting panic at his words and tone. Then he finished innocuously, "that Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Underwood always hunt in couples. You'll hardly get one without the other. Don't let them fool you, either, with that guff about things to do. Those all lie in their imagination. Make them go to luncheon with you. They want to be coaxed, that's all. So long, Madge. See you later."

He lifted his hat ceremoniously and strode on toward the inner rooms of the inn, while I made my way out to the car, with Dicky's last words echoing in my brain like a distinct menace.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Golf Widows

"THERE seems to be a lot of romantic marriages these days," remarked Mrs. Divot, "Lindy, Tunney and Young Coolidge! Now, we have nobody to worry about but the Prince of Wales!"

HELEN ROWLAND

* * *

"And Rudy Vallee," Mrs. Green reminded her. "But marriage OUGHT to be more romantic, now, than in the days when a girl married from necessity rather than from choice. Besides, we have so many more little first aids, to help us preserve the romance and the illusions—so much more individuality in marriage."

* * *

"Yes," laughed Mrs. Divot. "In Mother's day, about the only sign of individuality a married woman was permitted to retain was her tooth-brush."

* * *

"And her napkin-ring!" rejoined Mrs. Green. "Don't forget the sacred mid-Victorian napkin-ring!" Outside of that, husbands and wives were ONE-and-inseparable. They SHARED everything, from their troubles and sorrows and the connubial pillow to the towels and brushes and the bath-sponge! No wonder they fought over those!

* * *

"Now, each has his or her own individual twin-bed, his or her own private shower and bath-salts, his or her own favorite morning newspaper, and his or her own brand of cigarets!

* * *

"One plays golf and the other plays bridge; one drives a sedan and the other drives a sport car; he has his athletic clubs and she has her own women's clubs. Sometimes, the only thing they share in common is breakfast—every other Tuesday!

* * *

"If they're poor, they usually have individual pay-envelopes and spend their days in separate business offices. If they're rich, the only time they ever meet, is when she comes home from Florida in order to pack up for Newport, or when he comes home from the links in order to change his clothes for dinner at the club."

* * *

"Well," said Mrs. Divot cheerfully, "if distance lends enchantment, all that OUGHT to give them a perspective on one another, and help to keep up the romance, forever!"

* * *

"A little distance may lend enchantment," admitted Mrs. Green, "but too much of it, so often leads to—another enchantment. There is a happy medium in everything. Old-fashioned husbands and wives were tied too tightly and were too close together. They saw all the little flaws and imperfections in each other—and that killed the illusion and made married life dull and prosaic.

* * *

"Modern husbands and wives are tied too loosely, and live such 'individual' lives, that they learn to get along perfectly happily WITHOUT each other. They never spend enough time together, to GROW! And after all that is the basic idea of marriage—to build a life together, to pool your interests and your ambitions, and your troubles and your pleasures. TO SHARE things! Too much individuality in marriage is as bad as too much propinquity. I'd hate to have a husband who forgot he had a home until it came time to pay the rent!"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, October 30.

THE sidereal operations for this day are interpreted by the astrologers as being of "mixed" influence. While there is much testimony for progressive, prosperous and pleasant conditions this propitious state of affairs is accompanied by a disruptive vibration abrupt and far-reaching in its effects. Managing situations with deliberation may obviate all menaces and perils.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a very pleasant and prosperous year if they will calmly manipulate all sudden visitations and make no rash or hasty changes or journeys.

A child born on this day may be splendidly equipped for popularity and position, but it should be given early discipline in calmness, peace and stability.

Be Careful With Velvet

When making up velvet, the amateur dressmaker should take great care when putting the fabric through the sewing machine. Work so that the foot of the machine goes with the pile and not against it. Otherwise this is likely to leave an ugly mark. In pressing the seams, run them over an upturned warm iron. Never apply the iron direct to the material. Use needles instead of pins during the making; pins also damage the pile.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Reception Hostess

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have enjoyed reading your many helps on etiquette, and want to be numbered as one of your patrons.

I am giving a reception in honor of my daughter's engagement, at one of the leading hotels. I would like your advice on just what I am to do. MOTHER.

YOU and your daughter stand next to each other, near the entrance of the room in which you are to receive the guests. If you have invited anyone else to receive with you, they stand in the line with you, but on the other side. That is, you stand first in the line, since you are the chief "receiver" and next to you your daughter, whom you "present" to the guests. Each guest greets you as in any other kind of reception, and then offers best wishes to your daughter.

It would be helpful and make things vastly easier for you if you ask some relative or friend, or two or three, to be co-hostesses, not to stand in the receiving line with you, but to mingle with the guests, indicate the receiving line and to take the guests to the room in which the refreshments are to be served. Also, one of two friends might be assigned to preside over the refreshments, to see that every one is taken care of, and so forth.

The success of such an affair is not in the form of the reception, which after all is always about the same, but in the graciousness and friendliness of the hostess. That is why the wise hostess assigns all duties that she can, so that she herself will be free in spirit to give herself to the hospitable receiving of her guests.

Acknowledging an Acquaintance

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I was with a gentleman when we went into a store. While standing in the store the proprietor walked in. Although I knew him, I did not welcome him: I believe the owner of the store did not recall who I was.

Was it proper of me not to say "Hello" to him and wait until he greeted him? F.

SINCE it is correct for a lady to acknowledge acquaintance with a gentleman, the proprietor was probably waiting for you to exercise your privilege of bowing to him first. Any gentleman would do this. It was not proper for you to not say, "How do you do?" to the proprietor, if you wished acknowledge acquaintance with him. The fact that you were with a gentleman makes no difference. The point is that if you wished to bow to him, you should have. You had no right to wait for him to bow to you.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Mouth Breathing a Real Trouble Maker

ALL the functions of the body are important. Most of them are more than important—they are essential to life. If this organ or that should stop work, death would follow speedily.

We cannot get on without air and lots of it. The breathing function must be performed regularly, quietly, unceasingly.

DR. COPELAND

The air is taken through the nostrils. The nasal tissues form a passageway, but what they do is much more helpful than to act merely as a passageway for the air we breathe.

Nature has made the nose so ingeniously that the small space has been multiplied in its usefulness by the addition of three shelves of bone. These are called the "turbinated bodies." Over the turbinates and under the shelving surfaces, overlying the septum—the partition between the two sides of the nose—and throughout the nasal cavities, the mucous membrane is spread.

This membrane is quite thick. It is packed full of blood vessels. This makes an arrangement for the heating of the air passage through the nostrils.

There is yet another useful arrangement. The cells that cover the mucous membrane are "ciliated". That is, they are hair-like. They wave in the breeze like a field of wheat, microscopic wheat.

You will ask at once, "What is this strange plan intended to accomplish?"

Its purpose is to filter out of the air passing through the nostrils all the dust and dirt, as well as the germs of disease. Thus, you see, the air we breathe is filtered and cleansed and warmed. Before it reaches the lungs it is purified and prepared for reception by the delicate air cells. It goes into them in proper conditions for its use there.

Unfortunately, neglect of the nose, failure to get rid of colds and improper care of the body may result in disease of the nasal tissues. In consequence the mucous membrane becomes swollen and abnormally thickened.

When the nasal tissues are inflamed the glands contained within it become overactive. They throw out quantities of thick mucous. This serves to clog the nose still more.

The swollen tissues and the mass of mucous make it impossible to get air through the nose. Then there results what is called "mouth breathing." Instead of passing through the nose for warming and cleansing, the cold air, filled with dirt and other impurities, is taken through the mouth into the throat and lungs.

Sore throat, laryngitis, bronchitis and even more serious ailments are produced in this way. The health suffers in consequence.

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 29.—Coroner William F. Pohl, of Butler, continued his efforts to learn the identity of a man about 30, killed by a Baltimore and Ohio train near Mars Saturday night. The name of A. Mazier, of Sand Patch, near Cumberland, was found on the man's clothing, but Mazier telegraphed the coroner that he had given away a suit of clothes about a month ago. The victim may have been jolted from the train when stealing a ride, as the body was not bruised.

Act No. 2. Over teacups flashes the witty repartee. In and out of the young attache's rooms flash the black pajamas—and, of course, the wearer.

There are three acts, the first and last being laid in a room in the French embassy. Incidentally, in Act No. 1 last night, there seemed to be an air of uneasiness about some of the emoting. But by the time Act No. 2 arrived, with its love-making diplomacy and intrigues in full sway, composure settled over the company.

Medal for Virtue

Mr. Fiske, with a grey mustache and elegant mannér, puts a lot into the role of the French ambassador. The young Hugh Banks, as the attache's secretary, who is a connoisseur of both women and perfume, appears to advantage and wins himself a rich young lady in the end. A lady, by the way, who never makes a stage appearance. Mabel Kroman, seems a bit out of element as the French ambassador's wife. As for Gus Forbes, minister of war, he goes so far as to effect a military carriage.

But the play is the thing—as true a statement as it is trite—and "The Command to Love" is a bright piece from beginning until the end, when the indiscreet wife of the Spanish minister is awarded a medal for virtue by the International Morality Society.

JAY MILLS IN DEBUT ON STAGE IN ENRIGHT

Jay Mills, as his debuting gesture on the Enright stage this week, is "Painting the Clouds With Sunshine." After he sings the number, to the accompaniment of the stage band and a silver-knobbed cane, which he waves in the air, comes applause indicating that if there are any clouds of depression in the Enright because of Dick Powell's departure, the young Mr. Mills soon will have them all driven away.

Mr. Mills' premiere show is titled "Greetings." It includes a number of featured entertainers—some good and some not so good—and the Enright Rockets. These Rockets work hard to make the performance a success. In fact, they haven't worked either as hard or as well in a long time. They do a number on bended knees that must be rather difficult to do. They do it pretty well, too.

And here's a word more about Mr. Mills. There is ease about his performance and he seems to understand showmanship. Also, he impresses as being able to put some originality into his presentations.

"Just Another"

Alice White's "The Girl from Woolworths," on the screen is just another picture. It is the same old story of a girl who dreams of a "career." The producer-villain is present as the usual menacing spider of these showgirl movies. It is an all-talkie and has some song numbers. The cast includes Charles Delaney and Wheeler Oakman.

Dr. M. Sayle Taylor Coming to Gayety

Dr. M. Sayle Taylor, who has given his stage presentation, "Married Love," here previously, has leased the Gayety Theater for a period of several weeks. Beginning Monday, November 4, this theater will be opened for women only, with shows at 1, 3, 7 and 9. "Married Love" is announced as a scientific stage presentation. The week of November 11 is set aside for men only.

$250,000 ARSON FIRE KILLS MAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The burned body of a workman was found last night in the fire-swept wreckage of a five-story apartment house under construction in Upper Manhattan. Police expressed the opinion that the fire, which caused $250,000 damage, had been set.

The body was identified as that of Joseph Sinascalchi, 35, a plasterer. Forty other workmen in the building when the fire started escaped injury.

The suspicious origin of the fire was believed by officials to mark the first apparent extension of the alleged arson ring in Bronx Borough, just across the Harlem River, where a grand jury is investigating charges of racketeering in connection with fires which have caused the loss of millions of dollars in damage to uncompleted buildings. District Attorney John H. McGeehan, of the Bronx, has charged that racketeers burn the buildings of those who refuse to submit to extortion.

Thomas P. Brophy, fire marshal, pointed out as significant the fact that Henry D. Heuer, secretary of the corporation that was putting up the building, is a member of the Bronx grand jury.

Acquittal Reported In Spanish Revolt

VALENCIA, Spain, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—It was unofficially reported that the military court martial which concluded its hearing of sedition charges against Jose Sanchez Guerra, former premier, and several others, had recommended acquittal of the civilian defendants and light sentences for the military officers.

The findings of the court must be approved by higher military authorities before the results are formally made public. The captain general of Valencia must pass on the verdict.

ROBESON BACK, HITS RACE BAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(INS.)—Paul Robeson, Negro actor and singer, returned from abroad and declared that he did not wish to make an issue out of the action of the management of the Hotel Savoy in London barring him from the place on account of his race.

"However, it is an issue which must be settled sometime, and the more incidents like this that occur the sooner it will be settled," said Robeson.

Robeson returned with his wife.

ROUGH TRIP FOR MRS. WILSON

PEIPING, China, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson during her tour of the Orient had a taste of roughing it and rather enjoyed the experience, visiting the Forbidden City of old imperial days and making a trip to the Great Wall.

This last was a three-hour ride in a baggage car on a local train which stopped at every whistling post. No special preparations had been made for Mrs. Wilson's party, which included Mrs. Manion Perkins, wife of the councillor of the American legation. The train consisted of a wheezy locomotive, five freight cars, baggage car and a third-class passenger coach, crowded with Chinese coolies and their families.

When the train conductor learned the identity of his distinguished American passenger he escorted Mrs. Wilson to the baggage car, insisting that she view the country from the open door. He provided chairs and a constant supply of hot tea, rice cakes and ripe persimmons, which had been picked along the railroad right-of-way.

Mrs. Wilson, like most sightseers, rode a donkey over the hills to view the Great Wall, spending several hours along the top of the 2,000-year-old structure. She returned to Peiping in the evening in the same baggage coach, with the conductor again acting as host for tea and cakes for all of the party of seven.

Dry Leaders Attend Funeral of Shumaker

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 29.—(INS.)—Thousands of friends and co-workers with Dr. Edward S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, paid final tribute to the famous prohibition leader at the funeral services at the Broadway Methodist Church here yesterday afternoon.

Nationally prominent prohibition and church leaders spoke at the funeral services. Included were Dr. F. Scott McBride, national Anti-Saloon League superintendent, and Bishop H. H. Fout, of the United Brethren Church. Burial was in Crown Hill Cemetery here.

Mother of Twenty Liquor Prisoner

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(INS.)—Mrs. Rosina Diodiato, 50, was arraigned on a charge of operating a 500-gallon still. A bored clerk asked the defendant the perfunctory questions. Her name, her address.

"Any children?" He scarcely listened for the answer, but he jumped when he got it. "Yes. "Twenty-four."

Find Unclad Body Of Slain Girl, 25

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 29.—(INS.)—Roadhouses in Southern New Jersey were combed for clues to the identity of a young woman, whose unclothed body was found in a thicket 12 miles north of here.

The girl, who was about 25 years old, had been shot four times and struck over the head with a blunt instrument. The body lay in the thicket for some time, in the opinion of police. The upper part of the body has been disfigured with acid.

For the Woman Who Likes Good Stories

"THE Sea Was Waiting," by Elizabeth Petersen, in November Good Housekeeping, carries the scent and sight and sound of deep waters. It's a rare story. "If You Begin with Love" is a delightful tale of love in the big city. Mary Synon has a fine message in "Grand Piano," and "Rain Preacher," by Margaret Belle Houston, sets a new record in the field of colored fiction.

Nearly TWO MILLION People CAN'T Be Wrong—and MAJESTIC Still Makes and Sells 6,000 Radio Sets Daily

Today from nearly every newspaper page you are being shouted at to "watch your step" in buying a radio set, to "look for this" or "look for that." You are being implored to "buy a strictly modern radio." You are being told that "no radio but the famous Gazookis is up to the minute, because it has the new blah, blah, blah—something that no other radio manufacturer can equal."

There is nothing to get excited about. It is so simple to buy a good radio set today, if you look for only two things, which your own mind and your own ears are fully capable of deciding. First, the performance (tone quality), and secondly, is the reputation of the manufacturer sufficient to guarantee that your investment is safe and permanent.

Majestic has always said, "You cannot buy a better radio set than Majestic at any price." We rest our case on that statement. You are the judge. We do not need to tell you that Majestic can make any sort of set, and can manufacture and use in that set, any type of tubes that are known in the radio world. Majestic has access to all the patents, has all the manufacturing facilities, has all the financial resources necessary to do the job.

Majestic is making the kind of sets that are being produced today because, point for point, we know "You can't buy a better radio set than Majestic at any price." If you hear a Majestic, if you listen to its colorful tone, its faithful reproduction, if you examine its sturdy construction, its oversize power pack, its beautifully blended cabinet woods, and compare these points in a side by side test with any other set on the market at any price, then you'll buy a Majestic.

May we remind you, with modest pride, that there are nearly two million happy owners of Majestics today. Two million owners in 17 months—think of it!

Majestic is now making 6,000 sets each working day. You are welcome to come and see for yourself. You may watch them loaded on the freight cars in a continuous stream each day till the last set is aboard. This is an unusual invitation which only Majestic can make to you, because only Majestic is doing this kind of a job.

Remember, one swallow does not make a summer and one talking point does not make a good radio set. To be a good set, everything about it has to be good. Majestic does not confuse the issue by shouting one form of superiority and ignoring every other important point. Everything about a Majestic has to be good or we could not sell 6,000 a day. Is it too much to say that nearly two million people cannot be wrong?

Your investment IS safe with Majestic.

VILLAGE GOSSIP: Inspector James Hoey, of the First Police District, read about the oil lamps here and remarks: "You forgot to say the grocer wouldn't sell oil after dark because of the danger of fire, tinkering around the barrel with a match or lighting the gas lamp or carrying an oil lamp close to the oil barrel. M'GOVERN OUT TO SUPPORT DUNN

Kline Boosts Own Record as Democrat Charges Vice Thrives Under His Regime

Widening the breach between himself and the Republican Party, County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern will campaign for Thomas A. Dunn, Democratic-Good Government candidate for mayor, according to Maj. E. Lowry Humes.

McGovern today confirmed Humes' announcement and said he would make two speeches during the week as a rebuke to the Republican organization.

While Humes, speaking over KQV, was announcing McGovern's stand, Mayor Charles H. Kline, Republican candidate for re-election, was announcing that his party is underwriting his pledges for any legislation needed to stop election frauds.

BOOSTS VOTE MACHINE

In vigorous terms, he urged upon city ward chairmen and county leaders, meeting in the Hotel Henry headquarters, the adoption of the voting machine.

"This should be adopted," he said, "it will be a great step forward."

The votes for Councilman James F. Malone and Judge Richard W. Martin, defeated mayoralty aspirants in the Republican primary, were not cast against his administration "but in a spirit of admiration for the excellent qualities" of the other candidates, Kline insisted, making the same address at his headquarters and over KDKA.

"I want to ask by what process of sound reasoning the Democratic party has a right to expect these Republican voters to go over and help them and their candidates in the general election," said the Mayor.

SLOT MACHINES HIT

The argument that party questions should "be thrown to the wind" in this municipal election is fallacious, said Kline, adding that Democrats from the Southern states themselves defeated that proposition when it was advanced as a national issue a score of years ago.

"The Democratic candidate and his spellbinders in this campaign are now asking the Republican voters in this community to align themselves with a practice which has already been repudiated and rejected by their own party," said Kline.

Dunn, speaking with Humes over KQV, said that the one "enormous" industry that has developed during the Kline administration is "the slot machine industry," which, he claimed, has 1,000 branches "in as close proximity as possible to the schools of the city."

The head of the industry has disappeared, he said, referring to Al Forney, in spite of a $5,000 reward for his whereabouts.

"I now make the charge that the police department of the city and county does not want to apprehend Al Forney and are afraid to arrest him," thundered Dunn over the radio, charging that Forney was spirited from the city in a machine belonging to Allegheny County.

CHARGES FRAUD, VICE

If Kline is re-elected, there will be a further increase in taxes, predicted Dunn, declaring that such a step will make industrial development impossible. He charged election fraud, commercialized vice, lack of centralized police control, ward chairman control of the police department and lack of security for women and children.

Malone, who declared for the entire Republican ticket, was one of the principal speakers at the Hotel Henry rally last night. He was referred to by County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Republican County chairman, as "a loved and respected city official with years of experience."

Other speakers were: Congressman Stephen G. Porter, Senator Morris Einstein, Representative Matthew A. Dunn and William F. Stadtlander, Dr. F. H. Frederick, chairman of the campaign committee; Councilman Robert J. Alderdice, C. B. Guttridge, Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier, Mrs. W. W. Robinson, Mrs. L. C. Morgart, Mrs. J. H. Hinnau and the Republican candidates.

Dog Ordered Tied After Biting Boy

Edward Polucis, 5, of 435 Sixth street, Donora, was bitten on the right hand by a dog, said by South Side police to be owned by Marcella Weiss, of 2112 Merriman way. The boy's wound was cauterized at the St. Joseph's Hospital. The owner was notified to keep the animal tied up for 15 days.

City Asked to Pay Injured Carpenter

Council has received a resolution granting Sanford Thompson, a carpenter in the safety department, a six months' leave with pay at $12 a day from last October 15. He was hurt while on duty on October 15, 1928.

Night Club Ring Theft Before Court

Mrs. Marie Weyman, 38, of 7248 Penn avenue, in Morals Court today faced three young men accused in the theft of two rings from her fingers, valued at $600.

She testified that she and her sister, Mrs. Pearl Menzer, 952 Columbus avenue, met the men in a club at 3417 West Carson street, Sunday night. The rings were taken while the party was in an auto en route to the home of Mrs. Menzer, according to Mrs. Weyman.

The men denied the charge and were held over by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg. They gave their names as John W. Carroll, 400 Minton street; Harry W. Foster, 3142 Ashland street, and Thomas Rose, 2936 Merwin avenue.

TRIBUTE PAID ROOSEVELT

Raymond Robins, intimate friend and close adviser of Theodore Roosevelt, was the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Roosevelt Commemoration Association held last night at Webster Hall.

Judge Richard W. Martin, in his first public address since his unsuccessful campaign as Independent Republican candidate for mayor, spoke at the meeting. He vehemently declared that corrupt elections are undermining the nation that Roosevelt served so well.

AMBASSADOR TALKS

A. P. Moore gave a talk on his memories of Roosevelt.

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, who was one of Roosevelt's right hand men, told reminiscences of campaigns in which, with former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, he traveled about the country with "Teddy."

Officers of the organization, re-elected for the ensuing year were: Frank J. Harris, president; Mary Flinn Lawrence and C. M. Barr, vice presidents; McGovern, treasurer, and D. O. Jones, secretary.

SCHOLARSHIP VOTED

McGovern offered a resolution which was passed unanimously, establishing a Theodore Roosevelt scholarship at the University of Pittsburgh.

Among those present were Councilmen Daniel Winters, P. J. McArdle and John S. Herron.

PUPILS WIN PRIZES

In the afternoon students of city and county high schools gave orations on Roosevelt. Frank J. Harris, president of the organization, presided at the exercises in Carnegie Music Hall. Stanley Goldman, of Taylor Allderdice High, was awarded first prize and a gold medal for his address, "Roosevelt the Peacemaker." Arthur Cruikshank, Coraopolis High School, was given a silver medal for his oration, "Roosevelt in the Spanish-American War."

SAY JEFFREY SHOULD QUIT

"It would not be fair to permit R. C. Jeffery to be the judge of how own election. He ought to be gentleman enough to resign," Judge J. R. Macfarlane said today in granting a rule to show cause why Jeffrey should not be replaced as judge of elections in the Second District of the First Ward of Mt. Lebanon Township.

Jeffrey, according to Attorney Crawford Scott, who asked for the rule, is the present judge and has been nominated to succeed himself on the Republican ticket. He also was nominated as auditor of the board on the Democratic and Peoples Party tickets, it was said.

A summons to appear in his court November 7 to answer a charge of violating the automobile laws was to be mailed today by Justice of the Peace Eugene Mehrlich, Millvale, to Alderman John J. Verona, of the Third Ward.

M. D. Cooney, state highway patrolman, told Justice Mehrlich he was following Verona when he saw him cut around the car in Brownsville avenue. Alderman G. K. Willock, of the Thirtieth Ward, he said, refused to issue the information when he learned the accused was Verona.

FESTIVITIES HALTED BY CROWD

Milling Throngs Block Runways, Impeding Planes; Stage Sham Air Battle

A crowd, estimated by officials at 75,000, crowded Bettis Field last night to view the aerial circus which closed Pittsburgh's celebration of Light's Golden Jubilee. Field attendants said it was the largest crowd in the history of the field.

The show was to have been given Thursday, but was postponed on account of weather until the following night. Rain continuing, it was again postponed until last night.

Roads leading to the airport from McKeesport and Pittsburgh were blocked solidly with traffic from 8 p. m. until almost midnight. Hillsides for miles around were crammed with spectators — the crowd at the airport was so large, the combined efforts of police, Boy Scouts and field attendants could not manage it. Thousands were unable to get near the field.

CROWD DELAYS PROGRAM

At one stage of the exhibition, the crowd swept over police and attendants onto the field and the program was called off for almost two hours before order was restored.

Parking space for 1,000 automobiles had been provided, Bettis officials not having expected more than 5,000 or 10,000 spectators. Every available niche on the designated parking lot was filled before 8 p. m., necessitating the use of the flying field proper.

The McKeesport-Pittsburgh road was jammed solidly with machines from the Tube City back along Carson street in Pittsburgh. The Lebanon Church road was filled with two solid lines of traffic back to the Clairton road, which also was jammed from Brentwood down to Large.

Enthusiastic spectators parked their machines miles from the field, walking the rest of the way. While preliminary plans for the exhibition were under way the crowd feasted its eyes on various types of airplanes along the flying line. Innumerable attempts were made to lure the throngs away from the ships long enough to permit pilots to take off, first by showing a moving picture in the open air and finally pleading with them to keep off the flying field.

One of Cliff Ball's night-flying airmail ships, rigged out with fireworks, for an aerial display, was wheeled out and the crowds milled around it so close that it was impossible to move it for more than an hour.

SHAM BATTLE STAGED

Harry Sievers, veteran mail pilot and night-flyer, took off in the mail plane to which 20 pyrotechnical pieces were attached and the crowds were treated to more than a half-hour of stunt flying, silhouetted against the darkened sky by the light of the fireworks. A sham battle was carried on between the pilot, a machine gun battalion from the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery and a rifle brigade from the Clyde Beltz Post of the American Legion from Dravosburg. Aerial bombs were dropped from the ship overhead while the machine guns and rifles blazed away harmlessly, albeit nosily, from the ground.

The mail plan landed after this exhibition and Joe Crane, parachute jumper, was taken aloft and made a leap with an illuminated parachute.

Turns to Poetry When Office Duties Irk

When D. C. Potter, 69, feels the routine of his clerical duties in the prothonotary's office becoming irksome, he writes poetry.

He has just finished a poem entitled "An Old Familiar Song," inspired, partly, he says, by a story told him concerning Stephen Collins Foster, noted song writer, by an old Millvale tollhouse keeper, long since dead.

INSPIRED BY STORY

Potter resides at 107 Howard street, Millvale. The story was told him when a boy by Charles Geschwindt, a cornetist of the one-time locally celebrated Staley's Band.

One summer evening while sitting in front of the plank road toll house, Geschwindt related, he played on his cornet, "Old Folks at Home." Some time later two men crossed the Allegheny River in a skiff and, approaching Geschwindt, asked him if he would play the melody again. The cornetist complied, and sent the strains of the Foster song echoing over the waters. When he had finished, one of the two men, of distinguished appearance, said to him "I am Stephen C. Foster. You are the only person I have ever heard play that song as it should be played."

THRILLED BY STRAINS

Potter's poem describes the thrill that came to him from hearing the strains of the "Old Folks at Home" and "Suwanee River."

He has written many other bits of verse, some of them at home in the evenings and others dashed off between tasks in the prothonotary's office. He has received commendatory letters from many persons, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, of the United States Supreme Court, Lloyd George, Booth Tarkington and Charles E. Hughes, former secretary of state.

4 BANDITS ROB STORE, ESCAPE

Four bandits who late last night held up the Famous Department Store, Sixth avenue and Wood street, Tarentum, were being sought by county detectives today.

J. Rosenbloom, the manager, and two clerks were held at bay with revolvers by two men while their confederates stood guard in an automobile in front of the store. After scooping up $80 from the register they escaped in the machine in view of Patrolman William Clark, of the Tarentum force, who was but a short distance away. Clark pursued them for some distance but was distanced. Fear of hitting pedestrians restrained him from shooting at the fleeing bandits, Clark said.

Boardwalk Wanted In Ross Township

2 MEN HURT IN DANCE FIGHT

Two men were in hospitals today as the result of a free-for-all fight at a dance of the Mohawk football team, of Lawrenceville, at 935 Herron avenue, shortly after midnight. Police are looking for a man believed to have shot one of them.

The injured were John Andrews, 28, of 148 Forty-third street, and Carl Packski, 31, of 3329 Carghill street. Andrews, with a bullet wound in his forehead, was taken to West Penn Hospital, where it was reported his condition was not serious. Packski was sent to St. Frances Hospital, where it was said several of his teeth had been kicked out and he suffered body bruises.

Both were placed under arrest on charges of being suspicious persons.

Removal of Trees Sought by Woman

Mrs. E. J. Eagan has asked Council to order the removal of trees from in front of property at 5219 Powhatan street.

Gilfeathers

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 29.

Our attention in the last few days has been focused on juries, and from what we read about it, the personal opinion of the jurymen after listening to all the testimony don't seem to mean much.

Look at the Fall case. First ballot, seven for acquittal, two undecided, and only three for conviction, yet in the end the three switched all the others.

It wasn't the evidence, for they had heard it all before they took the first ballot, so it looks like a lot of jurymen ought to be lawyers. For they are evidently more convincing than the lawyers.

Yours,
WILL.

FEARING DEPORTATION, MAN LEAPS FROM POINT BRIDGE

SAVED BY CREW OF PASSING STEAMER

Russian Tells of Being Hurt and Threatened With Banishment; In Hospital

Sam, worried with troubles, real or fancied, poised himself on the rail of the Point Bridge today and leaped into the icy waters of the Ohio River, police say.

Incoherently, once rescued, he told how many troubles had preyed on his mind during the summer.

"They want to send me back to old country," he mumbled. "Those compensation people. I was hurt las' spring. In Bellefonte. They don't want me to have living. I can't swim."

Jessup's leap and twisting form through the air was seen by members of the crew of the river steamer Darling. The captain ordered a boat and Jessup was picked out of the water by two members of the crew. He was taken to the shore in the yawl where efforts were made to revive him.

Patrolman George Vetter and Fred Fisher, arriving in he auto patrol, applied the inhalator and then took the man to the South Side Hospital. Jessup said he was born in Russia and has lived in the United States for 30 years. He gave his address as 27 East Lacock street.

BRISHERS' ART GETS PRAISE

The British group of paintings rank first in the eye of Royal Cortissoz, New York art critic, who lectured here last night in Carnegie Music Hall on the Carnegie international exhibit.

The French and the American groups, the others of show on an extensive scale, are not distinguished, he said.

"The British section is the most interesting in the International," he declared. "It has things in it that stay longest in my mind. Imagination, workmanship, and a certain personal touch of the artist mark the section.

"The French is interesting, but not brilliant. The lack of outstanding artists is due to the war. Too many young French painters were killed.

"The United States is not distinguished, but it contains many talented artists."

Discussing modernism, Cortissoz stated it was on the wane. "It has left one scar," he said, "and that effect has been to wean artists away from beauty. It has caused them to drab things."

MILLMEN HOLD SAFETY MEET

About 2,500 superintendents, foremen and workmen of the Pittsburgh Works of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation and the Monongahela Connecting Railroad were present at a safety rally held in Memorial hall last night.

Announcement was made by H. J. Griffith, superintendent of Safety and Welfare, Pittsburgh Works, of the plans for a no-accident contest in November, to be held between the mills and railroads of the corporation. A safety poster contest which is open to employes of the corporation and members of their families is also to be held during the month of November in order to arouse interest in accident prevention. Cash prizes are to be presented for the best posters.

The principal speaker of the evening was Walter E. Darling, who related some of his experiences since being rendered totally blind through an industrial accident.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

VOTE MACHINE CRITICS WILL BE HEARD

Opponents to Voice Claims At Chamber of Commerce Lunch; Council Backs Issue

Vote machine critics will have a chance at the Chamber of Commerce today to voice their objections and point out defects through which they believe the machines may be "framed" at elections.

A demonstration of the machines will be given at a luncheon held at the Chamber under the auspices of the Inter-Community Affairs Committee, of which John W. Vickerman is chairman.

Senator Frank J. Harris and H. A. Nichols, of Rochester, N. Y., will speak. The League of Women Voters of Allegheny County is joining with the Chamber in sponsoring today's gathering.

City Will Confer On School Streets

President James F. Malone has appointed Councilmen Robert Garland, John S. Herron and Robert J. Alderdice to confer with the Board of Public Education regarding the opening of streets in the vicinity of Peabody High School and the exchange of property adjoining Arsenal Junior High School.

PUPILS ACQUIRE NEW IDEAS OF POLITICIANS

Visit to Council Proves They Don't Wear Black Derbies, Loud Suspenders

Pupils of the civic class of South Hills High School and the history class of Langley High School, will report to their classmates today on their experience as visitors to Council Chamber.

The students attended yesterday's regular meeting and were invited by President James F. Malone to express their views on what they had observed.

Lucille Hamilton, of South Hills, said:

"My visit here has changed my ideas of politicians. I thought they always wore black derbies, loud suspenders and kept a black cigar continuously in their mouths. I am pleased to say that I find them rather nice looking."

Jean Ashton, also of South Hills High, arose to leave the meeting before it was over, but remained at the request of President Malone. She explained later that she had a date with her hairdresser. Malone, whose pate is innocent of hair, replied:

"Well, if I had known that was your reason for leaving I might have gone with you."

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

With the introduction of machinery man-power feared it was to be supplanted. By the force of AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE this ancient prejudice disappeared. Our modern "machine age" brings happiness and prosperity.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

TUNE IN—The Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, every Saturday night, over a coast-to-coast network of the N. B. C.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

GREAT ACTRESS, DAMITA SAYS

"What," the reporter asked Miss Lily Damita, "shall we tell the Pittsburgh people about you?"

"Wail," advised the Lily, "you tell 'em zat Lily is the world's most beautiful, zat she is the greatest actress, and zat she is the wonderful girl."

"And is that all?"

"Wail, you tell 'em zat Lily is the second Sarah Bernhardt, although eet is not true, and you tell 'em zat she is swell propaganda for France to let everybody see her beautiful women."

"And is that all?"

"Wail, you tell 'em two times zat Lily is the most beautiful girl, eh?"

Thus spoke the little girl who is in Pittsburgh this week with "Carry On," new musical comedy starring Jack Donahue and featuring a winsome Pittsburgh girl, Isobel Zehner, formerly of West View and Zelienople, who left school to grace the footlights. The company manager is another Pittsburgher, Tom Bodkin, well-known sportsman.

METAL PLANE BUILT HERE FLIES

Thaden Designed Ship Passes Tests Held at Butler; Means Innovation

It flies!

The all-metal Pittsburgher, first airplane ever built here for commercial use, proved successful far beyond the expectations of its designer, Capt. H. V. Thaden, in its first trial flights at the Pittsburgh-Butler airport.

The new ship, a four-place cabin monoplane embodying the latest aeronautical development both in design and air-worthiness, was piloted yesterday on its maiden flight by Capt. C. G. Sellers, manager and chief pilot of the Pittsburgh-Butler airport. He made four successful hops, remaining aloft for more than an hour all told. The tests were conducted secretly, the only persons on the field in addition to attaches being Capt. Thaden, his wife, Mrs. Louise McPhetridge Thaden.

PITTSBURGH PRODUCT

The new ship is entirely a Pittsburgh product. Corrugated metal sheets and tubing used in the construction all are fabricated here. It is the first ship ever built using the new monocoque fusilage, a method of construction entirely without internal struts or cross members.

The wings, too, are of an entirely new design and construction, employing a new development of Col. E. E. Clark of the Aviation Corporation in New York. The latest type stabilizer, a device for flying the ship without the aid of human hands, also is included in the new plane.

DESIGNER MAKES TRIP

On the last trip, Capt. Sellers took the designer up with him. They stayed up only 10 minutes, settling gracefully on the field again and taxiing up to the hangars into which attendants rolled the new ship without a moments delay.

"This ship is only one stage of the development in our factory," declared Capt. Thaden. "Between now and spring we will have produced several other experimental ships, each embodying some new idea."

WEST VIEW WILL FIGHT BUS FARE

Each member of the West View Board of Trade will contribute $1 to aid in the fight for lower bus fares, under a resolution adopted at a meeting of the board last night in the Junior High School auditorium.

The money will go toward a transit survey in the efforts of the Allied Boards of Trade to force a reduction of the 25-cent fare charged by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company.

A proposed independent bus line from Ingomar to Pittsburgh, with a 15-cent fare from West View to the city, was discussed by T. W. Jones, president of the contemplated line. He asked aid of the board in obtaining a certificate of public convenience from the State Public Service Commission. The Harmony interurban line and the Pittsburgh Railways Company are opposing the move, it was revealed.

"On to Lake Erie," was urged as a slogan to supersede the former watchword "On To Cairo," now that canalization of the Ohio River has been completed.

Citizens were urged to favor voting machines at the polls November 5. Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park, in addressing the gathering, declared:

"If slot machines could be abolished and voting machines adopted, the duties of a district attorney for Allegheny County would be pleasant, comparatively speaking."

Plans were announced as nearing completion for a house-to-house membership drive and for a banquet to mark completion of the Pittsburgh to West View link of the new Perry highway. C. V. Shoup, chairman, reported that negotiations were under way to acquire 4½ acres near the Highland school for a community playground.

PRIEST BOOSTS HOSPITAL FUND

James F. Keenan, president of the board of trustees, presided. Practically all members of the board were present and the staff, auxiliary and nursing sections also were well represented. Reports carried the fund to a total of $119,603 and it was announced that the final report luncheon would be held Thursday noon at the Rittenhouse, giving all workers three full days in which to complete pending work.

Sentenced on 17 Charges Including Counterfeiting, Forgery and Larceny

Joseph Haas, 60, druggist of 1003 Bluff street, today began serving a 10-year sentence in the penitentiary.

After Haas pleaded guilty to 17 charges including counterfeiting of street car passes, nine check forgeries, three morality charges, larcency and conspiracy, Judge Harry H. Rowand imposed sentence.

When making his plea Haas admitted to Judge Rowand that he had been arrested and served several short terms on and off ever since 1896 for misdemeanors of various kinds. Once he was in the penitentiary and another time in Leavenworth on a charge of selling liquor in his drug store.

Anna Kubacka, 15, a blonde waitress, of 2204 Fifth avenue, admitted Haas had made advances to her and burst into tears when Judge Rowand opined that she be sent to Morganza. Esther Finucan, 26, of 3604 Bates street, was given two to nine months in jail and Elizabeth Wise, of Bluff street, one to six months in jail for their part in the store robbery. PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

School Set Dance on Dec. 23

SOCIETY nowadays doesn't agree with our Puritan ancestors that children should be seen and not heard. Society folks today, moreover, believe in feting the younger folks, particularly members of the school set.

Thanksgiving vacation usually brings several entertainments for the boarding and prep school girls and boys, and Christmas still more, since the Yuletide vacation is longer.

Among the dances to be given for the debutantes and cotillion leaders of the future will be a ball on December 23 in the University Club in honor of Sallie Gibson. And her father and mother, the junior John Gibsons, of Bennington avenue, will be the hosts. Sallie's attending Oldfields School at Glencoe, Md.

* * *

TODAY I've still another change of date for you to record in your engagement book. The Cinderella ball will be on December 9, instead of November 27, according to Mrs. Charles Wunder, who's taking charge of publicity for the event. And the hours of the dance this year will be from 9 to 1 o'clock, giving young folks one hour more than Cinderella had. Of course you know the ball is being given by the dispensary board of St. Margaret's Hospital.

FROM the East comes word that there's to be another notable November wedding. Mildred Carlisle Burgwin has named November 20 as the date for her marriage to Richard King Wood, of New York, oldest son of Arthur King Wood, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Marguerite Richardson Wood, of New York. Of course I hardly need mention that Mildred's father is Maj. Augustus P. Burgwin, of the Pittsburgh Club.

The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Ellsworth avenue.

Their betrothal was made known the very first day of the month.

BEFORE the debut tea the Charles Layng Doyles are giving this afternoon in "Vine Acres," their Sewickley home, to present their daughter Rebecca, Mrs. Benjamin Rush Bradford Townsend is giving a buffet luncheon in honor of another bud, Mary Elizabeth Floyd, daughter of the Thomas Atterbury McGinleys.

And after the debut this afternoon the Doyles will give a small dinner dance in their home for the debs.

* * *

PARTIES are being planned for Martha Fleming Rutan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elmer Rutan, of Bryn Mawr, and Sewickley, who'll wed Louis Badger Wells, son of Mrs. Benjamin Glyde Wells and the late Mr. Wells, of Bryn Mawr, on November 9.

* * *

AND may I remind you that the usual sale for the benefit of the Novelty Shop of the Western Penitentiary and Prison Handiwork Shop of the Eastern Penitentiary will be held Wednesday and Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. J. Bissell, of Penn avenue.

MISS LUCILE KLEIN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund S. Klein, of Denniston avenue, became the bride of Henry Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Newman, of New Orleans, last evening at 7 o'clock in the Concordia Club with the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, of the Rodef Shalom Temple, as officiant.

The walls of the clubhouse were hung with southern smilax, serving as a background for masses of yellow and bronze and purple chrysanthemums.

The bride wore a distinctive gown of white tulle, in princess style, and carried calla lilies. Her only ornaments were heirlooms in the family, pearl earrings. Her veil was of tulle.

Mrs. William Rosenbaum, Jr., of New York, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a period gown in faille silk of cornflower shade, trimmed with green. The second matron of honor, Mrs. Norman J. De Roy, wore a similar gown.

Green faille gowns in the same period style, trimmed in cornflower, were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Helen Rosenbaum, Miss Ruth Dreyfus, of New York; Miss Marie Hayes, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Victor Kiam, sister of the bridegroom, of New Orleans.

Victor Kiam was his brother-in-law's best man, and Harris Hyman, Jr., William Rosenbaum, Jr., and Albert Rosenbaum, all of New York; Roland Freelander, of Pittsburgh, and Robert Newman and Samuel Horn, of New Orleans, were ushers.

A dinner and a ball followed the wedding. After a honeymoon at White Sulphur Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Newman will make their home in New Orleans.

MR. AND MRS. A. W. FRALEY, of South Aiken avenue, East End, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Helen Jean Fraley, to John Otis, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Otis, of Cleveland, on October 12. The wedding took place in the Little Church Around the Corner, in New York. After November 3, Mr. and Mrs. Otis will live in Boston.

Mrs. Hartman Honored at Reception

NEARLY 100 members of the Pittsburgh Female College Association gathered in the College Club yesterday for the reception to the president, Mrs. Galen C. Hartman. Mrs. Hartman, the other officers, and the honorary president, Mrs. W. C. Anderson, received the guests, and after the reception there was a most artistic and delightful song recital by Martha Eaton Brickman, with Hulda Lefridge accompanying.

Mrs. Brickman chose her numbers from a variety of sources. Leroux, Gretchaninoff, Pearl Curran, Austin, and, by request, sang "Love's Old Sweet Song," which will never grow musically threadbare as long as there are those to sing it as Martha Brickman does.

Mrs. J. A. Wilson and Mrs. John M. Roberts presided at the tea table in the bay window, where the table's somewhat unusual centerpiece of yellow chrysanthemums and autumn leaves in a high pottery bowl with lighted tapers of a deeper shade stood out effectively against the dark blue velvet window drapes. Mrs. A. C. Shaw, chairman for the day, was assisted by Mrs. A. B. Wolfe, Mrs. W. R. Kuhn, Mrs. Herman Welty, Mrs. Robert Bailey, Mrs. W. H. Watts, Mrs. J. S. Mahon, Mrs. Armand Hess, Mrs. Thomas E. Jones and Mrs. James A. Botsford.

RED DECREED AS A PRINCIPAL COLOR FOR EVENING GARMENTS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The mode dictates a new decree—and it is red. For red in all its cheerful beauty has been decreed as one of the principal colors for evening wear. There has been a steady demand for it from women whose influence on fashion is all-important. Red is a color that should be chosen with care, as should the shade of rogue used when wearing a dress of that hue, or the result may make you "see red."

RED MOIRE, velvet and taffeta have been much seen at various resorts and functions this last week, and all of these fabrics had been made up into strikingly beautiful evening dresses, with the genius of the designer concentrated on the line, rather than unnecessary detail or embellishment, Regal simplicity was, in almost every case, the keynote, and in the rare instances that another note was struck, the result was a dress that was decidedly out of place in a well-dressed assemblage. Yes, there is no doubt about it, red must be tactfully treated.

WE show today two red dresses, each one a triumph of effective simplicity. The first is of a dress seen at the Ritz dinner dance and when we tell you that it attracted much attention from that gathering which includes some of the smartest women in the world, we think you will appreciate a description of it. It is of bright red taffeta, in a fine and supple weave. Set in diagonal bands appear to wrap the figure crossing in two flaring trains, not very long, scarcely trailing, but more than just touching the floor, nevertheless. The "V" decolletage in back reaches nearly to the waistline. A corsage of pure white orchids was worn with this frock.

THE second dress, also of red taffeta, is from Molyneux. Capt. Molyneux did not appreciably lift the waistline in the August showings but has adopted it since then. In this case, it is marked by a crushed girdle around the hips and knotted in front. The tiered skirt of circular flounces is short in front, but exceedingly long at sides and back.

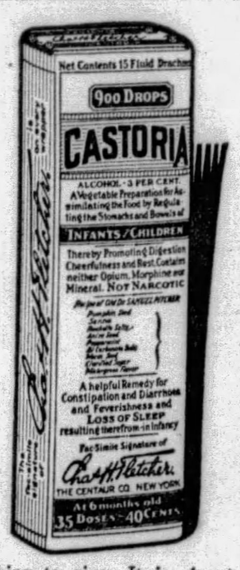
When Babies CRY



Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

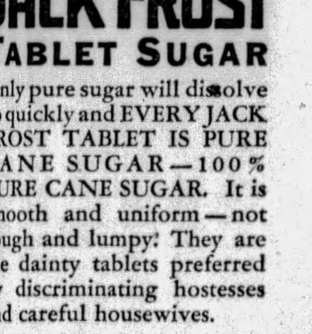
Look years younger

Sallow, Dingy Skin made Lovely—Coarse Pores Become Fine—It corrects oily skin, heals eruptions and dissolves blackheads.



Cremed Magnesia clears the skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach

The newest discovery in beauty culture is that cremed magnesia is much better for the complexion than any soap or cleansing cream. It beautifies the skin instantly, in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. This is because skin impurities are acid. Doctors treat acid inside the body with milk of magnesia. And now dermatologists are getting amazing results in banishing complexion faults with cremed magnesia. All you do is anoint your skin with it, massage and rinse with water. It's as simple as washing your face.

It reduces enlarged pores to the finest, smoothest texture almost as if by magic. Being astringent, it drives away the telltale signs of age. You will marvel at the effect of your first five-minute facial massage. It rejuvenates the skin so quickly that any woman can look lovely tonight, years younger. It's marvelous how magnesia dissolves blackheads, clears eruption and corrects oily skin.

And because it is so mild, mothers use it instead of soap to bathe infants. It certainly is a blessing as a face wash for fine, sensitive skins that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. Being greaseless, it cannot fatten the face or grow hair. It removes make-up and extracts impurities deep-set in the pores better than soap or cold cream. It changes dull, sallow skin to radiant clearness and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons.

GUARANTEE
It's impossible for Denton's Facial Magnesia not to improve your complexion. But, should it fail to delight you, even after the very first application, your dealer is requested to refund your money at once without question.

DENTON'S CREMED
Facial Magnesia

NOTE: Do not hesitate to try this marvelous skin treatment at once. Thousands of delighted women have written they could not believe anything so simple could be so wonderful. But they were convinced when they saw so many friends suddenly get lovely complexions.

PITT FAVORED OVER O. S. U.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

To Fill Stadium Again.
Pitt-O. S. U. Big Card.
Why Braves Sold Bell.
Money for New Timber.
Bull-Pen Work Strain.
Rosenbloom Is Hopeful.

SECOND GREAT GRID SPECTACLE HERE

MORE than four years passed before sufficient interest could be aroused in a local football game to bring out a crowd that would fill the Stadium, but now that the thing has been done once and the gridiron sport has reached the highest peak on record in this end of the state, you may look for last Saturday's crowd to be equaled several times during the next few seasons.

Sam Willaman

And the first instance of the sort may be only four days away, for there are strong indications that when Coach Sam Willaman sends his Ohio State troops against the Pitt forces next Saturday afternoon The Stadium will be found holding another capacity crowd.

Many fans may be surprised to learn that up to last Friday night more tickets had been sold for the Pitt-Ohio State game than for the Carnegie Tech-Notre Dame clash. The additional sales that made last Saturday's gathering a record-breaker was due to the fact that the ideal weather conditions on the day of the game brought out many thousands who had not purchased tickets up to that time.

IF THE weather man hands out some of his best goods again this week, and particularly on game day, it seems safe to predict that there will be as many out next Saturday. Pitt and Ohio State officials believe that unless there is a heavy rain tonight or tomorrow, they will be able to report a complete sell-out by tomorrow night or Thursday.

In this expected sell-out they include not only the reserved seats, but the general admission tickets, several thousands of which have already been sold. Temporary bleachers were installed yesterday to accommodate a possible overflow, and if the weather is right the presence of the governors of Pennsylvania and Ohio with military escort, the appearance of O. S. U.'s great band and other features may provide even a bigger spectacle than that of last Saturday.

THE sale of Third Baseman Lester Bell to the Cubs by the Braves marks the beginning of rebuilding operations in Boston by Manager Bill McKechnie. The latter had Bell when he managed the Cardinals, and there is no doubt, therefore, that he knew what he was doing when he sold him.

Besides, McKechnie could well afford to part with a third sacker, as he possesses a greater supply of good material for that position than for any other on his team. Even with Bell gone, the new boss of the Braves still has three hot-corner specialists in Joe Dugan and Gene Robertson, formerly of the Yankees, and Red Rollings, formerly of the Red Sox.

Lester Bell

THE Wilkinsburg leader has a well-defined plan of reconstruction mapped out, as he explained last night in discussing the sale of Bell. "We had too much material for third base and not enough for other positions," he said. "Our best interests for the future constituted the motive for the selling of Bell for cash, as it is our intention to spend the money that we received for him to buy the young talent that we must have to build up our team."

IT IS the opinion of many baseball men that in obtaining Bell to bolster their admittedly weakest spot, the Cubs have improved whatever chance they may be said to have for repeating their 1929 pennant victory next year.

Lester batted above .300 in only one full major league season—he had a mark of .325 in 1926—but he was only two points under the line this year with an average of .298, and in an all-around sense he promises to be more valuable than Norman McMillan or Clyde Beck.

IT IS thought that the Bruin management consulted Rogers Hornsby before making the deal for Bell. Certainly Hornsby ought to know something about the third baseman, as their big league careers have been strangely interwoven.

Chicago will be third team on which they have played together in the National League, as following Bell's first two St. Louis trials in 1923 and 1924, they were Cardinal mates for two full seasons in 1925 and 1926, and were members of the Braves in 1928.

George Earnshaw

THE fact that only four pitchers in the two major baseball leagues were able to win as many as 20 games this year, George Earnshaw, of the Athletics, heading the list with 23 victories, draws attention again to the growing loss of effectiveness on the part of big-show hurlers. Various reasons have been assigned for the falling off. The latest comes from a prominent umpire, who attributes it to too much work in the bull pen. "At any ball park during the recent season it could be seen that pitchers were being worked to death every afternoon, though they did not take part in the games," he told Joe Vila.

"SOME of the slabmen had to pitch to their fellow players in batting practice before the game, while others were kept warming up when the pitcher who had received the afternoon's assignment was being hit rather freely. As many as three flingers were warming up during some of the games in order that they might be ready for emergency duty.

"These men actually worked as hard as the one who was pitching the game. Hot weather cut no figure with the practice, and often it was the case that bull-pen pitchers were so completely used up, when called upon to face opposing hitters the same day or the following day, they were too weak to do themselves justice.

"THERE was a time when a big league club carried not more than four or five pitchers. Bull-pen pitching was not heard of then, and when it became necessary to change hurlers the new man went directly from the bench to the box, where he warmed up his arm by delivering a few balls to the catcher.

"That was enough to perfect his control, and naturally his strength was not impaired. If the major league managers would let up on this bull-pen nonsense, there is no doubt in my mind that their pitchers would get better results, particularly in hot weather." All of which is quite in line with an expression made by Deacon Phillippe while a Pirate slab ace more than two decades ago, when he said that he'd rather pitch two whole games than warm up once.

Maxie Rosenbloom

MAXIE ROSENBLOOM, New York gloveman, who has been seen in Pittsburgh rings against Johnny Wilson, Homer Robertson, Garfield Johnson, Bobby Brown and others, is hopeful that he will get somewhere as a result of his recent appeal to the New York boxing commission to recognize him as the new light-heavyweight champion of the world, to fill the vacancy caused by the withdrawal of Tommy Loughran from that division. As in the case of Jack Sharkey, in the heavyweight class, the commission has passed the buck to the newspapers. That is, while not granting the requested official recognition, it has made what amounts almost to a suggestion that if the Gotham fight critics work up a campaign in Rosen-

HUDKINS SET FOR BATTLE TONIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Mickey Walker's fistic crown will be placed on the boxing mart of the world at Wrigley Field tonight when Ace Hudkins makes his second bid for the middleweight title against the Toy Bulldog of Rumson, N. J.

Realizing that defeat probably will mark the exit of the vanquished from the 160-pound division, both scrappers will climb into the ring in superb condition as the result of a month of conditioning.

WALKER AT 162

The champion broke training camp yesterday at Soper Ranch in the Ventura hills. The contender packed up his belongings at Bastanchury Ranch in the Orange Groves Sunday and went through three light rounds at a gymnasium here yesterday to finish off.

Walker, generally considered to be a bit heavy for the middleweight class, was reported by his manager, Jack (Doc) Kerns to tip the beam at 162 pounds. The Nebraska Wildcat weighed 157 before his final workout.

While the general opinion, based on 8-to-10 betting odds, placed the champion a favorite to retain his title, the outcome of the 10-round battle was conceded to depend upon the change which has come over the pair since their meeting in Chicago a year ago last summer.

Walker contends that on that night he had a decided advantage over Hudkins, who was making his first stab at the middleweight division. The former Lincoln (Neb.) newsboy, insists that he was never so surprised in his life when the battle was awarded Mickey.

IMPROVES STYLE

Since that time the fast stepping, two-fisted battler from the Cornhusker state has improved his style, judging from the fight with Armand Emanuel, when he met the light-heavyweight's stabbing left to outbox the San Francisco barrister. He has also added several pounds in weight, and maintains that he can hit harder than ever.

The sturdy 29-year-old Walker has made few ring appearances since that time. He won an important victory over Leo Lomski, while he dropped a decision to Tommy Loughran in a fight for the light-heavyweight championship of the world. Walker still has designs on the crown Loughran has outgrown.

Pool Championship Playoff Continued

BALTIMORE, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The triple tie in the Eastern elimination play to determine the entrant for the world championship pocket billiard play, developed on Saturday, continued last night, with three matches played during the day, each of the three remaining players winning and losing one game.

Arthur Woods, of Pawtucket, R. I., disposed of Onofrio Lauri, of Brooklyn, 100 to 60, only to be beaten himself, 100 to 36, by Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia. Ponzi then was taken into camp by Lauri, 100 to 81. Play will be resumed today.

Trinity Cage Teams Prepare for Dance

The Boys' Council at Trinity Cathedral which handles the athletic activity for the boys of the downtown church, held its bi-monthly meeting in the Cathedral last night, with Rev Warren G. Gookin presiding. Vern Swartsfager was elected general treasurer.

It was announced arrangements are complete for the big Hallowe'en dance to be held in the Church House, tomorrow night by the combined Trinity basketball teams, proceeds from which are to be used to defray their expenses. More than 200 persons are expected to attend.

Pape's Eligibility Is Definitely Established

IOWA CITY, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The eligibility of Oran (Nanny) Pape, twice this season called into question on charges of professionalism, was definitely established last night by the University of Iowa Board of Control of Athletics.

Pape, fleet Hawkeye halfback, accused last week of playing semi-pro football with the Dubuque Bears in October, 1926, under an assumed name, was permitted to play in the Wisconsin game last Saturday when an investigation failed to substantiate thee harges.

The eligibility committee announced at the time, however, that there were still several points remaining for investigation, and these were finally written off the books at last night's meeting.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Charley Berlander, Canadian light-heavyweight boxer, won the decision over Billy Jones, Philadelphia Negro, in a 10-round bout at the Arena last night. Berlanger weighed 175 pounds, two pounds more than Jones.

Johnny Jadick, Philadelphia, 134, won a close decision over Eddie Reed, New York, 134¼, in a slashing 10-round semi-windup. Reed, who had stopped Jadick in a single round a few weeks ago, was out to repeat, but Jadick was too wary.

Frankie Hayes, Philadelphia, 141, scored an easy victory over Al Gracio, Spokane, Wash., 140, in eight rounds. Gracio was down for a count of seven in the first round, and a left hook dropped him again in the fourth for a count of nine.

Mickey Diamond, Philadelphia, 136, won the decision in six rounds over Willie Patterson, Philadelphia, 141, and Bobby Barrett, Philadelphia, 150, won a six-rounder from Red Roush, Sellersville, Pa., 150½.

BAKER STOPS SILVERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Sergeant Sammy Baker, soldier welterweight battler from Mitchel Field, N. Y., knocked out Joey Silvers in the eighth round of their scheduled 10-round bout at the Jamaica Arena last night. Baker won easily, smashing over a right to the jaw for the final punch in the eighth. He weighed 147 pounds; Silvers 152

The 10-round bout between Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, and Patsy Ruffalo, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., was halted in the eighth round and declared "no contest" at the St. Nicholas Arena. The bout was marred by much holding and clinching with Ruffalo the chief offender. Wal-

Steffen to Head Soldier Field Committee

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Soldier Field will be the scene of outstanding football contests each Thanksgiving Day for 10 years, starting in 1930, under plans of the Chicago unit of the Shriners' Hospital for crippled children.

Judge Walter Steffen, of Chicago, commuting coach of the Carnegie Tech eleven, has been named chairman of a committee to schedule games under a plan calling for contests between outstanding teams of the country, the proceeds to go to the hospitalization fund.

FESLER MEETS DONCHESS IN BIG TEST

By JESS CARVER.

Unfortunately for the Pitt peace of mind, the Panthers are doomed to enter another football game on the long, long end of the wagering. So far this year, Jock Sutherland's Panthers have been prime favorites in each of their battles, a situation which makes Coach Jock a very hard guy to get along with. It burns him up, that's what it does.

Wesley Fesler.

Ohio State might have eased the situation a bit by knocking off Indiana last Saturday. Had the Buckeyes won, and ankled in here for the fracas with the Panthers with a spotless slate, the odds would not have been as prohibitive as they are going to be about Friday night.

The chances are you'll have to give two to one or 13 points to get much of a bet up on the game. And those gents who run around giving points on college football games are the ones you see sleeping in the streets.

ALWAYS ON TOP

So far this year Pitt has figured in the following manner in the betting before its games:

Waynesburg—30 points—little betting.

Duke University—26 points—few takers.

West Virginia—2 to 1 or 13 points.

Nebraska—2 to 1 or 13 points.

Allegheny—26 points—few takers.

Not the least of the attending features for the Panther-Buckeye game will be the meeting between two all-America ends, Wesley Fesler, of the Staters, and Joe Donchess, of Pitt.

Folks in the Mid-West say Fesler is the best end in captivity. Hereabouts, it is difficult to sell anyone other than Joe. We shall see what we shall see Saturday.

TOUGH FOR DUKES

Grove City certainly did not do Duquesne much of a favor by trampling on Geneva Saturday. The sting of the 34-0 defeat served up by the Crimson will make the Covenanters so durned mad that they figure to make it very tough for the Dukes in the night game here Friday.

If requests for free tickets is any criterion, Manager Johnny Holohan is going to take in plenty of bucks at Forbes Field after dinner Friday. The game should go over with a big bang, for it will be as fine, thrilling as a struggle as it will be colorful as a spectacle.

TARTANS WARNED

Reports brought back by Carnegie Tech scouts relative to the strength of the Washington University eleven which the Plaid meets in St. Louis this coming week-end were so complimentary to Al Sharpe's men that the Tartars are going to leave Thursday for the game.

Washington whamed out a 33-0 win over Drury College at St. Louis Saturday, giving the young gentleman who was there scouting for Tech (Paul Allison), much to write down in his little note book. As a result, the Plaid squad will entrain Thursday evening at 11:43 for the Missouri city, arriving there about noon Friday.

Tech came out of the Notre Dame game in fair shape physically, minor bumps and bruises, picked up in any game, being the sum total of the Skibo hurts.

HOW FORBES FIELD WILL LOOK FOR NIGHT FOOTBALL

PROJECTORS LIGHT UP SCENE FOR NOCTURNAL SPORT

Here's how the athletic field of Drake University, of Des Moines, Ia., looks for the night football games which have been so successful and gives an idea of how Forbes Field will be illuminated for the night games to be played there by the Dukes, beginning with next Friday's game with Geneva College. The Drake field has 20 projectors burning 2,000 watts each. Forbes Field will have 28 projectors of the same power. The lights are mounted on poles 55 feet above the ground on each side of the field.

M'TIERNAN STOPS FIFIELD WITH HEART PUNCH

HUGE CROWD SEES BUCK TRIUMPH

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

It seems that Buck McTiernan never really went away.

Last night, in the scheduled 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden, before the largest crowd that has witnessed a show there in several seasons, numbering more than 5,000, the Swissvale star, who was laid up with rheumatism for several months, flashed anew all of the promise he showed prior to his illness in knocking out Georgie Fifield, of Toronto, former Canadian welterweight champion, in a workmanlike manner in the fourth round, ending the bout with a right to the heart that sent Fifield to the floor rolling in agony. For many minutes after being assisted to his corner after the count, Fifield cried and winced in pain, and it was thought he had suffered a broken rib among his other hurts from the finishing blow.

Buck McTiernan

Buck, who signalized his return to the ring, a little more than a week ago, by knocking out Tony Ross in less than a round at McKeesport, never looked better in his career than against the stocky, battle-scarred Fifield. He moved gracefully about to either side and in and out, making Georgie miss and nailing him at will with both hands.

LOSER'S PURSE CUT

Fifield still was nursing the effects of the knockout punch before leaving for Toronto this morning. He complained of pains in the region of his heart when he breathed, and his manager, Phil Daniels, was preparing to have an x-ray examination made to determine if he had suffered a broken rib. Incidentally, the boxing commission took a healthy slice out of the visitor's purse, paying him the ridiculous sum of only $140 on the basis of four rounds fought. He was to have received a guarantee of $350, little enough for the beating he took, and likely will enter suit for the remainder, his manager said. The commission, by some devious method of reasoning, came to the conclusion that Fifield was not knocked out and could have got back on his feet after the finishing blow.

A left hook to the chin dropped Fifield momentarily to his knees in the first round and a left hook to the body made him double up later. In the second round, another left hook to the body, Buck's favorite punch, by the way, partly lifted the Canadian off his feet. It was not until near the end of the third round, however, that McTiernan, after having carefully paved the way by gradually breaking down Fifield's powers of resistance, began to press for the knockout. With less than a minute to go, he suddenly blazed away with both fists, shifting to the head and body and back again, and he had Georgie dizzy and rocking as he returned to his corner at the bell.

The fourth round was only one minute 10 seconds old before McTiernan had finished the job and the count had been completed. Fencing away with Fifield and trading blows to get the opening he desired, Buck suddenly drove in his right just under the heart for as clean and destructive a body punch as ever was landed in a local ring and Fifield sagged under it and dropped to the canvas, writhing in pain. He was fully conscious, but paralyzed by the blow and unable to gain control of his legs as he struggled to get up. The end came with such startling suddenness that the crowd was stunned almost into total silence, but as it left the building it was raving about the great hitting powers and flashy boxing skill of the popular Buck, who should prove a great box office attraction for the Garden this winter.

McTiernan weighed 151½ pounds and Fifield 149½, at 3 p. m.

ALL PRELIMS ARE DRAWS

Not only was the show the best "draw" in several seasons at the Garden, but it also was a "draw" in another respect, in that all three preliminaries were officially declared draws. They really weren't that, but split decisions of the officials made them such.

A considerable portion of the large crowd was lured out to witness the return engagement between George Panka, Homestead's illustrious heavyweight bricklayer, and Long Tom Williams, lengthy Negro, of Chicago and Cleveland, in the six-round semi-final. It was one of those slow motion heavyweight fights, with Panka unable to break through Tom's long arms and land damagingly with his right and finally losing his sock from sheer exhaustion and Tom fighting only in spurts.

The first two rounds were all in Williams' favor, and the next two were slightly in favor of Panka. They slugged it out in the last two with little to choose between them. As in their first clash, two weeks ago, in the same ring, Williams had the edge, but Judge Jock Simco voted for Panka and Judge Frank Ferris and Referee Al Grayber wrote it down as a draw. Their first meeting also was declared a draw, Grayber several times warned Williams for not continuing to fight, but couldn't manage to keep the big fellow from taking his breathing spells. Tom scaled 190½ pounds and George 193½.

KICK AROUND DECISIONS

Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, 130½, bested Romeo Pacelli, of New Castle, 130, subbing on short notice for Chet Smaliwood, of Akron, who had a bad hand, in the six-round second bout, but the officials also kicked this one around, Judge Simeo voting for Hargraves, Judge Ferris for Pacelli and Referee Joe Keally for a draw. Pacelli put up a good fight for a filler-in and treated the fans to a full minute of toe-to-toe slugging in a furious rally in the last round. The flurry was ill-timed, however, for, after it was over, Romeo still had more than a minute to go and finished dead tired and lagging with his opponent.

Georgie Chambers, of the East End, who knocked out Steve Polock, of the South Side, in the first round last week, proved a disappointment in the six-round opener, in which he took a pasting from his old rival of their days in the amateur ranks, Hugh Fetzer, of the North Side, but got a draw when Judge Simco and Referee Grayber voted for a dead heat, while Judge Simco rightly strung along with Fetzer. Fetzer, built along the lines of a wrestler, was the aggressor all the way and spilled Chambers for counts of one and nine in the second round and himself never was in danger. Chambers won the fourth round by a shade and held his own in the third and all of the others went to Fetzer.

BERNARD TO BOX GOLDSTEIN

Local boxing fans will get a chance to see Roger Bernard, of Flint, Mich., recent conqueror of Tony Herrera, the Mexican lightweight star, in action in the main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. He will oppose Phil Goldstein, most popular of the local lightweights, judging from the manner in which he draws at the box office. Phil has boxed Herrera twice, winning the first fight on a foul and covering himself with glory in losing in the return meeting. Both bouts were staged at the Meyers Bowl, in North Braddock.

Bernard, who is managed by Mike McNulty, formerly of St. Paul and now of Detroit, who handled Johnny (Kewpie) Ertle, of St. Paul, when the latter claimed the bantamweight title, has built up a fine reputation for himself in the Middle West. He floored Herrera twice in their battle.

MAJESKE MEETS RANDALL

Walter Majeske, of Saginaw, Mich., will fight Tiger Joe Randall in the main bout of 10 rounds at the Moose Temple Friday night, according to Promoter Francis Flynn.

Majeske is replacing Tommy Malco, of Soho, who hurt a hand while training and therefore is unable to go through with his contract.

Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, has his card completed for tomorrow night with the exception of the opening bout. He has Joe Trippe and Tug Phillips in the windup, Harry Jennings, of Cincinnati, against Jackie Herman, of Wheeling, in the semi-final and Joey Angelo, of Braddock, and Bus Hardy of Beaver Falls, in the second event.

Jack McVey, Negro star, and Osk Till, of Rochester, N. Y., who fought a so-so battle in the Meyers Bowl during the past summer, will quarrel again over the six-round route in Cleveland Friday night. Frankie Chatterton and Ray Van Hook are in the semi-final.

BOUTS TONIGHT

Matchmaker Ed Fritz has completed his card for the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night. He has Johnny Burns and Henry Firpo, middleweights, in the 10-round windup. Romeo Pacelli against Martin Mazzeo and Al Reno against Louie Severo in the two six-rounders and Tony Bodda against Frankie Lance and Billy Murphy against Harry Thomas in two four-round events.

Tom Bodkin, former local manager and referee, is in town this week with the show "Carry On," at the Alvin. Tom, who has been in the show business for a number of years is manager of this company.

DICK SCHRADING, FORMER DUQUESNE STAR, TURNS OUT WINNING ELEVEN

MISS COLLETT TO INVADE EUROPE

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Glenna Collett, America's greatest woman golfer, is going to Europe again next year to try for the British championship. This was revealed here today by the four times National titleholder.

In announcing her decision to make another trip in quest of the coveted championship now held by Joyce Wethered, Miss Collett said that a number of America's ranking women players have discussed the matter of joining forces abroad to compete in the British championship, and to play the courses of England, German, Scotland and France. This indicates that 1930 may see the greatest invasion of Europe yet made by American women golfers.

There is the possibility that if a sufficient number of top-notch American players make the journey, a representative squad will be formed for informal team matches in England.

Miss Collett's determination to play abroad again was prompted by her splendid showing in the 1929 tournament, when she went to the final against Miss Wethered.

The fact that although finally defeated, she rounded out the first nine holes in that championship match in a sensational 34, to lead her rival by four up, has convinced the American ace that she has a chance to turn the tables on her English rival.

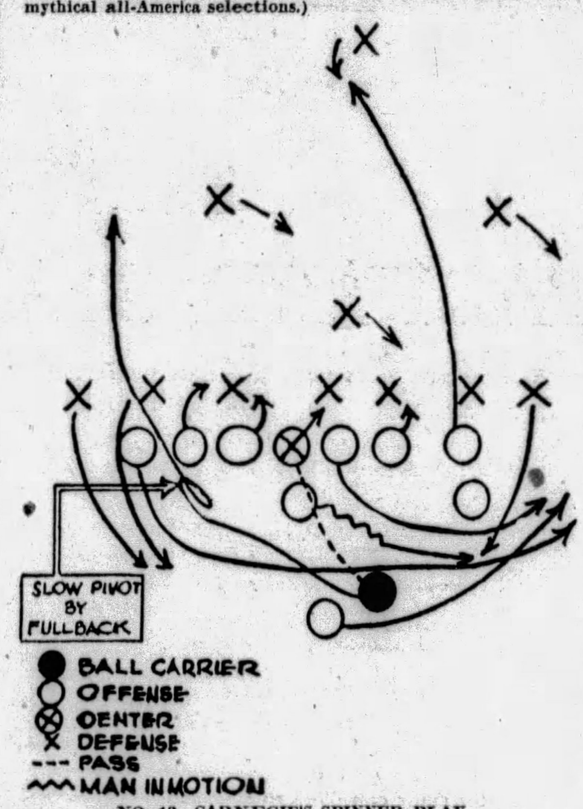
All-America Quarterback, 1928
Now Coach at Shady Side Academy

(Note.—Harpster, as the quarterback of the Carnegie Tech eleven last fall, gained national recognition as one of the most brilliant leaders of all time in the football realm. Experts hailed him as "the player with the mind of a coach." He captained the All-East team that defeated the All-West team in California at the end of the season, and was generally picked as captain of the mythical all-America selections.)



NO. 13—CARNEGIE'S SPINNER PLAY.

THIS is the famous Carnegie Tech "spinner play," originated by Coach Wally Steffen and worked with great success for several years. The play gained its greatest fame in the Carnegie Tech game against Notre Dame's Four Horsemen team in 1924, when Dick Beede, the Tech fullback, ran unmolested for two touchdowns in the first half. So deceptive was this play that not a single Notre Dame man even so much as laid a hand on Beede during either of his runs.

Beede took the ball from center and ran over in back of his left tackle, where he turned and faked the ball to his left end. The end faked carrying the ball and followed the quarterback and back man around right end.

bloom's behalf the board may consent to accept Max as at least the defender in a title bout with another worthy aspirant. Rosenbloom says he will go to any length to prove his right to the title. He offers to meet Tommy Loughran and let the latter come in as heavy as he pleases, and if that isn't satisfactory he suggests that he be allowed to fight it out for the crown with James J. Braddock.

UNLESS there is a "business" arrangement—you can't tell what some of the fighters are pulling when they are in your own back yard, much less when they are at the other side of the continent—there is a chance that another world fistic title will change hands tonight. Mickey Walker will enter the ring at Wrigley Field in Los Angeles in defense of his championship in a 10-round bout with Ace Hudkins.

Walker has not been taking the best care of himself of late, if reports are true, and should Mickey happen to be off form a bit Hudkins may take him. Many ringsiders opined that Ace should have been given the decision over Walker when they met in Chicago on June 21, 1828, and Walker can hardly be called as good now as he was then.

HEIDELBERG PROTESTS GLENDALE CLUB

ACTION TAKEN BY MANAGER OF CHAMPS

By TOM BIRKS

Manager Ernest Balsarini, of the Heidelberg soccer team, announced today that his club was going to ask the national challenge cup committee to drop the Glendale club from the national tourney since the fact became known that Glendale used an ineligible player, named McAlwee, in the lineup against the national champions. This game, played one week ago last Sunday, resulted in the dropping of Heidelberg from the national race following a protest from the Glendale club, backed by information supplied by the secretary of the West Penn Football Association.

Balsarini is not asking for reinstatement, but asks that the same law be applied to all clubs in the tournament, and that the rule be applied to Glendale which is scheduled to meet the Pierpoint Motors next Saturday, instead of the replay with the Heidelberg team.

Now that the official communication from Secretary Thomas Cahill, of the national body has been received, local soccer fans are asking: "Why did the secretary of the West Penn Football Association become so interested in the case, to send a communication to the national secretary without possibly being asked for the facts in the case, and if this opinion or facts were asked for, why weren't they given fully?"

Fans who believe that Heidelberg has been justly dropped from the competition, following the playing of Chappell and Comerolli in the Glendale game, may be interested in the following passage quoted by Secretary Cahill's letter.

"According to a letter submitted by the secretary of the Western Pennsylvania Football Association, it is not only proved that the men named were not eligible to compete in this game for your club, but that your club did not have any registrations with the W. P. F. A."

WHAT ABOUT GLENDALE

Now that the case is proved that the West Penn did butt into National business, local soccerties will probably ask why the West Penn did not complete its business of investigating the game and report the Glendale club.

In the official list of players submitted by Manager Krall and handed illegally to Manager Balsarini's office, the name of Player McAlwee, who according to published reports, played outside left in the game in question, is missing.

The question for soccer fans to ponder over is "Did McAlwee play in the game and, if he did, why was he not registered? And if the West Penn secretary made it his business to report Heidelberg for playing players not registered, why was Glendale left out of the reporting end of the business?"

Probably Manager Krall will have an opportunity to state who McAlwee was, and why his name was missing from the list given Heidelberg. Which again proves the contention of this column that some of the members of the local governing body are keenly anxious to throw the works into Heidelberg. It is admitted Heidelberg was in the wrong in not registering its players at the right time.

BODY INEFFICIENT

When is this persecution of the National champions going to end? The West Penn body is loudly proclaiming to the world its efficient methods. At the meeting last Tuesday, of which Balsarini was notified at 6 o'clock the same evening, found some of the delegates leaving at 8:30 p. m., whn the officers who conduct the affairs of soccer had not put in an appearance. And all the meetings this season have been along the same lines.

About four weeks ago, Heidelberg was magnanimously voted the sum of $65 for its expenses of the Preston North End game last spring. And even after that many-month wait, the club has not been paid the money yet. The mills of the local governing body grind slowly, and before next season it is possible that these inefficient methods preached so much, and which has caused Heidelberg's suspension, will be corrected within soccerdom's lofty portals.

But the case is not ended, and Manager Belsarini is going to ask that Glendale be dropped from the competition by the same law that eliminated them from the tourney. Laws are made to be respected by all, and not to suit the whim of someone who has an ax to grind.

HUNTERS OUT FRIDAY

The hunting season in Pennsylvania will get under way next Friday with numerous changes in vogue for the Keystone State outdoor sportsmen. The three-day-a-week program, which was in force last year, has been changed and the hunters now may roam the fields six days each week.

Reports from game commissioners in all sections of the state indicate an abundance of game.

ICE STARS REPORT

HIB MILKS JOE MILLER FRANK FREDERICKSON

All of the "regulars" of the Pittsburgh National Hockey League squad were in the fold today when Milks, star forward, and Miller, goalie, reported to Manager Frederickson while the Pirates were working out in the Webster Hall gymnasium. Milks and Miller arrived from their homes in Canada this morning.

ICE PIRATES SIGN STAR

skaters' workout in the Webster Hall gymnasium this morning.

Frederickson is not as particular as was Shylock, who insisted that his pound of flesh come from the vicinity of the heart, and when each of the local puckmen shed a pound or more of avoirdupois Frank did not ask him where he had lost it.

With the exception of Toots Holway, who has been retained by the Montreal Maroons, all of the 1928-29 Pirates were present for the gymnastic activities. Hib Milks and Goalie Joe Miller did not report here until this morning and their part in the workout was limited to looking on. They will get into harness (gym suits, just now) tomorrow.

SIGN NEW STAR

While the "regulars" were rounding into shape for the opening of the title race, Frederickson took time out to report that a new star had been signed and would report here the latter part of this week. The new Pirate is Archie Briden, center and captain of the Philadelphia Arrows, of the Canadian-American League, for the last two years. Briden, one of the fastest skaters in the sport, is no stranger to local followers of the ice sport, he having appeared here as a member of the Boston Bruins and Detroit Cougars a few years ago. A "fat" offer from Philadelphia rather than any lack of ability resulted in Archie's going from the "big time" to the Canadian-American circuit, and Benny Leonard; owner of the local club, had to hand over a nice collection of cash to get him back into the National League.

"ROOKIES" IN WORKOUT

Oliver Redpath and Norman Pridham, two other new performers signed by the Pirates last week, reported to Frederickson yesterday and participated in the workout today. Both are youngsters who tip the beam at close to 180 pounds, and who are fast for their weight. Pridham, who starred with Winnipeg in the Western Pro League and with Victoria in the Coast League, can play either defense or forward. Redpath, who won his spurs with Victoria and Seattle in the Coast League, also can play both wing and defense.

Although trade negotiations with Ottawa have fallen flat, Frederickson now is receiving swap messages from Detroit and the New York Rangers. Detroit wants to send Puss Traub, big defense man, here for Bert McCaffrey. Frederickson gave this proposition a cool reception, and countered by asking that the Cougars give up Bert Brydges, defense ace, in exchange for Bert. The Pirate-Rangers negotiations may result in Hib Milks going to New York in exchange for Paul Thompson, one of the most promising young forwards in the circuit.

Phils May Obtain Allentown Club

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Oct. 29.—(INS.)—There appeared a possibility today that the Phillies, the Philadelphia National League baseball club, will take over the local club franchise of the Eastern League or arrange an agreement whereby the Dukes will operate as a farm for the Philadelphia club during the 1930 season. The Phils officials are to make their decision today.

A committee composed of four members of the board of directors will confer with officials of the National League club in Philadelphia some time today.

Goldensons Squad To Stage Workout

The members of the Goldensons' basketball team will hold their first workout of the season at the South Side Market House tomorrow night. Among the newcomers on this year's team are Eddie Jesko, Red Sapira, Harry Taylor and Ducky Hill.

The Goldensons, who will compete in the County League, will have Ketchel and Siegel back from last year's team.

COX ELECTED

SERVICE HEADS CONFER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the West Point Military Academy, conferred today with Secretary Good preparatory to his discussion tomorrow with Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy, looking towards a resumption of athletic relations between West Point and Annapolis.

After the conference Gen. Smith expressed the opinion that if the naval and military academies were able to find a basis upon which to resume athletic contests, the Army's football schedules for 1929 and 1930 would not permit a game with the Navy during those two seasons.

He said the prospects for a football game did not appear possible before 1931, but that schedules for other sports were not yet closed.

The general said the Army did not break relations with the Navy and was anxious to resume them, but he could not comment on whether the Army would insist upon non-application of the three-year eligibility rule, the reason for the break.

ST. JOHN GUEST OF AD CLUB

Members of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club listened to an enlightening talk by L. W. St. John, athletic director at Ohio State University, at their weekly luncheon at the William Penn Hotel at noon today. Members of the alumni association of the local university cooperated with the Ad Club in entertaining the Ohio State official. He was introduced by W. Don Harrison, athletic director at Pitt.

St. John explained the manner in which Columbus has been educated to football, and went into detail in pointing out what Ohio State regards as the correct method of advertising football and the college team through the medium of the college publicity organization and the newspapers. He stressed the importance of playing up the team and not the individual in publicity articles.

Both of the athletic directors took care to inform their hearers that they had no good seats on the 50-yard line for the Pitt-Ohio State game here Saturday. R. B. McDanial, president of the Club, presided and at the close of the affair, presented both St. John and Harrison bill folds.

JIMMY WILSON SPIKES RUMOR

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—(INS.)—"It's all a big joke to me," Jimmy Wilson, star catcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, told International News Service today when questioned regarding reports he was to be made manager of the Cardinals.

"I don't know anything about it. No one has ever taken the matter up with me," Wilson said.

"I wouldn't take the post if it were offered me.

"I do expect to be back with the Cardinals next season as catcher again, and sure hope for a big year."

Wilson returned to his home here last night from New York where he played with a number of other big league stars in an exhibition game Sunday. He formerly was with the Philadelphia National League club and lives in the northern part of the city.

WEST VIEW TO BATTLE OLYMPICS

With the first week of November rolling around, the circle of title contenders among independent grid clubs is narrowing down to a select few, and when the games scheduled for Sunday are completed, more championship dreams will have faded in the distance.

All of the undefeated clubs will tangle in the list of scheduled games. At Rainbow Gardens, West View and Iverson's Olympics will fight for the right to stay in. Burns, fresh from its East Pittsburgh win, will tackle the Midland club, headed by Doc Benedict.

MAJESTICS AT GREENFIELD

Hope Harvey Majestics, very much in the titular fight, will meet Greenfield Community, but it is hard to see where the Community has any other rights, except as an undefeated club, to figure in the titular reckoning. Nothing impressive in the nature of football clubs has appeared at Magee Field, and should the outfit headed by the O'Neill brothers dump the Big Green Majestics, it will have every right to be classed as in the race.

Another game will be played that should appeal to the fans. It is the McChesneytown-East Pittsburgh Firemen battle at the Quarry Stadium. The Big Red machine of Latrobe has passed from the big race, but that will hardly stop a big crowd from watching the Kennedy machine swing into action against the Firemen.

The Rainbow Gardens battle will have the independent gridiron followers asking "who will win?" Both teams are at a disadvantage in having stars sitting on the sidelines. Iverson lost Toline in last Sunday's battle, and Sapp also is out. West View has Koelsch and Boots Klinzing on the doutbful list.

Koelsch got into the East Liverpool game for one play, but Klinzing, with an injured shoulder, is even more doubtful.

HAVRILLA TO PLAY

This will be the first apparance of Havrilla at Rainbow Gardens and his plunging may be compared with Kalitz's prowess. Both clubs have wonderful reserve talent, and the injured men will hardly be missed.

In the opinion of many cities, it it going to be a battle between two powerful lines, for West View has a more powerful one than that of the Olympics of last season. And it is a sure thing the Olympic line also is stronger, with Woodward and Dudley in the lineup.

Manager Mokan, of the Port Vue Quakers, stated last evening that his club is definitely through for the season. This has been the worst season the Quakers have had for many years, and very little patronage has been going the Quakers' way. So that is the end of the Port Vue team for this season.

Two other bouts resulted in knockouts, Frankie Jenakovich, 152, of Steelton, disposing of Tony Mingaro, 150, of York, in the sixth round, and Paul Vecchione, 131, of this city, flooring Charley Daley, 131, of Wilkes-Barre, in the third round.

DE MAVE STOPPED

LES BELL SALE FORECAST BY PIE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Pie Traynor, of the Pirates, called the turn on the latest big-league movement—the sale of Third Baseman Lester Bell for the Braves to the Cubs.

Traynor is said to have based his deduction to some extent on the fact that Rogers Hornsby has long been an admirer of the Harrisburg athlete.

PLAYED GOOD BALL

Bell played stellar ball for the Cardinals when Hornsby led the Redbirds to a flag and world championship in 1926. Under the Rajah's successors, Lester did not fare so well. Bill McKechnie was one of these, and Wilkinsburg Willie was not hooked long to a Boston contract before he consented to the sale of Bell.

It's a 10-to-1 shot that the new hot corner tender of the National League champs is a better player than any athlete who essayed the role this year. Norman McMillan was particularly disappointing at the plate in the world series, and he is not nearly as good a player as is Bell.

Manager Joe McCarthy has moved in the right direction in acquiring Main-Line Les. It may be an important step in the 1930 flag fight.

THE BASEBALL FANS' LAMENT

Gone is the bat-crashing single,
Silent the bleachers and bands;
Where are the gamblers who jingle
The dough in the back of the stands?
Absent the galloping Traynors,
Lost are the colorful Grimms,
Missing the bats of the Waners—
Oh, for such sorrowful hymns!

Onto the campus he gases,
A lover of baseball, so blue,
Sick of the brown autumn hazes,
Waiting for Springtime anew.
"Culture, thy name's a misnomer,"
He muses in accents subdued—
"I'd rather see Babe sock a homer—
Old Homer himself should be booed.

"And Einstein and all his relations,
B. Shaw and the rest of that mob;
Instead of their present vocations,
Somebody should get them a job.
Perhaps this all sounds a bit screwy,
Or maybe it's knowledge I lack—
But if all the professors go blooey
We would still have the College of Mack."

STATE SCRIMMAGES

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The Penn State team yesterday had a scrimmage as its first preparation for the Syracuse game. Although there were no State substitutions made in Saturday's game against Lafayette, the varsity men were called into action first, working against the second team.

MURRAY ARMENTROUT

Armentrout is the versatile and capable young star of the Carnegie Tech eleven who has filled in at end, halfback and fullback this fall and has thrilled the fans with his work. This picture of him was taken just before he walked off the field at the close of the game with Notre Dame at the Stadium last Saturday.

NOTICE, SMILERS

There will be an important meeting of the Pleasant Valley Smilers football team this evening at Wilson avenue field. The meeting will be held following practice.

OHIO STATE DRILLS FOR PANTHERS

By LESTER J. BIEDERMAN,
(Special Correspondent.)

COLUMBUS, Oct. 29.—Ohio State's second stringers, equipped with Jock Sutherland's best formations, probably will engage the Buckeye varsity in a real football game today.

Coach Sam Willaman intimated he would allow every regular to see action in today's scrimmage except Dick Larkins, whose injured arm, will keep him out of any strenuous action until the day the Pitt game arrives.

The Buckeye freshmen opposed the Ohio sub-regulars yesterday afternoon in a rather unlooked-for washday scrimmage. In the Buckeye lineup appeared three Ohio starters against Indiana, Fontaine, end; Marsh, tackle and Barratt, center, which seemed to lend an added incentive to the two elevens battling for almost an hour to a 14-14 tie.

FROSH SMACK VARSITY

The freshmen, evidently equipped with Pitt plays, smacked right through the Buckoes for two straight touchdowns and not until the regulars scored twice was Sam Willaman satisfied. The brilliant arc lights were brought into play during the scrimmage and the battle developed into a night game. It was well after dark when the gridders went to the showers.

Lew Hinchman, son of the Pirate scout and brother of Bill, Jr., a varsity halfback and also basketball and baseball star here, romped 10 yards for the first freshman score and Zink, a yearling end, intercepted Coffee's forward and dashed 70 yards for the second six-pointer credited to the Frosh. Hinchman kicked both goals.

The varsity scored on straight football with a second team backfield and the line slugged in with reserves. Sam Willaman was well pleased with the drive displayed by the varsity in the goalward marches.

HESS MAY PLAY

Al Hess, most promising ball-toting halfback, who received an injured knee in the opening game with Wittenberg and has been on the shelf ever since, may be injected into the Panther game Saturday. Hess has shown marked ability at carrying the ball and was one of Willaman's most consistent ground-gainers during the early season practices.

Morgan Baker, Youngstown quarterback, who played one year at Waynesburg, was in the signal-calling roll against the Frosh yesterday.

PACKARD STANDARD EIGHT

It costs no more to own one

TWO out of three motorists who buy Packard Standard Eights give up other makes of cars to do so.

They have found that the luxury of Packard transportation costs no more than ordinary motoring in twelve to fifteen hundred dollar cars.

Operation and maintenance expense for a luxurious Packard Standard Eight is no greater than for many cars down to half its price. The higher first cost is completely offset by the fact that Packard cars are built for long life.

They can be, and usually are—according to our ownership records—driven nearly twice as long as the lower priced cars traded in on new Packards.

Net depreciation, therefore, is no greater. And the Packard owner enjoys keeping his car far longer than any other make he has ever owned.

Simple arithmetic proves that though the Packard Standard Eight may be priced even at twice as much, final cost is no greater if it is driven twice as long.

In accordance with Packard's long established policy, the fundamental grace and beauty of Packard lines have been retained in the new Standard Eights. Packard does not depreciate cars in the hands of owners by frequent and radical changes in appearance. You are not tempted to turn in a Packard every year or so.

More Advanced and More Beautiful

But the new models are so outstandingly more advanced, more beautiful and more luxurious that they outvalue all cars in the truly fine car field at anywhere near their price. Why not graduate from ordinary motoring to the distinction and luxury of Packard transportation—as so many others are doing?

When you come in to inspect the new Standard Eights you will see that nothing which can make for the comfort, convenience and enjoyment of owners has been omitted. Like the Packard Custom and De Luxe Eights, all models embody the improved-vision body pillars; adjustable sun visors; newly perfected shatter-proof glass; dashboard lockers; adjustable steering gear and driver's seat—and the improved powerplant with its four-speed transmission and still further refined straight-eight motor. All these in addition to enriched fittings, appointments and upholstery.

If you are turning in a lower priced car every 18 months or so you are really paying for a Packard Standard Eight. Why not own one? Your present car will be accepted as cash, and you may buy out of income if you prefer.

STOCKS RALLY AFTER SHARP TUMBLE

Market Heads Up After Mad Scramble to Dump Shares Breaks Records

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The mad scramble to get out of stocks reached record-breaking proportions today as prices plunged downward under what appeared to be world-wide liquidation of securities.

A sharp rally about 1:30 checked the slump and stock prices headed upward. United States Steel jumped 16 points to 186 on the upswing.

Extreme declines in most of the active stocks ranged from 10 to 70 points, with more than half the general list in new low ground for the year. Total sales crossed the 8,000,000-share mark before noon, with indications that the day's total would run far ahead of last week's 12,000,000-share session. A sharp rally at 1:30 checked the slump and stocks headed upward.

WEAK ACCOUNTS DUMPED

The decline, like those which have preceded it, was not associated with anything in the day's news, but represented the closing out of speculative accounts weakened in the succession of crashes that have taken place during the last week.

Bankers endeavored to relieve the situation by reducing margin requirements on street loans from 40 to 25 per cent, and providing occasional support to assure an orderly market, but thos was not sufficient to stem the gigantic wave of selling. The call money renewal rate was reduced from 6 to 5 per cent, and time money was freely offered at the lowest rates of the year.

SPECIALTIES HARD HIT

High priced specialties were hardest hit. Auburn Auto dropped $70 a share, and at least a score others, including American Telephone, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Air Reduction, Midland Steel Products preferred, A. M. Byers, International Telephone, Allied Chemical and American and Foreign Power sold down $20 to $45 a share.

U. S. Steel common, after selling down $15 a share to $171, rallied to $180.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Wheat prices crashed down nearly seven cents a bushel early today, broken by violent renewal of panicky conditions on stock exchanges. Extremely urgent general selling in the wheat pit met with an almost completely temporary dearth of buyers, but after initial collapses, the market became of a two sided character, and rallied more than 5 cents, with prices afterward fluctuating unusually fast. Opening at 2⅝ to 6⅞ off, wheat later showed relative steadiness at about 3 cents under yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions were also weaker, with corn starting ⅝ to 1⅜ lower, but afterward recovering.

Big tumbles in wheat values today resulted from the fact that before the wheat market here had opened news was at hand telling of unrestrained fresh storms of selling in stocks, and of Liverpool wheat quotations plunging downward as a result. Under such circumstances, the Chicago wheat market experienced an overwhelming rush to sell at the opening, and in almost a twinkle a maximum drop of 6⅞c a bushel had taken place. Then came something of nearly an equal stampede to buy, and the market ran up 5¼c, with subsequent changes at a furious rate, swinging at times 2 and 3c a bushel in as many minutes.

Indications of much better European demand today for wheat shipments from the United States than for some time past was of considerable aid in bringing about wheat price rallies. There were also reports that domestic mills were again actively in the market for wheat future deliveries. On the other hand, talk continued in some quarters that relief which the Farm Board extends to growers does not solve the disposition of the huge domestic wheat visible supply.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Cotton opened barely steady today at a decline of 10 to 21 points under heavy liquidation which appeared to come from Wall street sources and which was attributed to the weakness of the stock market. Some large blocks were sold during the first few minutes, but the trade seemed to be buying more actively, and the offerings were absorbed at 17.82 for December, to 18.35 for March, with the market later becoming less active. At the end of the first half hour prices were fairly steady and within 6 or 10 points of yesterday's closing quotations.

Buying on the opening decline was probably promoted by unfavorable features in the weather news and fairly steady Liverpool cables. Private cables said there had been hedging and liquidation absorbed by Bombay and continental buying in the Liverpool market, and reported an improved inquiry for cotton cloths from India but depressing advices from China.

Promp absorption of the initial offerings gave the market rather a better tone, but recoveries of 10 to 12 points were checked by renewed liquidation and prices sagged late in the morning, evidently in sympathy with the weakness in grain and stocks. At midday, December was selling around 17.89 and March, 19.29 or about 17 to 19 points net lower.

UNION OIL NET AT RECORD

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29.—Union Oil Company of California in 1929 will have a record year, exceeding by a substantial margin the results of any other year. Officials estimate that net profits will probably top $15,000,000 after all charges, indicating net equivalent to $3.67 a share on 4,082,000 shares of $25 par capital stock outstanding.

An idea of the progress attained this year can be gained from the fact that for 1928 net after all charges amounted to $11,101,935, equivalent to $2.92 a share on 3,795,057 shares outstanding. In the first nine months this year Union exceeded the full 1928 year results, reporting net after all charges of $12,000,000, or $2.94 a share.

If the 8 per cent gain shown so far this year in dollar value of sales is continued in the final quarter, sales this year will top $91,000,000, comparing with $85,367,000 shown in 1928. In the nine months to September 30, sales were $67,750,000, compared with $62,900,000 in the corresponding period a year ago.

The dollar value of coast gasoline sales this year reflects in a large measure the wholesale tank-wagon price on sales through service stations, whereas last year, with Union operating its own service stations, a considerable portion of the domestic business was at retail prices. Offsetting this, Union is receiving higher prices on its increasing export business.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Raw sugar was easier with offerings of uncontrolled sugars more liberal, but buyers holding off. No sales were reported, with sugars available at 3.39 for spots duty paid.

Raw futures opened unchanged to 2 points lower and soon showed net losses of 4 to 6 points under liquidation and selling by houses with Wall Street and Cuban connections, promoted by the renewed weakness in Wall Street and the more liberal offerings in the spot market. Shorts covered on the scale down, but aside from this demand there was very little buying in evidence and prices at midday were within a point of the lowest and from 3 to 5 points below the previous close.

FISHER'S INDEX AT 1929 LOW

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—After several onths of rather erratic movements, commodity prices as a whole are now at their lowest level of the year. The exclusive Irving Fisher index for last week was 94.6 per cent of the 1926 average, the lowest for 1929. Last year's low was 95.1 per cent. The 1929 high was 92.2 per cent for the week ended July 2. Thus it is apparent that there has been no appreciable commodity inflation to accompany the stock market inflation of recent months.

Among the weakest commodities, selling at or near their 1929 lows, are coffee, pork, lead, tin, cotton and rubber. The coffee market was recently demoralized as a result of new competition; Rio No. 7 is now 12¾ cents a pound, the lowest for this year, and compared with a high of 18½ cents. Pork is depressed by heavy hog shipments to market; present price is $29.50 cwt., as against 1929 low of $28.50 and high of $33.

Lead has been held down by heavy production. With the prospect of a cotton crop of close to 15,000,000 bales, cotton is selling at 18.05 cents a pound (spot), compared with high of 21.65 cents and low of 17.95 cents. Heavy production of rubber and hides has depressed these commodities.

In the best position are iron and steel, both of which are quoted at their year's highs of $22.26 and $35 a ton, respectively. Active industrial demand is responsible for this strength. Sugar is also at its high, followin many months of severe depression.

KOPPERS STEPS UP OUTPUT

Production of gas, coke, tar and sulphate of ammonia at the Everett, Mass., plant of the New England Fuel and Transportation Company will be materially increased on July 1, 1930, when two new batteries of 41 coke ovens each, now under construction, are placed in operation.

According to Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates, parent organization of the New England Fuel and Transportation Company, the Everett plant is scheduled to produce 17,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day to July 1, 1930, at which time operation of the new ovens will increase the daily production to 22,500,000 cubic feet.

Production of gas at the Everett plant in 1930 is estimated at more than seven billion cubic feet. Production of coke is estimated at 700,000 tons. The plant during 1930 will carbonize approximately 1,000,000 tons of coal.

In addition to the Everett plant, Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates own the entire capital stock of the Connecticut Coke Company and the Philadelphia Coke Company. It is estimated that these three subsidiaries will produce during 1930 a total of approximately 20,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas, 1,300,000 tons of coke, 16,000,000 gallons of tar and 45,000,000 pounds of sulphate of ammonia. The firm is a subsidiary of Koppers Company.

Farm Bureau Backs Wheeler Proposal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The American Farm Bureau Federation came to the support of Walter H. Wheeler, Minneapolis engineer, in his effort to obtain from the Federal Power Commission a preliminary permit for the development of a tremendous water-power project at Flathead Lake, Mont., which he declared would make possible unlimited production of cheap, high-grade fertilizer.

Chester H. Gray, Washington representative of the federation, asked the commission to give the Wheeler proposal earnest consideration.

Crude Oil Output Takes Good Drop

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Crude oil production in the United States in week ended October 26, totaled 2,863,765 barrels, off 45,489 from preceding week. Light oil production decreased 44,252 barrels from preceding week, reports Oil and Gas Journal.

Two Chain Store Companies Merge

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Directors of F. & W. Grand 5, 10 and 25c Stores, Inc., and Isaac Silver & Bros., Inc., have approved a plan to consolidate into a new holding company, known as F. & W. Grand-Silver Stores, Inc.

McCrady Merger With Rogers Complete

Details of the financing of the purchase of the Rogers Sand Company by McCrady Brothers Company have been completed. An announcement is expected shortly of the offering of issues of $650,000 of 6 per cent bonds and $650,000 of 7 per cent stock by the Hillman Investment Company. Both the bonds and preferred stock will carry conversion rights. The company will have 250,000 shares of no par common stock authorized.

It is understood that the McCrady interests will control the new company, although four of the Rodgers officers will acquire stock and be active as board members and executives of the new concern.

The McCrady-Rodgers Company will start business with assets of about $5,000,000. Its directors will be W. F. McCrady, J. H. McCrady, Jr., H. C. McCrady, Edward McCrady, Jr., John B. McCrady, Roland A. McCrady, W. B. Rodgers, Jr., P. K. Rodgers, H. C. Rodgers, W. B. Rodgers III, and a representative of the Hillman interests.

Prof. Fisher Says Stock Prices Too Low

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Prof. Irving Fisher, recognized economist, says stock market prices are too low at present levels.

He estimates the total prices of some stocks to be only 10 times more than annual earnings. A ratio of 12-to-1 is reasonable, he says.

The whole affair is brainstorm in the market itself, he said. Once started the selling panic was carried to excess. Fisher is optimistic regarding business generally.

Sees Huge Short Interest in Market

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Arthur Reynolds, chairman of the Illinois Bank and Trust Company, at 12:45 p. m. stated that the peak of the selling had been reached.

Mr. Reynolds said: "I have just been in communication with New York. The banks there are determined to support the market at this point. There cannot help but be a tremendous short interest and this should give the basis for expecting a sharp recovery the moment the turn can be accomplished."

LOCAL STOCKS FOLLOW N.Y. DECLINE

Fuel Issues Give Ground As Big Market Cracks Up Under Forced Liquidation

Prices fell away on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange under the influence of the tremendous break in New York. Hardest hit issues here were the fuels, Lone Star and Western Public Service.

Lone Star opened with a comparatively narrow decline at 39, but quickly broke back to a level under 34, comparing with last night's close at 40¾. The low point in the initial break was well under the bottom established in last Thursday's crash when the stock dropped from 48½ to 36. Later the price crashed to 28. Industrials also suffered losses of from 2 to 10 points.

It appeared to be "clean-up day" on the New York exchange and traders here were on their toes awaiting an expected rally. In liquidation such as has been witnessed the past several days it is imposible to determine just when the enormous volume of forced liquidation runs its course and the actual turn of the market is not generally perceptible.

Failure of the banking support to stem the break was not a surprise to experienced market observers, as the tidal wave of selling was far too powerful and each succeeding downward swoop of prices reverberated through the financial structure, dislodging additional weakened holdings which had weathered the previous declines.

INLAND STEEL NET UP

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Inland Steel declared regular quarterly dividend of 87½ cents, payable December 1 to holders of record November 15. Reports for quarter ended September 30, net income of $3,158,967 equal to $2.63 a share on 1,200,000 shares of common stock against $2,089,439 or $1.74 a share in the corresponding 1928 quarter.

Net for 9 months to September 30 amounted to $9,293,118 or $7.74 a share against $7,133,164 or $4.16 a share in same 1928 period.

Mortgage Bankers Discuss Big Break

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 29.—The stock market crashes of yesterday and last week were brought informally before the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America for discussion at the opening of the associations' annual convention here today.

E. E. Murrey, of Nashville, Tenn., president of the association, said "the developments of the past week will prove to the general investing public the wisdom of thoroughly examining the condition of businesses in which they buy shares."

The delegates were of the opinion that the country's condition as affecting stocks would dominate the discussion of the convention's three-day meeting here.

Expect Decrease In N. Y. Bank Rate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The lowering of the New York bank rate from 6 to 5 per cent is generally an accepted expectation in near future. Following that it will be no surprise to see a still further rate easing to a 4 per cent basis. This of course will have to be a gradual trend over a period of some weeks.

TREND TOWARD BONDS TO AID PROSPERITY

Improvement in Security Market to Help Public Works, Leaders Declare

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The expected further improvement in the bond market, resulting from the prospective decline in interest rates, is likely to give an impetus to public works, and thus to help stabilize and perpetuate prosperity, in the opinion of leading financial executives and experts in the government service.

There is a transition under way in the country's capital market. Until the liquidation in stocks, the New York capital market was blockaded for months except to those who could tap it by the issuance of common stock or its equivalent. Of course, only private business could legally issue securities involving a participation in profits. All those dependent on the bond market, which lay stagnant for many months, were threatened with credit starvation. The disappointed would-be borrowers included foreign governments and enterprises, and domestic municipalities and states, and even the farm loan system. As a matter of fact, even the United States Treasury, with the finest credit, had to pay through the nose on recent short term borrowing.

The blockade in the capital market, which has been broken, played into the hands of private capital, and thwarted activities in the nature of state socialism. That will now change, and the immediate business significance is that there is likely to be a quickening of public works—municipal, state and federal—which will come as a stabilizing factor at a time when there have been some signs of a lull in private activity.

LOWER INTEREST RATES

Two factors are operating to carry down interest rates to lower levels. The first is the liquidation in the stock market, which will unquestionably release funds. Secondly, the curbing of dangerous inflationary tendencies in the stock market has changed the viewpoint of the administrators of the Federal Reserve System, who are now inclined to take such technical steps as will contribute to lower interest rates.

Inasmuch as the country is now nearing the seasonal peak for credit requirements, the full effect of the new easing program is not yet visible, and probably will not be until after the turn of the year.

If the expectation of a sustained easing in interest rates is fulfilled, the effects will include a rise in bond prices, a resumption of foreign loans on a substantial scale, new stimulus to public works, and also to the building trades, which have been suffering from a shortage of mortgage money. Psychologically, the change probably will include also a disposition on the part of that section of the public which has husbanded financial resources through the recent reaction to become investment minded. Even stocks will be bought more with an eye to price-earnings ratio and to dividend return.

Outstanding financial minds in the government service believe that the longer term prosperity will be perpetuated by the new efficiency in business which is perpetually lowering costs and thus adding to the real wealth of the country and steadily raising the standard of living. They believe that this scientific improvement and growth in natural wealth will go steadily on.

BANKS SOUND

In spite of a lull in some lines, they profess to see no sign of a commercial depression, particularly on account of the credit situation, the absence of commodity inflation, and because of the evidence of a superb business management. They report that the banks as a whole are in good condition.

Of course, there is in government circles a recognition that the distress caused by losses in the stock market will not be without business repercussions. The buying power of the large group speculators, who guessed wrong, will be seriously impaired for some time. The result will be not only a curtailment of their buying power, especially for luxuries, but more particularly of their buying impulses. But, it is argued that though the number of marginal speculators who lost is numerically large, it is small compared with the total population, which has shown a capacity to absorb goods and services at a rate unprecedented in other lands or in any other time in history.

In spite of the slowing up in some lines, Frank Greene, of Bradstreet's, points out in the forthcoming Nation's Business:

"It would seem that September and the elapsed portion of October had seen wholesalers and retailers doing fully normal business. Chain distributors led at retail.

"As to October, it may be said that there is something like a longer yardstick to measure with than recently. In October a year ago, for instance, both trade and industry showed a distinct surge forward. Hence from now on it would be natural to expect a possible reduction in or an absence of some of the gains hitherto shown this year. That 1929 will rank as a new record year in practically all lines seems certain."

The New Orleans Cotton Exchange will be closed Friday, November 1, All Saints Day, a legal holiday in New Orleans.

Central Alloy to Build Electric Furnace

CLEVELAND, Oct. 29.—Plans for construction of a new electric furnace by the Central Alloy Steel Corporation have been announced by F. J. Griffiths, chairman. The new equipment is required to provide for the rapidly expanding demand for Nirosta, the new stainless steel manufactured by the company under Krupp license.

The new furnace will be locatedat the Canton works, and its cost will approximate $200,000. The company also has authorized an expenditure of new circle cutting equipment to provide increased facilities for special steel.

INTEREST RATE DECLINING RAPIDLY

Acceptances Also Lower With Brisk Demand for Bills; Call Money Eases

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The decline in all classes of money rates, which started in August almost coincidentally with the lowering of the New York Federal Reserve Bank's buying rate for bankers' acceptances, has been accelerated by the stock market break.

Only within the past few days, however, has this decline affected the bankers' acceptance market, which is, in the last analysis, perhaps the most important market as indicating the true state of credit.

TIME MONEY OFF

Time money rates have declined nearly as spectacularly as has the call rate, with short loans now quoted at 6¾ per cent as against 9¼ per cent at the end of September and a year's high of 9½ per cent in May. Even now, however, time money is lending at above the legal maximum rate in New York State. Because there is some doubt as to the legality of time loans made above 6 per cent, no great significance is attached to current quotations, except as general indication of an easing in credit.

ACCEPTANCE DEMAND

For the past several weeks there has been a brisk demand for bankers' acceptances. On Tuesday dealers were unable to get sufficient new bills to meet demand, and they therefore reduced their quotations on all maturities by ⅛ of 1 per cent. On Tuesday afternoon the rates on 150 and 180-day bills were reduced an additional ⅛ of 1 per cent.

Even these cuts failed to bring out sufficient bills, and on Thursday another general reduction of ⅛ of 1 per cent was made, a few dealers making reductions of ¼ of 1 per cent. This last cut was followed by practically all dealers on Friday morning.

NOT YET STABILIZED

Thus this week the rates on 30, 60, 90 and 120-day bills have been reduced by ⅜ of 1 per cent, and on 150 and 180-day bills by ½ of 1 per cent. Current rates of 4⅞ per cent bid and 4¾ per cent asked on 90-day bills compare with the year's high made in April of 5⅝ per cent bid and 5½ per cent asked.

At the moment the bill market is not stabilized, for several dealers have not adopted firm rates. The demand for bills remains good at the prevailing relatively easy level. While there is some possibility of a further cut in bill rates, it should be remembered that the season of heaviest acceptance financing is just beginning, particularly wheat financing. This will increase the supply of bills available and should go a long way toward satisfying investment demands.

COMMERCIAL PAPER QUIET

The commercial paper market is quiet, as it has been for some months past, but the inquiry for paper has improved materially and probabilities are that more business will be done in the not distant future provided general money rates remain easy. If prime commercial paper gets below 6 per cent, as now seems imminent, the chances are that more paper will come out of banks into dealers' and investors' hands.

While call money has not yet reached a stage where it can be called "easy" in relation to rates prevalent in former years, nevertheless there seems little likelihood that it will rise to the abnormal levels of the past year.

PROBABLE CALL RATES

Probably 6 per cent and 5 per cent will be prevailing call rates for the immediate future.

If recent stock market liquidation results in the large decrease in brokers' loans that is anticipated, there should be at least a temporary surplus of money seeking investment through banks. Whether this probable surplus of funds will lead to really easy money conditions is problematical, however, for with lower rates here and high rates prevalent in Europe there is a distinct possibility of a good export movement before the end of the year.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Permission was asked of the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the New York Central Railroad to acquire half interest in three West Virginia railroads now controlled by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway.

The roads are the Sewell Valley, the Loop and Lookout and the Greenbrier and Eastern. The deal would be made through purchase of one-half of the capital stock of the companies.

Authorization also was asked by the New York Central to guarantee one-half of the principal and interest of $300,000 first mortgage 5 per cent bonds of the Sewell Valley.

Forbes

Wall Street Flies To Extremes Again

By B. C. FORBES

WALL STREET, always flying to extremes, went to the extreme of bearishness and demoralization yesterday, when many stocks fell below even last Thursday's levels.

Not far from ten million shares were excitedly thrown on the market, regardless of the prices realized.

The famous Big Six, members of the Morgan & Co. banking pool, met late in the afternoon to look over the wreckage and, as one of them remarked to me, "to find out if any real trouble has to be met."

"Don't give the public the idea, which some newspapers seem to have done, that the bankers intend to peg the stock market. We never had any such intention."

"It looks," he added with a smile, "as if we didn't succeed particularly well. But we are getting together again and will lay plans to do whatever is considered wisest."

ALBERT H. WIGGIN, the heavyweight head of the Chase Bank, the second largest in the country, who carefully guards his words, said to me last evening:

"We are reaping the natural fruit of the orgy of speculation millions of people have indulged in. Because of the tremendous increase in the number of stockholders during recent years, it was inevitable that the number of sellers would be greater than ever when the boom ended and selling took the place of buying.

"I would like to say this, however, that none of the corporations or institutions I am connected with is selling stocks at this time. We are, rather, buying. I am convinced that genuine bargains are available at this moment.

"Investment trusts, of which we have heard so much, could prudently make investments right now. I don't mean that investment trusts or anybody else should buy indiscriminately or lock up every dollar—it's always well to have a goodly reserve on hand. But, while I never make predictions about what business or stocks will do in the future, I do say that, regardless of what may or may not happen, there are available very attractive investments today."

THOMAS W. LAMONT, who is acting head of J. P. Morgan & Co. in the absence in Europe of Mr. Morgan, again took the lead in calling together Charles E. Mitchell, A. H. Wiggin, William C. Potter and Seward Prosser late yesterday. George F. Baker, Jr., was not seen, although he is acting in co-operation with these other bank leaders.

Mr. Lamont intimated to me that he did not believe any good purpose would be served by issuing a formal statement. He indicated that it said much for New York's bankers and Stock Exchange members that the events of last week had brought no trouble. Testimony that both bankers and brokers had conducted their business on cautious lines.

IN MY humble opinion, bargains can now be picked up in the stock market. The highest-priced stocks do not, however, strike me as being the cheapest—virtually all of them were grossly overboomed, as the writer has repeatedly pointed out during the current year. It should now be fairly safe to invest, say, half of one's available funds.

WHEN the Reserve Board meets on Thursday, it should give serious consideration to reducing the rediscount rate. It was raised for the purpose of checking speculation for the rise and of stopping the expansion in brokers' loans.

Both purposes have been realized—dramatically realized. Why not lower the rate to a more normal figure?

This doubtless would do more than any other one thing to inspire the return of calm. It might even succeed in inspiring confidence—yesterday's happenings revealed painfully clearly that confidence has not yet been restored.

And that should be the main objective of every responsible individual, institution and organization before further damage is done, damage which if not quickly checked, would inescapably hurt industry and employment. The Reserve authorities should do their part in preventing this.

After all, nothing fundamental has happened to injure America's well-founded prosperity.

Carrier Stocks Suffer Heavy Slump With Industrials.

UNTIL yesterday the rails, while sharing in the market's decline, had fared much better than industrials, utilities and the specialties. But yesterday the carrier stocks slumped with sharp losses ling in even the best of these issues, which even if viewed from an investment standpoint might have been regarded as not seriously overvalued. New York Central which suffered a slump of some 17 points the low was typical of the trend in the transportation group.

It has been estimated in the financial district that the net income of Atlantic Coast Line this year will be better than $15.50 a share on the common stock. Allowing for equities in subsidiaries, etc., the result would be nearer $20 a share. Including extras, Atlantic Coast Line pays $10 a share yearly, so that some of the interests in the company insist that the dividend is well protected. Quite a few expect more liberal treatment for stockholders in the coming years if the results continue as favorable as now reported.

AMONG those who were not swayed by the "new era" trend of thought prevalent for the last year or 18 months, when all the tried rules for guidance in speculation seemingly went by the board the present situation in the stock market is not regarded as indicative of the trend of things outside the market. On the contrary the current decline in speculative values is looked upon as a "levelling-off" process which should bring stocks back to sound values, and leave them selling "ex-imagination." These bankers who kept their heads heretofore are not having them turned the other way now and are confident that in the long run the reckoning for past excessives will exert a healthy influence all around.

One of the weakening influences on the market is the ability of operators selling for the decline to cover their commitments as each fresh wave of liquidation came into the market. On all previous declines this year, the market was aided immensely by the tenacity of holders which made it difficult for the bear crowd feeling for the top in such instances to cover its commitments. Such short selling heretofore had afforded the market something in the way of a "cushion" of buying orders, quality which at the moment is plainly lacking.

WITH general speculative interest having become centered almost wholly in the best grade of stocks on the board it was only logical that it should have been these stocks which were most actutely unsettled by the further heavy liquidation. Stocks of that caliber were the weak spots last week, and the same was true again yesterday. It was the outstanding favorites which were forced to bear the brunt of the slump with General Electric suffering perhaps the outside decline in that part of the list showing a loss close to 45 points at the low level, with stocks like American Telephone & Telegraph, Westinghouse Electric, Johns-Manville, Steel common, Radio, Standard Gas, Montgomery Ward, New York Central, and Columbia Gas, indicating losses of 5 to around 35 points.

The action of Steel just now is in contrast with its course prior to the publication of its second quarter report back in July. Then the stock was moving ahead by way of discounting a splendid statement. Today the third quarter report of the corporation will be published after the closing and is expected to be relatively as favorable as that for the second three months of the year proved. But the proximity of its September statement was of little aid to the stock yesterday, even though it was selling more than 70 points under the year's high. The stock rebounded in the early afternoon some 5 points from its low prior to that time, only to slump again to new lows for the day in the final hour.

Lago Oil Output Higher for Week

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—In week ended October 25, Lago Oil and Transport Corporation produced 683,928 barrels of crude oil in Venezuela, or 97,703 daily, against 657,520 in previous week, or 93,391 daily, and 862,140 in 1928 week, or 123,162 daily.

Visible Grain Supply.

Wheat increased 181,000; corn decreasd 253,000; oats increased 909,000; rye increased 363,000; barley increased 356,000.

Lagging Tickers Help Local Exchange

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE constantly mounting volume of business being handled by the New York Stock Exchange and the New York Curb is beginning to act to the advantage of exchanges in other cities. A. L. Brinham, secretary of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, states that recent weeks have seen a marked change in the general attitude towards this city's exchange as well as towards the secondary markets in other localities.

The utter impossibility of keeping a close watch on the gyrations of the big board on days such as last Thursday is forcing many sponsors of stocks to give serious consideration to the less crowded exchanges of the type located in Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Detroit.

During the big break when the New York ticker was lagging hours behind the market and when it was impossible to get prompt news from the floor on any but the leading stocks, immediate quotations could be secured from the smaller exchanges and orders could be executed without any delay.

Listings Considered

IT IS understood that several companies are planning to apply for listing in their home cities rather than in New York so that closer supervision of the movements of their stocks will be possible in the most active trading periods. It is known that during some of the busiest days houses making the market for some of the less active stocks have been fully as much in the dark as the general public as to what was happening on the exchange floor.

While very large issues will still have to go to New York to get adequate distribution and a sufficiently broad market, there is no reason why smaller companies cannot secure a sufficiently open market in their home cities in Mr. Brinham's opinion.

Active Issues Lost

ONE of the greatest problems of the smaller exchanges has been the fact that they have been constantly losing the market for their best stocks. In the past the general custom has been to list stocks locally until they have become sufficiently seasoned and then to list in New York. This has kept the Pittsburgh Exchange from having a volume truly representative of the interest in local stocks.

Even though the local market has been operating under this difficulty, it has shown a remarkable degree of growth during the past year. In the first nine months of 1929 sales totaled 3,878,458 shares. This compares with 2,013,205 in the full year of 1928 and with 1,347,563 in 1927.

Future Growth

IF THE tendency to keep the markets for the stocks of smaller companies at home develops along the lines predicted by Mr. Brinham, the Pittsburgh Exchange will show an even more pronounced growth in the future, since a large share of the active issues would be kept here instead of being lost to New York.

Mr. Brinham points out that a stock traded in only two or three times a day is no better off in New York than here in a quiet market, while in the feverish days its movements on a small exchange can be followed with a high degree of certainty.

STEEL OUTPUT WILL GAIN

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 29.—Though iron and steel company production schedules this week are the lowest of the year, leading makers report an improvement in the general market situation and especially in the demands from the automobile industry. A betterment in schedules may be expected to develop in November.

This week only 30 of 51 independent open hearth furnaces are melting, while 80 of 126 Valley sheet mills are in power.

Tin plate production is still feeling the effects of seasonal decline, but buying for first half, 1930, will commence in November, and this will be beneficial influence.

An executive of one of the largest independents in the district advises there is a better tone to the market this week, with a larger number of inquiries developing.

The small tube mill of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, producing pipe up to seven inches in diameter by the electrical welding process, is in full commercial production and is operating steadily.

Storey Expects Earnings to Hold

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—"I do not see why our earnings for November and December should not be about the same as last year," said W. B. Storey, president of Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe in interview yesterday. He continued:

"I do not believe that business in the Southwest will be appreciably affected by the slump in stock prices.

"The Atchison has between $70,000,000 and $80,000,000 in cash and securities in its treasury.

"Because of this fact and the outlook for earnings to continue in good volume there will be no occasion in the immediate future for the company to sell any of its own securities.

"During the next two or three years we contemplate building about 380 miles of new line which will be paid for out of treasury resources unless it should be necessary to sell a small amount of securities from time to time.

"This will be the largest building project on which we have engaged for some years and will cost some millions of dollars."

UNION DRAWN STEEL SOLD

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 29.—President E. T. McCleary, of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, announced that terms have been arranged for acquisition of the Union Drawn Steel Company, Beaver Falls, Pa., the largest interest of its kind in the country.

The purchase is subject to an appraisal and audit, to be conducted, starting at once, by the Republic company. The latter assumes charge of the properties, however, virtually at once.

Union Drawn Steel has a net worth of $14,000,000. Its capital structure consists entirely of common stock, and it has no outstanding bonds. The company operates plants at Beaver Falls, Massillon, O.; Hartford, Conn.; Gary, Ind., and Hamilton, Ont., Canada. It manufactures cold-drawn stock, and consumes annually about 250,000 tons of steel products. It is the largest buyer of merchant steel bars in the country.

It is the plan of Republic to continue Union Drawn as a subsidiary company, under the present management, which is headed by E. S. Hoopes, as president.

FINANCE AND THE LAW

Among all the professions, probably none enjoys greater respect than the profession of law. One of the oldest of professions, it has a wonderful background of tradition, an unimpeachable code of ethics, and a record of splendid service to civilization. It has furnished many of the country's greatest political leaders. From the practice of law, no insignificant number of the profession's successful men have been called to occupy high positions in industry. Finance, too, has claimed many of the most able. The Mellon banking business owes its beginning to the foresight of a distinguished jurist. In 1869 Judge Thomas Mellon retired from the bench and opened a private banking business under the name of T. Mellon & Sons. To this day, the Mellon National Bank adheres to the ideals of its founder acquired during his many years as a member of the bar and bench.

MARKET BREAK NOT MIRROR OF TRADE

Decline Not Carried by Business Depression Is Guaranty Trust Opinion

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Violent as it was, the recession in stock prices was not so directly related to changes in the general business outlook as might be supposed," says the Guaranty Trust Company in its monthly survey.

"As a matter of fact, the security markets for some time have moved almost independently of trade developments. Over a long period, of course, prices of stocks and bonds are necessarily related to the prospects of the concerns they represent; and, in so far as other factors have carried values out of proportion to their intrinsic worth, the recent movement must be regarded as a readjustment toward normal levels. But to suppose that the selling wave of the last few weeks was due to adverse developments of corresponding importance in the general business situation would be a fundamental error.

VARIED INFLUENCES

A number of factors combined to produce the unprecedented application in stock prices that brought about corrective action of the market in recent weeks. One, of course, was the truly fine progress of the nation's leading business concerns, which fully justified a strong upward trend in stock values. But this perfectly normal movement was immensely exaggerated by the changed character of the investing public. To borrow a popular phrase of the day, it may be said that the American people have become 'investment-minded.'

GREEN SPECULATORS

"Security dealers were quick to take advantage of this change by establishing offices in cities and towns throughout the country. These offices, in turn, attracted thousands of inexperienced persons into the ranks of stock-market speculators, where neither their financial knowledge nor their financial strength entitled them to be.

"Thus, the public that has to a considerable extent determined the course of the stock market in the last fews years is a public uninformed as to intelligent procedure in buying and selling securities. It was easily subjected to psychological reactions of an exaggerated sort, buying and selling en masse without any clear understanding of the reasons for doing so. Although there has always been an element of mob psychology in the actions of the investing public, this element has been increased many-fold by the changes of recent years.

PUBLIC PARTICIPATION

"It is fair to presume that this new class of investor will have to be reckoned with in the future. Whatever irregularities and disorders are suffered in consequence will have to be counted as a part of the price of economic progress. There is, of course, a likelihood of improvement in this respect with a gradual education of the public in business conditions and market behavior.

"The small investor is, then, to a large extent the victim of his own imagination. His attitude toward the market seems to have been based on the view that there was no limit to the process of increasing earnings, reinvesting the funds, and thus, still further increasing earnings. But the country's business concerns obviously cannot go on indefinitely fulfilling the demands of the public imagination. 'Plowing back' earnings is a perfectly sound policy within limits, but business expansion must be kept in relationship to the market for consumers' goods.

REACTION EXAGGERATED

"When the realization finally came that prices of many securities were out of all proportion to present and prospective earning power, the reaction was similarly exaggerated, partly for psychological and partly for financial reasons. Not only did the fear of loss impel a rush of liquidation, but the disorder was increased by the fact that innumerable small speculators, unable to supplement their impaired margins were precipitated into the market as sellers against their own will. Just as the efforts of the public to make the most of the rising prices result in a buying wave that pushes values too high, so the fear of loss forces a reaction that inevitably depresses the prices of stocks below their true worth.

EFFECT ON BUSINESS

"The question naturally arises as to what effect the market break will have on business. Here, again, an exaggerated reaction is usually witnessed. Both by curtailing purchasing power and by impairing the confidence of consumers and business men alike, a severe reaction in stock prices has an unfavorable influence on general trade. This influence acts first in the market for luxuries; then, if the effects are sufficiently marked, business in other commodities is also restricted.

"It is to be expected, therefore, that industrial and commercial activity will be affected to some extent by the decline in stock prices, and that the effect will be more pronounced than is warranted by the cause. But the experience of recent years justifies the hope that any recession resulting from the action of the stock market will not be violent or of long duration."

Reo Motor Profits For Quarter Down

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Net profits of the Reo Motor Car Company for the third quarter amounted to $407,297, equal to 20 cents a share, compared with $1,148,844, or 57 cents a share in the preceding quarter and $1,543,511, or 77 cents a share in the third quarter of 1928.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Enormous liquidation of obligations carrying stock privileges featured the early trading of the nervous bond market today. The entire list sold off to some extent in sympathy with the general upheaval in equity markets, although the declines in issues of the highest grade were small and orderly.

NEW YORK Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

GIRLS CALLED HIM OLD MAN HESS

"For a real pep maker and vigor builder I have never found anything to equal World's Tonic," declared George Hess, who is employed at a hotel in Columbus. "I was so run down and tired out that I did not care what went on when I first heard of this wonderful new medicine, and now you will go far before you find a man with more pep and vigor than I have," he continued. "I guess it was the fact that my blood got impure from a bad stomach which first started with catarrh that caused all the trouble. Instead of being willing to go out with my friends I hated to think of the effort. My stomach was so weak that I could not eat what the crowd ordered, for I could not put anything into it that was hard to digest, as I had an ulcerated stomach. I would often become nauseated. Then about the time the crowd got warmed up in the evenings I was so tired I wanted to go home. You can imagine how popular I was. Even the girls in the parties we had began to call me 'Old Man Hess.'

"My stomach got so bad that something had to be done. Fortunately one of the traveling men I was acquainted with told me to get World's Tonic, the new medicine that comes from different parts of the world. I was delighted with the way it took hold. It was not a week until I was feeling better. In two weeks my stomach ceased troubling me and my bowels became regular. In three weeks I began to get as peppy as the next one. In four weeks I was as vigorous, strong and lasting as any man could want to be. I say World's Tonic is a great medicine for people who have lost their vim, and in my case it was proved." World's Tonic can be obtained from Dow's (formerly McCulloch's), also Mays, and Mayflower, or from any other first class drug store. (B-17.)

Pupils' Essay Contests Designed to Save Lives

A plan which is expected to direct the interest of school children to the constantly increasing danger that confronts them in traffic is an essay contest for pupils of public and parochial schools. The contest, on several subjects pertaining to traffic, is sponsored by the educational section of the Better Traffic Committee, will open next Monday, November 4, and will close one month later, December 6. The subjects, graded according to the ages of the pupils, all tend to direct the attention of the children to one specific problem, that of making traffic less fatal.

The purpose behind the contest is to reduce the hazard to child life in Pittsburgh, deaths of children in traffic having increased greatly in the first nine months of 1929, the deaths having been 31, as against 24 in the corresponding period of the previous year.

It is expected that the offer of cash prizes to the successful contestants will interest the children in the competition to such an extent that they will so carefully study the problems and the remedies that they will thereby become especially fortified against exposing themselves to such dangers as they recognize.

Anything that will prevent the slaughter of our children is a good thing, and every parent should see that their kiddies take part in this contest, which is approved by Dr. William M. Davidson and the Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendents, respectively, of the public and parochial school systems.

Grundy's Testimony Is a Challenge to Congress

Unless the constitutional system of representative government is to be supplanted by the lobby system, the federal government must forthwith sweep the federal city clean of secret lobbyists and rigidly regulate the activities of all public lobbyists and require their registration for that purpose.

Any doubt in the mind of any Senator concerning the imperative need of such legislation must surely have been dismissed by the amazing testimony of Joseph R. Grundy, of Bristol, Pa., before the Senate committee investigating the ... il.

Having been engaged almost constantly in lobbying on behalf of his own and other manufacturing interests of Pennsylvania since 1897, Mr. Grundy made no attempt in his testimony to conceal his efforts either to influence legislators or to shape the course of tariff legislation.

Apparently his poor opinion of the established system of representation has caused him to "neglect" his manufacturing interests in order to devote nearly all of his time to what he calls the "duty" of lobbying.

Since the hearings on the pending bill first started, he admitted that he has paid out of his own pocket between $20,000 and $25,000 for office expenses in Washington alone.

And so seriously does he take his so-called "duty" as a lobbyist that when he is not attempting to influence tariff legislation in Washington, he is engaged in collecting campaign funds for the election of public servants of his own political persuasion.

Lobbyist Grundy told the committee that he raised $700,000 for the Republican campaign of 1924 and another $600,000 for the Republican campaign of 1928.

But apparently large as these sums were, Lobbyist Grundy did not appear to begrudge their expenditure. And his satisfaction with his "investment" is not surprising in the light of the estimate by Senator Walsh, of Montana, that there is tucked away in the pending tariff bill a $500,000,000 plum for the Pennsylvania manufacturers in whose behalf Lobbyist Grundy has so successfully "spent and been spent."

But if Mr. Grundy is as proud as he appears to be of his lobbying activities, he ought not to flinch from being compelled to register as a federal lobbyist. And he ought to be willing to obey the rigid regulations which a legal system of public lobbying would set up.

Then when he "passes around the hat" for campaign contributions, he would be publicly tagged as a lobbyist. And candidates for Senator and Representative in Congress, in whose behalf he passes the hat, would also be publicly tagged as the recipients of campaign funds collected by a lobbyist bent upon influencing legislation in favor of those from whom he made his collections.

That is what Lobbyist Grundy would have to do if the Legislature of Massachusetts or the Legislature of Wisconsin were the field of his lobbying activities.

And he would also be compelled in those states to certify publicly at the end of every session how much he has spent as a lobbyist and for what the money had been spent.

Surely the national Congress ought to be as vigilant in the regulation of public lobbying and the registration and control of all public lobbyists as are the legislatures of Massachusetts and Wisconsin.

Lobbyist Grundy's testimony before the Senate committee is a challenge to the Congress to follow the progressive example of Massachusetts and Wisconsin by penalizing secret lobbying and putting the curb of rigid regulation on all lobbyists who ply their trade in the open.

Pinched in the Street?

Prof. Fisher Offers Comfort.

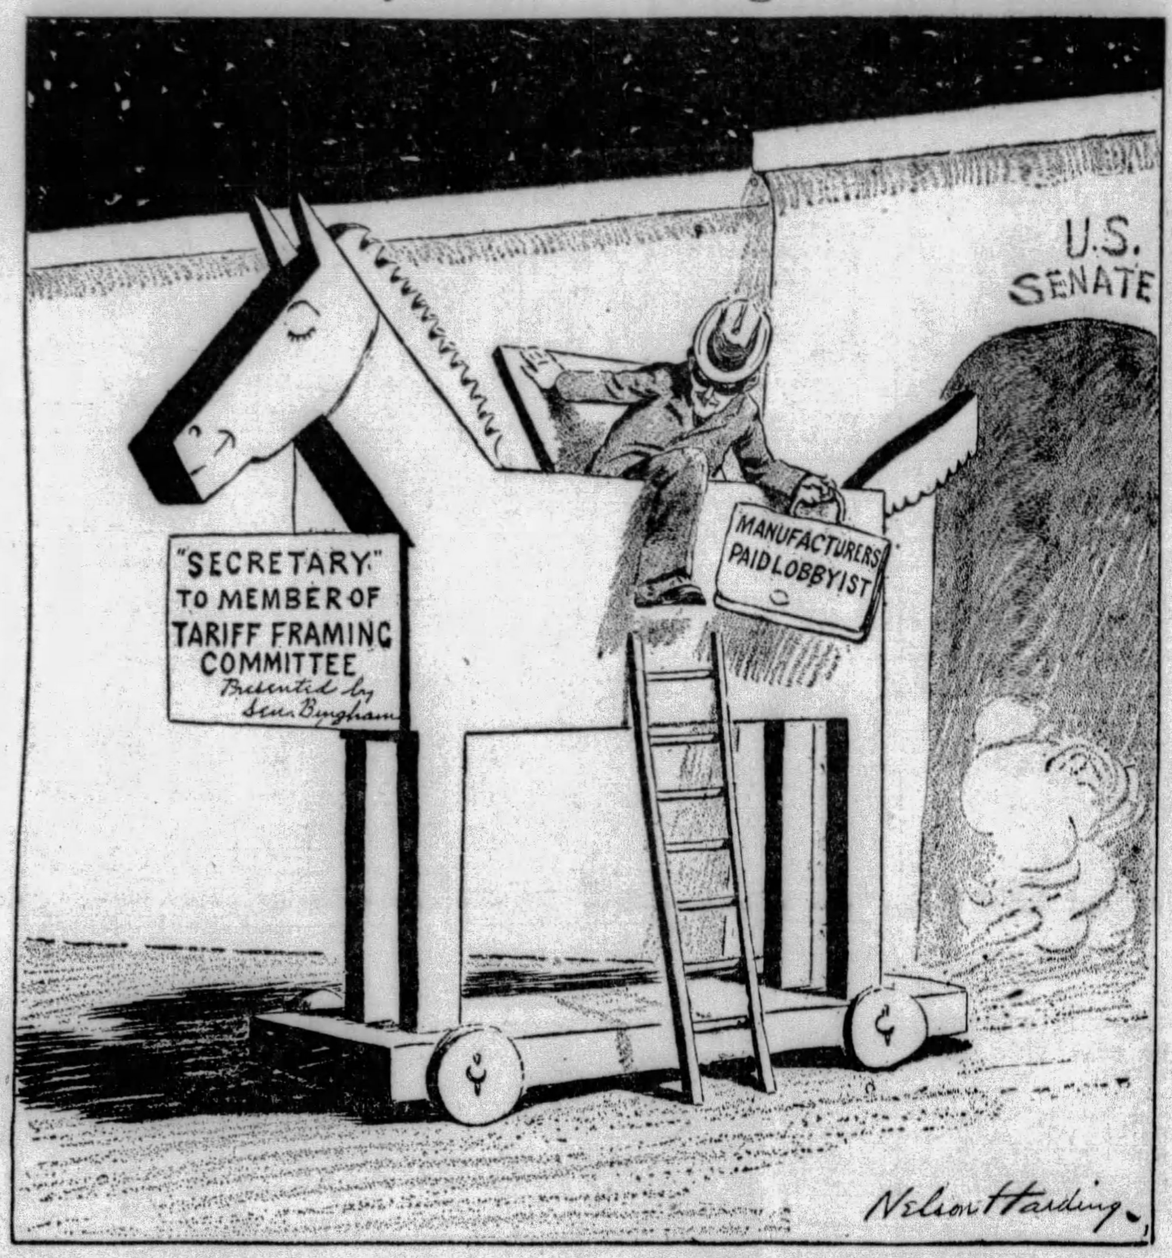
That comforts the few able to hold on, but it doesn't help the crowd WIPED OUT.

Prof. Fisher says truly that stocks are worth more than the highest prices at which they have ever sold. Mergers have brought about enormous economies, increasing the values by increasing profits.

To that may be added this: "The international income now exceeding $1,000,000,000, with the eight-hour day and the five-day week, increasing the use of luxuries, is bound to encourage and absorb production."

The fortunate are those who have bought what they can digest and hold.

Horse of Troy Had Nothing on This One!



It was a very crafty gift,
That wooden horse of Troy,
And when accepted by the town
Seemed but a harmless toy.

But once within the city's gates
Its purpose was revealed,
For it was filled with well-armed Greeks
And then Troy's fate was sealed. —N. H.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Q. and A.

THE senatorial investigation of the tariff scramble has simmered down to a two-citizen duel between Q. and A.

"Bugs" Baer

Q. Do you believe in the Constitution?

A. Which one?

Q. Are you for world peace?

A. Yes, if it ain't too violent.

Q. Why did Shearer go to Europe?

A. I'm not interested in that. I want to know why the fool came back.

Q. Did you ever have your seat contested in a street car or the Senate?

Q. Are you for the American flag, freedom, liberty and vice versa?

A. I am. Especially the versa.

Q. Why did you advocate a protective tariff on bootleg booze?

A. I wanted to save an American industry.

Q. Is it true that you employed four lobbyists?

A. No. I employed one. He brought three friends along.

Q. Do you consider that ethical?

A. I do not. But I couldn't reason with him.

Q. Is it true that most of your speeches were delivered in the whispering gallery?

A. The Chinaman must have been a spy.

Q. Are you honest, reliable and so forth?

A. I refuse to answer. It might incriminate me.

Q. Did you ever take money from the enemy?

Q. Do you consider the word falsification a personal pronoun?

A. No. What I said was that we could raise enough money to sweeten the Great Salt Lake.

Q. Did you pay by cash or check?

A. Both. First we paid by check. When they bounced back we had to make good in cash.

Q. The inquiry is adjourned. We apologize to the defendant for his embarrassing answers. This is a nation force the people, huff the people and bite the people. Let's scramm over to Gus' joint and put on the nosebag. After all, there is no law against lobbying.

IT DIDN'T BUDGE A RIVET

By Herbert Kaufman

SEVEN BILLION dollars' worth of air castles and unhatched eggs disappeared from view between Thursday and Friday of last week.

But all the country's skyscrapers, department stores and industrial plants are STILL standing.

Sound finance had so long anticipated the inevitable, that prosperity escaped without a budged rivet or foundation tremble when the bubble burst.

Jamming the situation into a nutshell, the wiseacres who knew better than Federal Reserve warnings or balance sheet facts, and regardlessly margined faiths and fortunes on an INDEFINITE bull movement, paid the entire piper's bill. Lambs were created to yield their fleece.

There is no CRISIS—not the remotest possibility of a panic.

The bears simply have what the bulls couldn't hold. Vanished paper profits were just so much rainbow-gold; they never existed.

THE assets behind each corporation listed on the Stock Exchange are intrinsically the same this MORNING as they were a week ago.

Nothing has meanwhile happened to affect company prospects or earning power.

Factories are running as usual, motor plants turning out scheduled quotas of cars, grocers placing normal orders for case goods, and the consumption of gasoline, branded merchandise, drugs, cigarets, electrical equipment, chemicals and steel products isn't even aware of Wall Street's existence.

SECURITY values have depreciated, but the tangible property upon which investment bases valuations hasn't shrunk or deteriorated an iota.

Those who have been gambling on their rise and fall, in utter disregard of directors' reports and budget set-ups, are no better than crap-shooters trusting to sheer luck for the winning pass.

Reckless optimism, blind to dividend rates, technical analyses and accountants' figures, might as well try to beat the percentages of horse racing or of roulette.

The odds of Wall Street are all in favor of the seasoned observer, the millionaire and the professional trader.

Inexperience and limited means can't survive against the highly organized student of economic drifts, or against inside information and board control.

THE money masters never gamble; they don't have to. They wait for certainties—or RIG them. And they don't signal their curves to the public.

David's was the only sling-shot of record that ever felled a Goliath. And he never tried it a second time.

"They" took Tom Lawson and "They" took Dan Sully; "They" took General Motors from Durant as "they" will take the measure of Jesse Livermore again, when he becomes a cross-purposing factor.

Buy outright and buy under qualified guidance. Most of the fools who didn't, are wondering how they'll meet the next rent or mortgage payment.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD! ∴

By Elsie Robinson

YOU have two voices.

The voice that talks to the world does amazing things. You can never be quite sure what it will do, for although that voice comes out of your own throat, it does not always seem a part of you. Indeed, it often seems a detestable stranger. Listening, you can hardly believe your ears. That boasting and flattering—that wheedling and whining—you don't WANT to talk like that! That is not the REAL YOU.

That voice that talks to the world, that represents you to the world, you actually hate it sometimes. You can neither understand nor control it—but the voice that talks to you, yourself, which no one else ever hears, you can understand THAT voice. It says what you really want to say. It is the REAL YOU, hidden in the secret places of your heart.

There is kindness, honesty and courage in that voice which the world does not guess exists in you. While that Other Voice nags, the secret voice is warm tenderness and pity. While that Other Voice bullies and boasts, the secret voice cries out for the simplicity and modesty you—the REAL YOU—love. While that Other Voice fibs and plays the coward, the real voice pleads for courage and truth.

No one but you, knows the truth about yourself—that braver, kinder, stronger self whose whisper your soul hears. If they could only know life would be so different. Where many now despise you, they would respect you. Where they now hate, they would love. BUT, SOMEHOW, YOU CAN'T RELEASE THAT INNER VOICE. Fear and foolishness hold you back. The world hears it only in snatches, such brief snatches! Most of the time that Other Voice drowns it out, that Other Voice which seems so alien to you.

* * *

It comforts you to read these words, doesn't it? It's a tremendous relief to know that some one has discovered YOUR SECRET—that some one knows how much better you are than you seem. Yes? I'm glad. But don't let it stop at that. These words which have made you glad aren't YOUR SECRET, my friend. They're EVERYONE'S SECRET. EVERYONE HAS TWO VOICES.

Those people whom you dislike and disdain have other voices within them, just as you have. They, too, are better than they seem. And they, too, suffer in their loneliness and defeat.

If your Other Voice has betrayed you, you may be sure it has also betrayed them. For the sake of YOUR inner voice try to listen to theirs.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE abdomen is largely filled with the massive apparatus that digests, absorbs and handles food—the stomach, the coiling bowels, and so on.

At the back of the abdomen, in the small of the back, lie the kidneys, and below is their associate, the bladder; they are the apparatus which weed out from the blood the poison by-products of the activities of our bodies and ultimately expels them.

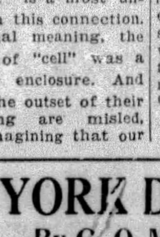
Thus far the bodies of the mouse and the man are very much alike. Both possess limbs and chests and abdomens, hearts and spinal cords and bowels.



H. G. Wells

But when we come to the lower end of the body we find a serious divergence between human and murine anatomy. A man terminates in a smooth, pink expanse of skin, but a mouse continues into a long and ingeniously movable tail.

In ourselves the tail is represented by a useless little curling end of the vertebral column that does not even project from the surface of the body. At least, this is true of our adult selves; as embryos we had perfectly good tails, as we shall tell later.

2. About Cells; the Lesser Lives within our Life.

We have shown in Chapter One that the human body is fundamentally a machine. We have now to explain that it is not a simple machine. It is a great mechanical system made up of an almost infinite multitude of smaller machines.

Now nearly everyone knows that the blood is full of billions of microscopic bodies called blood corpuscles and that most of our bodies are built up of units called "cells," as a wall is built of bricks or a cotton strand of fibres.

The word "cell" is a most unfortunate word in this connection. The old original meaning, the proper meaning of "cell" was a compartment, an enclosure. And many people at the outset of their biological reading are misled, therefore, into imagining that our living tissues have a sort of honeycomb structure.

Nothing could be farther from the reality. The proper word should be "corpuscle" (little body) and not cell at all.

The misnomer arose very easily and naturally. Hooke, in 1667, peered down a microscope at a thin slice of dead cork, and found it to consist of an enormous number of tiny empty boxes fitted close together, and cells seemed to be the only proper word for them. Very gradually the interest of investigators shifted from the boxes to the contents.

In living cork, or in the other tissues of a plant, the cell walls are inhabited by pieces of a slimy, gelatinous substance called protoplasm, and it is to these contents, and not to their prisons, that the word cell is now applied. It is the protoplasm and not its garment which makes the cell.

Most cells, but not all of them, are microscopic. Some vegetable cells are big enough to see, the cells of elder pith for example, and any egg before it begins to develop—the yolk of a new laid hen's egg, for example, is a single cell—but the very great majority of cells are invisibly minute. And they are things with a structure of their own.

Take for example, a shred of body substance of any kind—say, a muscle from the stomach and—put it under a microscope.

It consists of a number of separate minute flat plates of living substance, lying side by side with their edges touching each other, and separated by thin, wavy outlines, and each has in its middle a conspicuous round body called the nucleus. That is one sort of cell. The "tissue" of which it is the living part, is called "pavement epitheliam."

In other "tissues," muscle, bone, liver stuff or nervous substance for example, the cells assume other forms. They may be flat or round or cubical, or star-shaped or drawn out into thin threads and fibers—but it is always possible to make out the essential fact, that the living substance of the tissue we examine, whatever part of the body it comes from, is an aggregate of an enormous number of cells.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By C. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Sunday on Grand street is a frothy interlude in the teeming life of the lower East Side. The thoroughfare is the Ghetto's Broadway, and a bubbling fount of activity while the rest of New York indulges a sabbatical calm.

Shops are wide open and a hundred and one various sales are under way. The gutters are noisy with hurdy-gurdies and street bands. Bargain hunting is not confined to local dwellers. Smart autos from uptown debouch shoppers from Park avenue and Madison.

It is said Grand street offers many bargains in dresses and millinery that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Style copyists roam through the fashionable ateliers in de luxe centers northward and several days later their "discoveries" are duplicated in Grand street windows.

The merchants like to bargain. They have little interest in the customer who does not haggle. The first price is a "feeler." And after this come the opera bouffe bantering, deprecatory shrugs, shrill cries and ingenious but delicious gestures of despair that characterize a sale.

The pool hall is still the favorite haunt of youthful Grand street sheiks. A group of them in flaming youth ties, wasp-waisted coats and rakishly dipped hats are always loitering out front to wink or skylark with belles of the neighborhood.

Grand street girls have much of the flair of Broadway sisters—the same poppy-red lips, latest bob and such, but are not so designing. If they are "picked up" they do not expect more than a visit to the movies and a soda afterward. They are "wolking goils" who are at home early.

Grand street has turned out many illustrious citizens, as the roster of the yearly uptown dinner of "The Grand Street Boys" shows. This is an organization of the "from poverty to riches" heroes who were born there, and includes, among others, Eddie Cantor, the actor, and Max Steuer, the great criminal lawyer.

* * *

More than 50 per cent of the "Southern tea rooms" are conducted by former Kentuckyians. They are mostly widows with a cultural charm. As a rule they send back home for the old family cook—a venerable and buxom colored woman who "cooks by ear." As a result such places are usually "turning them away." One, starting modestly three years ago in the basement of an outmoded brown stone front, is now paying $75,000 yearly rent in a new building in the Grand Central zone.

* * *

A roaming amateur photographer has kodaked some quaint nooks around Manhattan that bring out the same pastoral idylls that give the small town its slumberous charm. Far up on Broadway, flanked by ornate apartment spires, nestles a white-fronted colonial cottage with brick chimney and lightning rods. A few steps off Riverside drive is a gurgling fresh water spring where the thirsty kneel to assuage thirst. And the old oaken bucket hanging in the rock-ribbed well is not only a memory. It still hangs in such a well at Broadway and Two Hundred and Eighth street. A mint farm may be seen at Broadway and Two Hundred Fifteenth street. Even in Central Park, so close to the city's throbbing heartbeat, sheep graze and a white-faced milk cow looks upon the whirling world in bovine sadness.

* * *

* * *

And on Forty-second street is a four-chair barbershop conducted by four young men who on a boyish dare came from the same block of a street in a little Sicilian town as stowaways. Each now owns his own home.

* * *

From a lady in Walnut Hills, Cincinnati: "Your picture in a magazine was a striking likeness of a young man some 20 years ago who took me to Chester Park and tried roughly to kiss me on the way home."

Not I. In those days I never went in for anything more than a little light necking.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU are making efforts to get your good friend to join a club or organization that he feels he cannot afford to join.

Because you like him, you want him associated with you as closely as possible and you think it might help him also.

He is having a fight to overcome his scruples and what is to be the result if it financially presses too hard.

Are you going to pay the difference?

Are you inviting him to go in as your guest?

Oh, no, certainly not. He would not permit that if you would. But you are giving him a bad half hour quite frequently. And perhaps you are weakening a financial morale that he has developed while his inclinations are quite the reverse.

If your friend has brains let him use them. Be kind and stop urging when he says he "can't afford it."
